CHEAPER GAS QUESTION UP TO CITY COUNCIL

Contract With Lowell Gas Light
Co. Expires Today—New York
Company a Bidder

In the absence of Mayor Murphy at the regular meeting of the municipal council this morning, Commissioner Carmichael presided and routine matters were transacted. Daniel J. Donahue, Esq., counsel for the Public Service Lighting Corp. of New York, was present and said his company could save the city thousands of dollars on its lighting contract and at his request a hearing was set for Wednesday, Dec. 15. Several garage and gas-

MERRIMACK RIVER PROJECT

Cong. Rogers Will Enter Appeal
From the Adverse Report of Army Engineer

A conference, which in reality was an indignation meeting, of the members of the Merrimack Valley Waterway commission was held in Lawrence this morning for the purpose of formally protesting against the recent adverse report of Col. Craighill, U. S. army engineer, on the project to deepen and render navigable the Merrimack river from Lowell to the sea. There were present representative citizens from Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill and Newburyport. The Lowell delegation consisted of President Robert F. Marden and Secretary John H. Murphy of the Lowell board of trade, Congressman John Jacob Rogers, former city engineer George Bowers, James J. McManmon and Capt. W. P. White. The meeting was presided over by A. B. Sutherland, of Lawrence, and George E. Rix, of Lawrence served as clerk. President Sutherland explained in his opening remarks, that the purpose of the meeting was to take action upon the adverse report of Col. Craighill, on the Merrimack river proposition and he introduced Congressman Rogers to outline a plan by which the water-

MILK DEALER FINED

LEO J. SHERLOCK IN POLICE COURT
BECAUSE WATERED MILK WAS FOUND IN HIS POSSESSION

Leo J. Sherlock, a local milk dealer, was found guilty of having in his possession milk to which water had been added by Judge Enright in police court this forenoon. Ordered to pay a fine of $40. He appeared, George F. Toye, who appeared for the defendant, produced a witness in the person of State Inspector Daniel McCarthy, who testified that he went to the defendant's milk room after the complaint had been made by the local inspector, Melvin Master, and took samples at the request of Mr. Sherlock. Some of the samples, he said, after being analyzed, showed that water had been added. The samples taken were from milk purchased by the defendant from producers. This was offered in an endeavor to convince the court that the producers, and not Sherlock, were to blame for the watered milk, but His Honor adjudged Sherlock guilty and imposed the minimum fine.

PRISREND CAPTURED BY THE BULGARIANS

Evacuation of Monastir in Progress
—More Serbians Taken Prisoners—
German Positions on Belgian Coast
Bombarded—British Casualties Now
600,000—Kitchener Back in London

Prisrend, close to the Albanian border and last of the important Serbian towns in the path of the invaders pushing the Serbians westward, has been captured by the Bulgarians. More than 3000 men were taken prisoners and eight cannon were captured when the city fell, it is announced by Berlin.

Evacuation of Monastir, the only other Serbian city of importance that has been left to King Peter's forces, already has been announced and its occupation by the Bulgarians is expected shortly.

Teutonic forces have driven back the

LISTON FOR CAPTAIN STAR HALFBACK UNANIMOUS CHOICE FOR HEAD OF HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL TEAM

James Liston, the Belvidere speed marvel and star halfback on the Lowell high school eleven was unanimously elected captain of the 1916 football team at a meeting held by the squad immediately following the adjournment of the school session today. The meeting was held in Room 3 with Capt. James "Roundy" Roane, the presiding officer.

The election of officers was the first matter taken up and when it was announced that Liston was the unanimous choice for captain of the 1916 team a great cheer went up. Liston, in a neat speech, thanked his fellow athletes and expressed the hope that the team next year will be in the running for the state championship.

After the election, the following warriors were announced as winners of the coveted "L" sweaters: Roane, Liston, Lynch, McLeod, McManmon, McCann, McAdams, Desmond, Quinn, Rulledge, Walker, Heathcock, Brown, Greenburg and Coughlin. The sweaters will be black with a red "L." The winners will have the Exeter neck.

Shortly before the adjournment of the meeting Coach Conway and Faculty Manager William H. Dennett addressed the boys and congratulated them on the excellent showing made against Lawrence and the other big high school teams.

NEW HAVEN TRIAL
Defense Won at Least a Temporary Victory
Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The defense at the trial of the 11 former directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co. under the Sherman anti-trust law won at least a temporary victory today when they succeeded in raising a doubt in the mind of the court as to the admissibility of evidence pertaining to the acquisition in 1907 of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway Co.

Judge Hunt, after listening to an hour and half of argument, announced that he was unable to decide the relevancy of the evidence without further study and excluded it for the time being.

The defense argued that the New York, Westchester & Boston was not projected for carrying on interstate commerce and was not acquired by the New Haven for that purpose. If the evidence is definitely excluded it will bar out testimony which the government purposes to introduce in connection with steps taken to amend the charter of the road which might bring out sensational revelations of political activity. Some of the Westchester stock sold to the New Haven at prices alleged to have been excessive is said to have been held by prominent politicians.

MEXICAN TEACHERS HERE
Group Was Introduced to President
Wilson Today—To Study School Systems in United States

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—President Wilson today shook hands with a group of Mexican school teachers sent to the United States by General Carranza to study school systems. They were introduced by Counsellor Polk of the state department.

THROWN FROM BICYCLE
Peter Dozols of Middlesex street met with a peculiar accident early this afternoon while riding a bicycle on Branch street, near the Franklin school. The lad was riding toward the depot, and when he attempted to avert striking an automobile which appeared from a side street, his bicycle skidded on the wet pavement and turned completely around. Young Dozols was thrown against a post and sustained a slight injury to his back. He was taken to his home and treated by the family physician.

MOTION TO DISMISS INDICTMENTS DENIED

Counsel for Hamburg-American Line Officials Attack Govern-
ment's Case—Defense Opens

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Counsel for the four Hamburg-American line officials on trial for conspiring to deceive and defraud the United States assailed by legal argument today the case which the government has presented by witnesses against them, and lost every point of their contention.

Federal Judge Howe, presiding at the trial, heard the argument in the absence of the jury. Judge Howe denied the defendant's motion to strike from the record all testimony concerning the chartering and movements of the steamer Marina Quesada and later over-ruled a motion to dismiss all the indictments.

Far from being the usual perfunctory motion which is sandwiched into nearly every trial between testimony for the prosecution and the defence, argument on today's motions was protracted, included a brief review of virtually all the testimony, and was buttressed by citations from many legal authorities. In the vigorous assault against the government's case, the defense occupied the floor more than four-fifths of the time, the government contenting itself with a brief sketch of the testimony as the district attorney and his staff reviewed it.

The motion to dismiss denied, the defense opened its case at the beginning of the afternoon session.

IS NOT GUILTY TWO EXPLOSIONS

Charge of Manslaughter
Against Chas. Guthrie
is Dismissed

The manslaughter complaint against Charles U. Guthrie, the chauffeur in charge of the automobile of Mrs. Rose J. Gilbride, which ran over and instantly killed four-year-old Stepan Jackowicz of Middlesex street directly in front of his home on Sunday, November 14, was dismissed by Judge Enright in police court this forenoon. Since the accident occurred, Guthrie has been held in $1000 bonds.

About a week ago an inquest into the sad fatality was held before Associate Justice John J. Pickman and several witnesses were closely examined. Judge Pickman's finding on the inquest was submitted to Judge Enright today and after reviewing it His Honor ordered Guthrie's discharge.

The defendant was represented by James J. Kerwin.

Judge Pickman's finding reviews at considerable length the circumstances of the fatality and concludes as follows: "I find that on Sunday, the fourteenth day of November last past, about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, that an automobile owned by Rose J. Gilbride of Lowell, in said county, was being operated by her chauffeur, Chas. U. Guthrie, on the northern side of Middlesex street, in said Lowell; that when said automobile was being run a short distance west of South street from its entrance into said Middlesex street, a child about four years of age, named Stepan Jackowicz, who was running on said street, was struck by said automobile and sustained injuries thereby that caused his death; that the accident was caused by the skidding of the rear part of said automobile when it was being run over and upon the sidewalk from said Middlesex street to prevent injury to said child."

"I find that the death of said Stepan Jackowicz was not caused by the criminal negligence of said Charles U. Guthrie, nor of Rose J. Gilbride, the owner of said automobile."

54 HOUR LAW
Applies to Women Engaged in Mental Pursuits, Says Court

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—The state supreme court today ruled that the law limiting the employment of women to 54 hours a week applied to those engaged in mental pursuits as well as to those ordinarily described as laborers. The court overruled exceptions taken by the John T. Connor Co., which was convicted of having employed Elsie Finn as a cashier for more than 54 hours in one week. The defendant contended that Miss Finn was not a laborer in the sense described in the statute. The court said that the working hours of women had been limited on the ground that they were under an industrial disability and that the public welfare was injured by affect deteriorating their natural vigor, adding:

"This reason applies quite as strongly where the labor is not purely physical but is also mental. The words 'labor' and 'laboring' have no hard and fast meaning."

PRES. WILSON'S MESSAGE

ADDRESS WENT TO THE PUBLIC
PRINTER TODAY—TO BE READ
NEXT TUESDAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—President Wilson's address to congress went to the public printer today. The president put in the whole of yesterday at work on the document, completing it last night.

The message, which is comparatively brief, will be read by the president at a joint session of the two houses of congress a week from today. It deals primarily with national preparedness, other questions on which the president hopes to see legislation being left for treatment in other addresses to be read to congress after the Christmas holidays.

LITERARY STYLE

Spoke Before the Middlesex Women's Club

Mr. Meredith Nicholson, writer of many successful popular novels and essays of distinction, was the lecturer before the Middlesex Women's club yesterday afternoon, and whether due to the best sellers, the Atlantic essay or whippers of his attractive personality, one of the largest audiences of the season turned out to hear him. All who did so were well repaid for their interest. In an hour of the purest literary enjoyment, Mr. Nicholson traveled from Plato to William Dean Howells and crowded about a score of splendid lectures into a vivid condensation which he calls "Style and the Man."

Mr. Nicholson is more the reader than the lecturer. Yesterday afternoon he confined himself religiously to his manuscript, and it may be confessed without detracting from his distinction that he read a little too quickly for the peace of mind of the average reporter or even of the average audience. He would touch on a famous name, and say a very brilliant thing, but while we were admiring or smiling, as the case might be, presto! over the fence and into another literary field to gather another crop of analytic thrusts and keen descriptive passages. To follow Mr. Nicholson closely is to ride in a roller coaster of glorified criticism. A shorter paper read a little more slowly would make a more enjoyable, if less exhilarating, lecture.

Style, according to the lecturer, is not a matter of abstract literary excellence; it is the author's revelation of self. Shakespeare, Milton, Keats, Byron and the other great poets stamped their works with their distinctive individuality so that the poem of the one could not be taken for the poem of the other. Hazlitt and Lamb showed their different temperaments in their writings, and Aldrich, whom he described as "the first of our poets to find a lodging in my heart," stamped his personality on ten lines of "Memory" which Mr. Nicholson thinks the best lines ever written on the subject.

Children have an individual way of saying things, declared the lecturer, and in every locality there are persons whose sayings have a tang and a turn of thought all their own. There is nothing more painful than the young, high brow, and nothing more charming than upspilled children. He also said that it is a pity we cannot find some way of sneaking the bible into the schools. It is so full of poetry, grandeur and richness of thought. Speaking of the decay of reading he said: "Mr. Ford's coal oil bugles and the motion picture shops make reading a lost art, but somewhere somebody is always reading a good book." He spoke more specifically of the atmosphere of Indiana, saying, "In the corn belt, the telephone is largely used for literary conversations; literature is not going out, and God knows that we are working at culture hard enough."

Speaking of writers, on style he dwell for some time with the ancients, particularly Plato and Horace. Coming down to leaders of American literature, he said: "It has become the fashion for young professors to deride American literature. Emerson, Hawthorne, Lowell, Holmes and the others have come in for criticism. As an advocate of the open shop in criticism, I may declare that I like Swift better than Addison and Steele whose prose lacks variety. We hear a great deal about style and inspiration, but from the works of Spenser, De Quincey, Stevenson, Pater, Frederick Harrison, etc. we learn that style is the result of taking infinite pains. Corrections are often more the result of inspiration than the original form. There is happy luck in the first thought, but there is also the subconscious preparation which Shakespeare and Tennyson believed in. Taste changes and the lecturer can imagine an editor sending back "Sir Roger de Coverly" with the injunction: "Inject some pep into the old guy."

Mr. Nicholson spoke of eloquence as the rarest quality in literature. He contrasted Everett's speech at Gettysburg with that of Lincoln and said that while the former may have sounded more eloquent, the latter will live forever as a sonorous and beautiful psalm. He does not believe in the shewiness of the extemporaneous speech, having found that "orators are something of a liar."

Here he contrasted the style of the romanticist and the realist, saying "Words must make us love, sea and feel. The 'Rise of Silas Lapham' is within our common experience, but when Beatrix comes down the stairs in 'Henry Esmond' we must hear the rustle of her gown and hear the clink of her pretty slippers." He paid a warm tribute to the style of "Blackboy, Arnold and Newman. Arnold had great power of statement, was a master of irony and had few equals in the power over repetition. Of Newman he said: "It was unfortunate that he confined himself so much to theology and to subjects that have no permanent interest. He has been rarely equaled in the range of English prose."

"Europe studiously ignores American literature," said Mr. Nicholson, "with the possible exception of Poe, Walt Whitman and Stephen Crane. Yet he refuses to be swayed by such judgment. Hawthorne was a classic in his own day. He is commanding, imposing, august. His language never lost its feeling and color and the cumulative power of 'The Scarlet Letter' is great. Lowell had knowledge, skill and effectiveness. He was the most cultivated man we ever produced—the last of our great readers. Emerson's books were like his personality. Though a little patronizing, he arrests the attention and his power over the imagination is wonderful. He refrained from pretentiousness as such, being filled with his deep and mighty message, and being concerned mainly with the preaching of it. He was beneficent, sanguine and wise."

Back to Europe again, and to Ruskin, Macaulay, Johnson, Carlyle, Papey! If Mr. Nicholson could call the spirits back, he would have Dr. Johnson and Carlyle at dinner, with Papey peeping in. Macaulay is a "gentlemanly whip" driving a coach and four—a smooth driver. His pen never scolded or squeaked. Stevenson liked good phrases; he had a zest for life and had the grace of a light touch. Then to Mr. Henry James: He has few lean streaks, but he is provocative. He is not a little elated but a flowing well; he is often incomprehensible. Mr. Nicholson sometimes thinks of him as rising to hand a hat a cup of tea. Mr. James falls, spilling the tea, knocking over the gold fish and crashing on the piano keys. Then he looks up with surprise at the harmony he has evoked.

There was a final word about Jane Austen, whose "Pride and Prejudice" Scott read three times; George Meredith and William Dean Howells. Finally, the lecturer said—or read—that style is as much of a mystery as ever, and nobody disputed the point. All had been to a feast.

"and still the wonder grow That one small head could carry all he knew."

AUTOMOBILE IN POND

FARMER DIDN'T HEAR AUTO HORN AND JOHN LOCKE TOOK A COLD PLUNGE

Some time during the early hours of yesterday morning a big National automobile belonging to John Locke of this city skidded on the wet Ashua boulevard and landed wheels up in a pond at the right hand side of the road at Washburn's brush factory, Tyngsboro. Mr. Locke, according to witnesses, was driving his car down the hill at a high rate of speed when a farmer's team appeared in front. He sounded his horn, but the driver of the team apparently did not hear it and when Locke applied his brakes the car turned two complete circles on the highway, crashed through the heavy wooden fence and dove into the pond. When the machine whirled around Mr. Locke was thrown out but not seriously injured.

"CALLED THEIR HAND"

FORMER MAYOR O'DONNELL WANTS PROMISES FOR NEXT YEAR CARRIED OUT AT PRESENT TIME.

Former Mayor O'Donnell "put it" strongly to the members of the present administration at the Legion street school last evening when he called their hand on the proposition to seize land for playground purposes in Chambers street.

It was the first public appearance of the candidates for municipal office since the primaries, and they all assembled at the ward four polling place in response to an invitation from the Ward Four Improvement club to attend its meeting.

A large gathering of voters was present and all of the candidates were there. Mr. Philip Harley presided, and Mr. Richard Lyons served as secretary. The Ward Four Improvement club is an organization formed for the purpose of having that section of the city properly looked after, and to have it receive its share of improvements.

It was given out that the people of that section want the city to seize certain unoccupied land in Chambers street for playground purposes for the children of that section, and the club is out to have the improvement put into effect.

Mayor Murphy spoke in favor of the proposition and promised that if elected he would bring about the matter next year. He also promised the club other improvements for the district.

Commissioner Morse also promised to favor the project next year, if elected. Former Mayor O'Donnell commended the club upon the laudable purpose of its existence, and said that he was pleased to learn that the organization was an improvement club rather than essentially a political organization.

Continuing, former Mayor O'Donnell said substantially: "Men seeking election have promised you that they will vote to seize this land that you desire for a playground. If elected, they would probably promise you most anything. But why not put their sincerity to the test? Why not sit down tonight and prepare a petition asking the city council to seize the land in Chambers street for playground purposes? I will sign it with you. Go to city hall tomorrow morning to the meeting of the municipal council and present your petition. I will go with you and will advocate the passage of an order to seize the land. Two members of the government have already promised that they will favor the proposition—if elected. Why not do it now? Not a dollar will have to be borrowed for the seizure of the land, at this time, and the city will not be taxed a dollar additional, because the city treasury has $40,000 left over from the street improvement appropriations which cannot be spent for its original purpose this year, and which could be used to pay for the land in Chambers street."

Former Mayor O'Donnell then pointed out the improvements that had taken place in the ward four section during his incumbency as mayor, including the widening and straightening of Union street, the paving of Gorham street from Union street to Davis square; the appropriation for the South common bandstand, etc. He stated that whenever the residents of ward four had requested a needed public improvement while he was mayor it was given to them without delay, and without the proviso—if elected.

Other speakers were Abel R. Campbell, Hon. George H. Brown, James E. Donnelly, Daniel Cosgrove, John E. Crowley, Peter F. McMenimon, William H. Stafford, John J. Gilbride and Capt. James W. Jantzen. Rep. elect John J. O'Donnell is treasurer of the club.

RAILROAD LEGISLATION

SUBJECT PROBABLY WILL NOT BE PRESENTED AT THIS SESSION OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Legislation affecting the railroad and the interstate commerce commission in the opinion of administration leaders in close touch with the subject probably will not be presented at this session of congress.

There is pending in the senate committee on interstate commerce the bill considered at length last session to give the commission jurisdiction over the issuance of railroad securities.

There also is a movement which has attained considerable impetus to enlarge the membership of the commission. Both subjects undoubtedly will be given attention early in the coming session, but it is doubtful if either will be pressed for action for another year.

Regarding the railroad securities bill a difference of opinion has arisen in the minds of democratic members as to the extent of authority that should be given the commission over railroad stocks and bonds. Some think that compulsory publicity of railroad issuances would be sufficient while others believe the commission should have direct regulation of the issuance of securities.

As a result of this difference of opinion together with the unusual conditions brought about in regard to transportation requirements during the war there is a movement among leading democrats in congress to turn the whole question of railroad securities and the enlargement of the interstate commerce commission over to a joint congressional committee for thorough investigation and report.

With regard to reorganization of the commission suggestions have been made that the membership be increased from seven to nine and that the commission be divided into departmental. Senator Newlands, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, said today that this subject, together with the railroad securities bill, probably would be taken up for consideration but in his opinion such matters would be submitted to a thorough study by a joint committee.

DECLINES $50,000 OFFER

FORD REFUSES TO TURN CRUISE OF THE OSCAR II INTO A MOVING PICTURE EXPEDITION

DETROIT, Nov. 30.—Henry Ford yesterday, as a side line of his peace propaganda, declined a proffer which meant a cash payment of more than $50,000 to him, conditioned on turning the cruise of the Oscar II into a moving picture expedition.

The proffer was made by representatives of Commodore J. Stuart Blackton of New York, who trailed Mr. Ford to Detroit, only to be met with his refusal. Exclusive privileges of filming the Hague legation was what the commodore wants. Mr. Ford registered extreme disapproval when he heard of the proposition.

"The men in the trenches know for what we are working. The news has been spread among them by the greatest of agencies, the press," he said.

"I have received many assurances of this and know that they are with us heart and soul; have all faith that on Christmas day the world will see a general strike—that on that day of days war-worn men will climb from the trenches, throw down their arms and start home.

"And then militarism will be dead, dead forevermore."

Careless of criticism, fired by one purpose, regarding expense as no obstacle whatever and holding that the time because of the birthday of the Prince of Peace is most opportune, he is so arranging his affairs that he may be absent for months without disturbing the activity of his industry.

Mr. Ford will leave for New York on Wednesday night. Mrs. Ford and his son Edsel will remain at home, but Mr. Ford places his plan even beyond the attractions of home at Christmas.

"I am going on the ocean," he declared firmly. "The hazards of storm, submarines, torpedoes and all other dangers are nothing compared to the principle involved."

"This principle is merely that militarism must die. Ever since the war began I have been considering means of ending it. The thought has been with me constantly. I have been waiting only for an opportunity. That opportunity has come."

"There was an official truce last year, men ceasing to kill men for a short time on Christmas day. This year there will be another truce. The men will come out of their trenches, and if they go back in they are fools. If England will have done it, if England had not come in when it had, militarism would have overridden France and everything else."

"I'm pro-English if the war is stopped now. I motored through that country for more than 7000 miles, and all the time in that three months or more I never heard a cross word, the English being the kindest and quietest people I have ever met."

"I have never been in Germany," he said.

Mr. Ford stated that the Oscar II would go to Copenhagen, then to Stockholm and from there to The Hague.

At The Hague the foundation of an international court would be established by the 300 or more peace delegates, and the invitations would be sent to all the conflicting nations to send representatives with a view of arbitration.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

KEITH'S THEATRE

There's a fine opportunity for even the savage beast to beothed at Keith's this week for the program presents some of the most charming music heard here in a long time, this feature being provided by the Seven Colonial Belles, six instrumentalists and a singer. As their name would imply, the Belles are a charm in themselves, in looks and costume, but the essential of vaudeville, popularly known as "the goods." They have the goods, musically as well as in appearance. The instrumental music is purveyed through the medium of the string, wood and reed instruments, a most pleasing departure from the general run of "musical acts" in which harmony battles with volume for supremacy, volume generally winning out. The music of the Belles is sweet to the ear and satisfying to the more exacting musical critic for it is of a high order and is relieved entirely of the clap-trap stuff sometimes dinned with the name of music. Miss Dorothy Sherman, the pianist; Miss Blanche Morrill, first violin; Miss Margaret Fallentin, second violin; Miss Betty Garvin, viola; Miss Audrey Munroe, cellist; Miss Genevieve Davis is the soprano. The act is exquisitely staged, the scene being an old-fashioned colonial room at twilight with the players and singers gathered around a cheerful fireplace. The good old melody, "Just a Song at Twilight," is sung by Miss Davis, softly played by the musicians. The string quartet, "Beautiful Blue Danube," was next played, Miss Davis giving it a vocal accompaniment. Miss Morrill gave a violin solo for the first of the string quartet. The Paderewski Minuet was well played and then Miss Davis sang "Comin' Thro' the Rye," the other members executing a graceful minuet. In conclusion the ladies gave several popular selections that were well received. It is surely a beautiful offering.

Elsie Williams, assisted by Del. W. Seaward, demystified in most amusing manner what dire results follow the spilling of a salt cellar. It has always meant a fight since the days of Adam and Eve or whose happened to be the earliest of our ancestors admitted to the salt habit, and it does in the comedy sketch, "Who Was to Blame?" presented in admirable manner by Miss Williams and Mr. Seaward. It is described as a "domestic comedy," and it surely is such with a couple of genuine domestic comedians to bring out its good points. Jim Hadley and Jesse Noble who made a big hit here very recently are on the bill again having been engaged to fill the place of Tower and Darrell, who were compelled to cancel their act at the 11th hour. Hadley and Noble were welcomed back by all who had seen them for their act, "Falling for Her" is all the merry and well-bred reputation. Their act went better than ever at yesterday's performances.

Oddons has a musical novelty consisting of piano-accompaniment with forward concert with an electric current with bells, producing a quality of music that demanded several encores. The Porter and the Bellows is the title of a lively act by George W. Cooper and Charlie Smith, a couple of blackface singers with good comedy in addition thereto.

Watson and Little in "A Matrimonial Bargain," give first class character singing and yodeling. Gere and Delaney have a novelty skating act that is decidedly attractive. The Ideal-Selling News Pictorial offers some up-to-the-minute views. Seats may be ordered in advance by telephone 28.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Under Cover," Rot Cooper Magrue's active, interesting and entertaining four-act drama, is the attraction at the Lowell Opera House this week, and it would be hard to conceive of a happier selection for the week's offering. It is a splendid combination of vim, humor, drama and other necessary essentials, and what makes it particularly interesting is the fact that it might occur in everyday life.

The story depicts the fine ideas of Magrue's imagination. It concerns the smuggling of precious stones from Europe and the modus operandi of the secret service forces in digging up the responsible parties. But to tell the story here would be to subtract from the pleasure of those who have not seen it, but who intend to see it. If you successfully pick the guilty party before you near the end of the performance, then you may put yourself down as a hit of a Sherlock Holmes.

This very excellent offering is in the hands of an excellent company, well balanced and the parts are generally well cast.

Jonas Barton and Miss O'Day appear in the principal roles. Their work is excellent and they are well supported. Mr. Barton's interpretation of "Steven Denby" is all to be good. Denby is the man who is to tell all he knows. But, on the other hand, he is disposed to don a sort of mysterious attitude that, to the unsophisticated, would spell "guilt" right off the reel, yet, while Denby seems to flirt with trouble, he pulls out all right and the mystery clears. Miss O'Day as "Ethel Cartwright" but adds another laurel to her list of genuine successes. She has all the troubles that are necessary and she handles herself very skillfully. As the victim of one of the members of the secret service, who forces her to use her influence to ferret out the supposed high criminal, she is excellent. All good. Daniel Taylor, the head of the secret service, is well suited for the role. Taylor is a new member of the cast, and it would be difficult to select a better man for the role. Joseph Crehan is there with the laugh stuff, and Miss Eunice Elliott and Miss Louise Harcourt, also recent additions to the company, are especially good in their respective parts. As "Michael Harrington," a man of wealth and influence among his business associates, but who as a burglar's chance with his wife, Carson Davenport is good. The other members of a large cast are adequate. The staging of the piece is well done. Performances afternoon and night for the remainder of the week.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Interested audiences watched the adventures of Chimmie Fadden in the first of the thrilling Chimmie Fadden pictures to be shown at Merrimack Square theatre yesterday. Victor Moore appeared in the strong role of alert Chimmie in this five-act Paramount feature, entitled "Chimmie Fadden But 'Tis Not." The action of the play is rapid and gripping whether in the scenes of the east or on the plains of the distant west. Chimmie is quite a fellow, possessing keen wit and characteristic aggressiveness. He accepts the position of hooner for a fake gold mine, and goes to the west where he "salts" a mine, and as a result many people are persuaded into investing their money in exactly less stock. The realization of what he has done has been brought home to him by his girl, Chimmie repeats and exposes the whole scheme, and incidentally loses the ten thousand dollars which was his share in the movement. This well acted play will also be shown today and tomorrow at all the performances at the Merrimack Square theatre. The 12th episode of the "Noel of the Navy" serial was also shown and proved to be a thriller, so don't miss it either today or tomorrow. The comedy for the first three days of the week is a scream and the Pathe News reveals the latest important events. The famous amateurs will put in their appearance at the Merrimack Square this evening and a real funny time is promised all.

JEWEL THEATRE

Warren Kerrigan, one of the most prominent figures of motion pictures of the day, will be seen in a series of three "Terence O'Rourke" romances, one each to be shown every Wednesday and Thursday at the Jewel theatre, beginning tomorrow. As the adventurous "Terence," Kerrigan plays a role that fits him like a glove, and he has made a name for himself in past plays under that name. He is assisted by a strong cast of Universal favorites, which adds great strength to the productions. As the serial progresses three episodes, as they are little of good things—drama, a little comedy, heart interest and hazardous adventures. The first of the series, which is a delightful performance for Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Amateurs will occupy the boards tonight at this popular house.

OWL THEATRE

"Barbara Frietche," the great war story without a battle, will again be the attraction at the Owl theatre tomorrow. Featured in this six-act Metro film are Mary Miles Minter, the youngest star in the world, and Mrs. Thomas Whitten, the stage's oldest actress. Several excellent photographs of the film and program will also be presented.

MAYOR CURLEY CALLS BOSTON COUNCILLOR A "TAX DODGER"—LATTER REPLIES

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—Mayor Curley made another bitter attack upon Councillor James J. Storrow last night, charging that he requested this year that his personal tax be reduced to $150,000, although in 1913 and 1914 he paid a personal tax on $650,000, and characterizing him as a "tax dodger."

The mayor admitted, however, that the assessors had taxed Mr. Storrow on $400,000, and that up to date he had paid one-half of the tax without protest.

In his statement the mayor denied that Francis L. Daly was his business partner and said that the latter's plumbing business at city hall since Jan. 1, 1915, totaled $1475, also that from January to November of this year, Marks Ansell, also reputed to be his partner, had only received orders amounting to $296.

So far as the contracts received by Chairman James P. Timilty of the democratic city committee are concerned, the mayor stated that these were awarded only after competitive bidding.

Charges

The opposing candidates for the council, James J. Storrow, Walter L. Collins, John J. Attridge and Thomas J. Kenney issued a joint statement in which they charged that "the mayor's attempt to pin a party label upon his hand picked candidates for the city council is a final desperate effort to secure full control of the treasury of the city of Boston to build up and perpetuate a personal political machine for future use."

The statement referring further to the "Curley party" organized at the Quincy House on Sunday quoted the mayor's opinion of Chairman James P. Timilty, head "of his personal organization," as expressed on January 1, 1914, when he said of him, "Can you picture Diamond Jim Timilty, who was only recently pictured with the New Haven collar around his neck, as an expounder of civic virtue?"

"He was the same Timilty who presided at the Quincy House on Sunday," said the councillor's statement. "Has Mayor Curley's idea of the civic virtue of Chairman Timilty changed since January, 1914?"

The Storrow-Attridge, Collins, Kenney statement also called attention to the mayor's shift of front in appropriating the party label for his ticket in this campaign and recalled his praise of the non-partisan form of government delivered at the Tammany club ball on December 4, 1913, where he said:

"Under our present charter the electorate are not allowed to vote for partisan candidates and a ardent adherence to the spirit of the charter would mean that the individual elected to the chief executive of our city should serve the entire people and be amenable to no partisan combination of self-seekers and mindful alone of the personal welfare of our citizens."

BIG GAME SEASON

Minnesota Hunters Report More Moose and Deer Shot This Fall Than in Many Years

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 30.—Hunters returning from the woods declare the present big game season in northern Minnesota, is an extraordinarily good one, and that more moose and deer have been shot this fall than in many years previous.

Few Fatalities

Approximately 2000 hunters from various parts of the country took to the woods this month in St. Louis county, Minnesota, alone. Hunting fatalities have been few compared with previous seasons. Several boys met death through carelessness. A farmer was shot by a hunter who mistook him for a deer. Two hunters fell off logs and were killed by the consequent discharge of their own guns. Another hunter was kicked out of a canoe by his shotgun and drowned.

FI-FI OF THE TOY SHOP

OPERA WILL BE PRODUCED BY SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE NEXT MONDAY EVENING

"FI-FI of the Toy Shop," which will be given at Merrimack Square theatre next Monday and Tuesday evenings, under the auspices of the Social Service league, will probably more nearly approach the professional than any amateur event ever given locally.

The spectacular play in which animals and dolls think and talk is one of the best ever written and has all the combinations that please. It is replete with clever situations, surprises, and furnished in every act, and the costuming and stage settings are equal to that of many of the best comic operas.

The interest, as a matter of fact, grows each day at the rehearsals among the participants and enthusiasts is unbounded. The music, dances and "stage business" of the play have made a stirring appeal to all who have witnessed the preparations, and the production as staged at Merrimack Square theatre promises to be a big event of the season.

GARRISON SCORES TAFT

Raps Former President for Lending Name to Statements on Conditions in Philippines

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Secretary Garrison of the war department issued a formal statement yesterday sharply arraigning former President William H. Taft for having lent his name to what are termed "statements" in character and mischievous intent with relation to conditions in the Philippine Islands under the present administration. Circulation of these statements, Mr. Garrison charged, shows plainly that the republican politicians are attempting to lay the foundation for campaign material with respect to the Philippine Islands.

Particular attention is given by the secretary to articles written by O. Garfield Jones, and published in a California newspaper and later republished in pamphlet form under the title "Unhappy Conditions in the Philippine Islands," with an introduction by Mr. Taft. The introduction attributed the conditions described to the "blind and foolish policy of President Wilson and Governor General Harrison."

In connection with this comment Mr. Garrison makes public a letter which he says was written recently by Jones to the department, asking where a newspaper might be found for a "much better article" which he had prepared on "The Philippines and the Democratic Regime," which he highly favors to the administration.

The statement follows: "It is becoming very plain that the republican politicians are attempting to lay the foundation for campaign material with respect to the Philippine Islands. There have recently appeared a series of interviews or articles exhibiting a shameless intention in this matter. These statements are mischievous in character and mischievous in intent. Many of them proceed from sources so inconsiderable as to carry little if any weight, even if denied. Others, however, are fathered by men whose names and prominence supposedly lend weight to their utterances. It is inconceivable that even partisan zeal would lead these men to so stultify themselves.

"Realizing that the honor and good faith of this nation were involved in its relations to the Filipino people, I have abstained from any partisan comment or conduct with respect to this subject. The United States took over an enormous responsibility which should be carried out in the highest spirit of good faith and altruism, and all those who respect the good name of this country should at least refrain from misrepresentation and false statements concerning conditions.

"The government instituted in the islands by the United States was conceived in the best spirit and has in the main been carried out in the most worthy way. Such mistakes as have been made were only such as are inevitable in the conduct of human affairs. That government has been continued in the same spirit by the present administration, and conditions governing actually considered, were never better than they are in the Philippine Islands today.

"The bill which was pending in the last congress and which will be brought before the next congress is exactly in line with all that has heretofore been done in the islands, and is simply the next proper logical step to be taken toward developing the people thereof for self-government. No honest reading and consideration of the measure can lead to any other conclusion. Because the preamble of that bill repeated in concrete language that which has been substantially stated to be the position of this country from the time of President McKinley on down, it has been falsely labeled an 'independence' bill, and the impression has been widely conveyed that it alters in some vital, radical way the orderly progress of self development of the Filipino people. Such an interpretation creates an absolutely false impression.

"President Taft, when governor-general of the Philippine Islands, was the first one to announce that the motto of the American administration was 'The Philippines for the Philippines.' He properly and honestly presented criticisms against him for taking this position. He constantly stated that this was the only position which any one, acting in good faith and with the honor of his government in his keeping, could take; that from the very beginning this was the announced policy of this country, constantly reiterated and reiterated by the presidents of this country, by its representatives and by its congress. No one had so plainly set forth as has President Taft the malicious misrepresentations, the mendacious statements, and the vicious assaults that proceed from those in the Philippine Islands who are not permitted to exploit the natives and the country for their benefit.

"President Taft was absolutely justified in his bitter denunciation of these attacks, which makes it all the more amazing to find him indulging in exactly the same conduct toward those who are now occupying positions of trust and responsibility in the Philippine government.

"There lately appeared a series of articles in a newspaper called the Oakland Tribune. Subsequently they were published in a pamphlet entitled 'The Unhappy Conditions in the Philippine Islands,' by O. Garfield Jones, former member of the Philippine Department of Education, with an introduction by ex-President William Howard Taft, former Governor General of the Philippines. In the introduction ex-President Taft says:

"I have read with much interest Mr. O. Garfield Jones' article on present conditions in the Philippines published recently in the Oakland Tribune. It is not news to me.

"What he says of the demoralization in the present government, due to the blind and foolish policy of President Wilson and Governor General Harrison,

CARE OF THE EYEBROWS

The appearance of the eyebrows is seldom appreciated except by stage people, who make the eyebrows do as much as possible in their makeup to express what is supposed to be set forth. The eyebrows are very easily trained to an attractive manner of growth. It is, therefore, amazing that more women do not take advantage of this fact and cultivate their brows.

Eyebrow brushes may be obtained in the shops, but a small, fine toothbrush answers the purpose very well. With it the brows should be brushed night and morning to promote their growth and train them into the proper shape. High, arched, delicate brows indicate the artistocracy; if they are thin a drop of olive or almond oil or a bit of pomatum or vaseline should be rubbed into them.

The eyes need the protection of dark lashes and brows, so this is care that health, as well as beauty, dictates. Dilapidated brows may be disciplined into the proper outline by running a mustache brush over them at night. Dip it in gum tragacanth or quince seeds dissolved in elder flower water, romary or rose water. Let the gum dry on and wash off in the morning with warm water. A month or so of this treatment will reduce quite unruly brows to subjection and coarse hairs will drop out.

An alcoholic water, pure alcohol or performed glycerine rubbed into the eyebrows with the finger tips will improve their luster and promote their growth. A French ointment is: Red vaseline, 10 grams; boracic acid, 10 centigrams. A stimulating pomade is: Red vaseline, two ounces; tincture of cantharides, one dram; oil of lavender, 15 drops; oil of rosemary, 15 drops.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The Men of the Round Table of the First Baptist church conducted a supper and rally for the boys of the church last evening, the affair being held in the vestry of the church. There were 69 boys and 12 men present and initial steps were taken towards the formation of a castle of the Knights of King Arthur and for this purpose another meeting will be held Monday evening with members of the Eliot church.

Those who addressed the gathering last night were Rev. W. E. Wilson of West Somerville, formerly organizer of the organization, and Walter M. Pitcher, chairman of the boys' work committee of the church, who spoke on "Rucking the Line." At the close of the meeting it was announced that the Men of the Round table had appropriated $100 towards the formation of the new organization.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Capt. S. E. W. Kittle of the cruiser Maryland which has been placed in reserve at Mare Island navy yard, has been as-

POISONS TURNED LOOSE

Fermentation and putrefaction are constantly taking place in the digestive tract and poisons are constantly being formed. Provision has been made to take care of these poisons but when the liver is torpid and the bowels constipated they find their way into the circulation and much mischief follows. A coated tongue, headache and eruptions result.

The use of the gentle laxative pills, Pinklets, will not only banish these unpleasant symptoms quickly but, if used regularly for a reasonable time, will really correct chronic constipation.

Pinklets contain no poisons or harmful drugs. Write the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for free sample or get a full-size 25-cent bottle of Pinklets from your own druggist.

KING AND VENIZELOS, ONCE FRIENDS, NOW OPPOSE EACH OTHER ON WAR

In happier days, before war devastated Europe and threatened to draw in Greece, Premier Venizelos (now ex-premier) and King Constantine were friends and in accord in their views of the best interests of their ancient fatherland. It was then that the accompanying picture was made. Now Venizelos wants Greece to align herself actively on the side of the allies, while the utmost that Constantine favors in that regard is "benevolent neutrality."

THE SICKABED LADY

YOU'RE BILIOUS! CLEAN LIVER AND BOWELS TONIGHT

Don't stay headachy, sick, or have bad breath and sour stomach.

Wake up feeling fine! Best laxative for men, women and children.

Enjoy life! Remove the liver and bowel poison which is keeping your head dizzy, your tongue coated, breath offensive and stomach sour. Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy, constipated and full of cold. Why don't you get a box of Cascarets from the drug store and eat one or two tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Cascarets never gripe or sicken like salts, pills and cathartics. They act so gently, that you hardly realize you have taken a cathartic. Mothers should give cross, sick, bilious or feverish children a whole Cascaret any time—they act thoroughly and are harmless.

moved before the hosiery is drawn on. When the trouble first appears an excellent liniment to use is made as follows: Tincture of cantharides, one part; soap liniment, one part; spirits of camphor, one part. Camphorated oil is advised for children or very tender children.

Styes are occasioned by the irritation of the eye follicle out of which an eyelash springs. They should be opened as soon as the pus is formed, for they will not get well as long as the pus remains. For inflammation of the follicles and swelling add to an ounce of vaseline 15 grains of precipitated sulphur. In applying this ointment it is well to warm it a little, as it will not, then, be as sticky. A pomade to be rubbed on the lid and lashes to cure styes is: white vaseline, eight grams; white precipitate, ten centigrams; oil of birch, ten centigrams.

If you find it difficult to drink milk alone, Nurse says to take some bread and crackers with it. Either prevents the formation of large clots, and the milk is, therefore, more readily digested. Lime water or barley water added to milk has the same effect.

Dread of overfeeding the sick, Nurse says, should be directed against a diet that is difficult for well people. Stuffing a cold has no standing among physicians now. Stuffing is a process to which human beings are not to be subjected without injury, under any conditions. To do so when a patient is ill with a cold is to invite catarrh, pneumonia, tuberculosis and perhaps death. Stuffing and starvation are direct extremes. There seems common sense in the modern view which has it that no sick person should be subjected to either, least of all the invalid who is suffering from the fires of an inflammation which, whether cold or fever, is very wasting to the tissues involved.

Insomnia is regarded by Nurse, in the majority of its manifestations, as a form of auto hypnosis. It may exist as a symptom of some other disorder, but, generally speaking, nothing save violent grief or pain should really keep one awake, and even these produce in time a comfortable exhaustion that induces heavy slumber and relief.

Think this: If I need sleep I would sleep through a thunder storm. Men have slept on the battlefield, horseback and amidst cannonading. If I need sleep, I will sleep; if I do not, it need not worry me. As a matter of fact, I am really tired and sleepy. Every inch of my body is crying out for sleep. I am keeping myself awake. All I need to do is to let go and I will fall asleep.

Repeat this over to yourself and ponder it well and resolve no longer to lie awake with your eyes gazing steadily into the darkness.

A medicine dropper is a very necessary and useful thing in connection with every medicine cupboard, says Nurse. Being small and easily misplaced, however, among the other articles usually found in such a place, it has an annoying way of being out of sight when wanted and is often the most elusive when wanted in an emergency.

Take a double jointed carpet tack of a size that will just admit the glass barrel of the dropper, drive it into one of the side walls of the cupboard on the inside of the same in a convenient place so that the dropper will go through the little staple until it rests upon the rubber where the same meets the glass. This arrangement places the dropper close at hand whenever needed and beades drains the liquid away from the rubber bulb.

As a substitute for hot water bags in ordinary ailments, such as toothache, earache and other minor pains, use common flannel bags made in convenient sizes with drawstrings. Fill them with hot sand or salt, and they are safer than a cheap rubber bottle, just as efficacious and much handier to use. Keep a half dozen ready as they are a great help in times of aches and pains.

Many people find it difficult to swallow a dose of castor oil. A great many ways have been devised, which have proven to be more or less effective. One of the best and simplest Nurse has ever tried is to heat a cup by pouring boiling water into it. As soon as the cup is thoroughly heated, pour the water out and immediately put into the hot cup the dose of oil. You can then swallow it as you would a raw egg, without inconvenience.

HEADACHE FROM A COLD? LISTEN!

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends severe colds or grippes in few hours.

Your cold will break and all grippes misery end after taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dizziness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and sniffing! Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Accept no substitute.

of their two children because she has confessed a "heavily, divine-sent love" for Chester Chappin ("Chippie") Rumrill, Springfield millionaire, and recently made many trips with him to distant cities after a promise to put him absolutely out of her life.

Taking the stand before Judge McIntire, in the East Cambridge probate court, as the first witness in her own behalf, at the resumption of the hearing on her husband's custody petition, Mrs. Rantoul, frankly and without a sign of hesitancy, admitted the journey with Rumrill—detailed them, trips to Washington, New York, Hanover, N. H., Peterboro, N. H., Waterford, Me., Wareham—but denied with emphasis that any liberties had been taken when she and "Chippie" were together.

For one hour and a half, she sat facing her husband—only three yards removed—never trying to avoid his steady gaze, and in a voice always clear and audible, despite its low pitched tone, recounted step by step her journeys with Rumrill after Rumrill had promised her husband he would never see nor communicate with her again, and after she had similarly pledged her word. Then, too, she admitted writing Rumrill many letters and of receiving many from him, all of which she destroyed.

Mrs. Rantoul's testimony followed immediately an outline of her case by her lawyer, Thomas W. Proctor. In his address to the court Mr. Proctor pictured Mrs. Rantoul as an "ideal mother" seeking to thwart any attempt of a man actuated by "whim, caprice and hostility" to take her two daughters from her.

IN FIGHT TO FINISH

MRS. DUFF REFUSES TO WITHDRAW AS CANDIDATE FOR BOSTON SCHOOL COMMITTEE

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—Mrs. Julia Duff will not withdraw as a candidate for the school committee, notwithstanding the belief yesterday expressed by the officers of the democratic city committee, that she and William C. Prout would be persuaded to withdraw from the contest. Mr. Prout last night declared that he was loath to retire and had not reached any definite conclusion in regard to his future action.

The city committee is making a determined fight to defeat the Good Government association's candidate for the school board, and yesterday Mrs. Duff and Mr. Prout were invited to meet a sub-committee of the democratic city committee. Pres. James P. Timilty met Mrs. Duff and Mr. Prout and urged each to retire in order to enable the committee to entrust its entire strength toward the election of Dr. Keenan.

"I told Pres. Timilty that I would never withdraw," said Mrs. Duff, after the conference, "and I also requested to know why my withdrawal as a candidate was so urgently requested. The chairman of the city committee replied that if I stayed in the fight Miss Curtis would surely be elected. I told Mr. Timilty that if anyone should retire it should be Dr. Keenan, and that if he remained in the fight it would merely mean a division of the democratic vote."

"I am in the fight as a positive candidate of the people, according to the charter, and Mr. Timilty was informed that my reappearance after an absence of six years should convince him that I owe it to a large constituency to make the biggest fight of my life."

ANURIC!

The Newest Discovery in Chemistry

This is a recent discovery of Doctor Pierce, who is head of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y. Experiments at Dr. Pierce's Hospital for several years proved that there is no other eliminatory of uric acid that can be compared to it. For those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation—as backache, scalding urine and frequent urination, as well as sediment in the urine, or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, it is simply wonderful how surely "Anuric" acts. The best of results are always obtained in cases of acute rheumatism in the joints, in gravel and gout, and invariably the pains and stiffness which so frequently and persistently accompany the disease rapidly disappear.

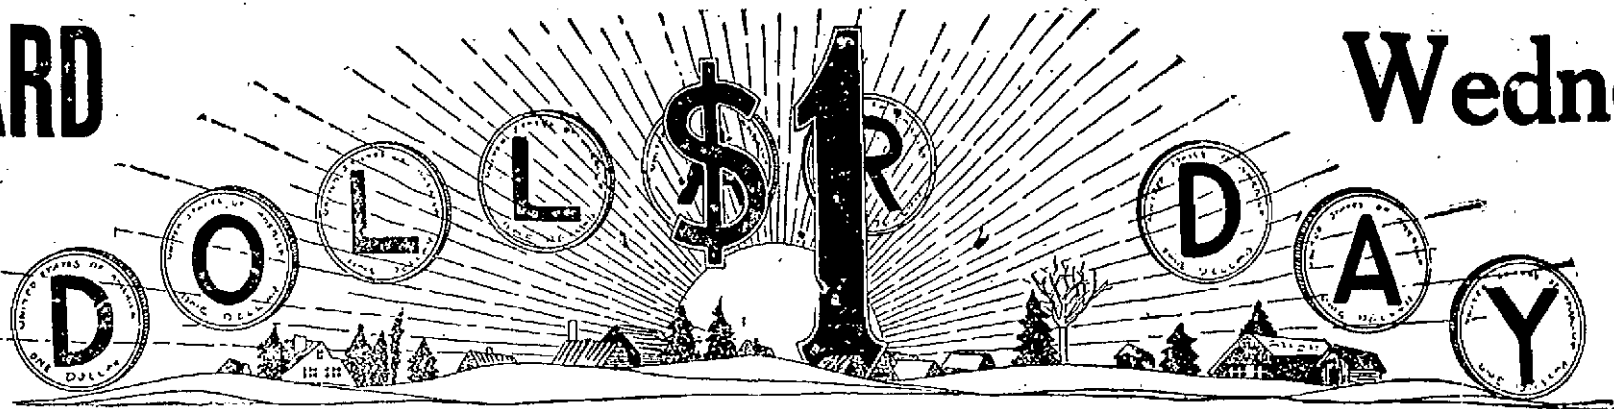

Go to your nearest drug store and sharply ask for a 50-cent package of "Anuric" manufactured by Dr. Pierce, or even write Dr. Pierce for a free sample. If you suspect kidney or bladder trouble, send him a sample of your water and describe symptoms. Dr. Pierce's chemist will examine it, then Dr. Pierce will report to you without fee or charge.

NOTE—"Anuric" is thirty-seven times more active than lithia in eliminating uric acid, and is a harmless but reliable chemical compound that may be safely given to children, but should be used only by grown-ups who actually wish to restore their kidneys to perfect health, by conscientiously using one box—or more in extreme cases—as "Anuric" (thanks to Doctor Pierce's achievement) is by far the most perfect kidney and bladder corrector obtainable.—Advertisement.

SEEING AND DOING

Rev. Herbert E. Benton, in a masterly address in Grace church Sunday evening, touched generally on many Lowell needs and specifically on some things which call for immediate attention. Of the immediate problems those emphasized most strongly were the need for the control of tuberculosis and for better moving pictures, in both of which lines there is room for considerable improvement. This improvement will come, according to Mr. Benton, when Lowell recognizes its failings and develops a strong organized co-operative movement among the citizens for the development of higher ideals.

The essential thing as a preliminary step to a betterment of the city's standards, according to this speaker, is "something in the nature of a survey," to reveal to all our people the shortcomings of the city and its vital problems. To a certain extent this is necessary, but until other things are righted, no investigation of dark corners will have practical results. To see what Lowell needs is one thing; to act on the knowledge gained is different.

If a test of this truth is needed, we have it all too plainly in the neglect of certain vital things by the city government of the last few years. To take the matter of tuberculosis, for instance, mentioned by Mr. Benton as one of the pressing questions of the hour: All Lowell knows that this city is grossly negligent in its provision for those afflicted with the disease. The state law for a contagious hospital has been disregarded over and over and the city is known as the blot on the map among social workers of Boston and among the state authorities. Yet, this is not from any lack of knowledge; rather it is due to lack of initiative, efficiency and sincerity at city hall.

At the present time there are contagions raging not far from Lowell, and it may be our turn to attack such a problem before the winter is far advanced. Can it then be said that Lowell, or Lowell officials, did not understand the need for a contagious hospital and scientific social service work? What is the use of a city survey to reveal all our shortcomings when the city is so absolutely indifferent towards the things that everybody may see?

A social survey would be an excellent thing, but in the present spirit of our officials, it would not lead to anything. If a new hospital were proposed as a result of the survey, or greater police protection, or better tenements or anything else, we would be told at city hall that we cannot afford money for such things and that they are not really necessary. Our present municipal council, or some prominent members of it, have declared that a contagious hospital is not essential to the city's welfare, disdaining the demands of the state and ignoring the example of almost every important city in the state. Until we have a more sincere and genuinely constructive attitude among those who administer our affairs, social surveys will be but a waste of energy.

It may be said that a social survey would create a strong popular spirit among the people and in this way induce municipal action. It might and it might not. We have had so called social surveys that nobody believed so flagrant were the errors and exaggerations. Some people are easily led astray by false leaders who have a selfish motive in creating this or that sentiment contrary to the city's best interest. If the people of Lowell would put aside petty political considerations and really agree to boost certain progressive projects, the city officials would be forced to recognize the demand, but up to the present this co-operation has been lacking. There are signs of a growing better spirit, and it is to be hoped that some of the things mentioned by Mr. Benton will be attended to before a social survey is taken.

It may be superfluous to mention some other examples of glaring municipal neglect, but many other things have been left undone, though the need for them has been as apparent at city hall as anywhere else. What about the new high school, the Pawtucket bridge, the public hall, the safeguarding of the canals and rivers, etc.? They are all in the embryonic stage, though the fault is not in the ignorance of conditions by those responsible. How can one who sees the neglect of the past few years hope for anything from a social survey, while Lowell is administered as at present?

ECONOMIC CONTROL

The national chamber of commerce which is more notable for business ideas than for emotional appeals, has made a report as a result of a referendum among its members, with regard to the subject of international arbitration and conciliation. This report urges the agitation of a world court for the settlement of international disputes, and provides for the problem of policing the nations or enforcing the decrees of this world court. Many interests and movements have agitated an international board of arbitration and conciliation, but the great weakness has been on the point of making its decrees effective, and applying them to nations which may be acting contrary to the principles of international law.

The national chamber of commerce now advocates the use of economic pressure. A nation which would refuse to abide by the findings of the court or which would go to war without submitting its dispute to the judgment of the court would be boycotted by the other nations commercially and financially. There would be no buying and selling with that nation; it would be isolated and its output could not get a market. Such things are done during the war, by the warring powers through the agency of the blockade, and the new ideals would make the blockade serve the ends of peace instead of war.

SEEN AND HEARD

The truth often hurts, but one hears so little of it that an anaesthetic seldom is needed.

No man may be said to be generally unknown unless he has been suggested for the vice presidency.

When women discuss men you hear money mentioned a good many times and character and sense but seldom, if at all.

Buck Kilby, who has the misfortune to be unhappily married, says the Atlanta man who traded his wife for a keg of beer is a good judge of both.

There is also this to be said for this grand and glorious country of ours. It affords the men more opportunities for kissing the women than any other nation.

Kansas City has succeeded in sending two women, who killed their husbands, to the penitentiary, which probably is the record in that field of endeavor.

Passed the Test

"So you want to marry my daughter, eh?" snorted the old man. "Do you consider yourself financially able to do so?"

"Well," replied the suitor, "after a fellow has bought candy and flowers for a girl for a year, and has taken her to the theatre twice a week and is still not broke, I guess he can afford to get married!"—Philadelphia Record.

The Observant Beggar

"Excuse me, sir," said the pander, shuffling up to Dubbleigh's side, "but you couldn't let me have $15, could you?"

"Fifteen dollars?" echoed Dubbleigh. "Great Scott, man—do you for one moment suppose I'm fool enough to give you $15?"

"No, chief—I don't," said the pander, "but I sort o' hoped you'd regard it as a kind of personal assessment, and swear off fourteen ninety, leavin' me with a dime to the good." He got it.

Dug Chinese Wall

Some genius for figures with plenty of time at his disposal has estimated that the German soldiers who have had to bear the burden of trench digging since the beginning of the war have excavated a quantity of earth which in cubic feet is equivalent to the great wall of China. He arrives at his conclusion in the following way:

The great wall is 2450 kilometers long, 165 meters high, eight meters wide at the bottom and five meters wide at the top. The German lines in April extended 550 kilometers in the west and about 1300 kilometers in the east. Behind these forward lines, however, extend secondary and in most cases third and fourth lines, all connected up by miles of "Haufraben," or communication trenches.

Since April the German positions have repeatedly changed, necessitating the construction of new trenches. Each trench is usually from six or seven to a dozen feet in depth and a little narrower. In connection with each one are countless underground shelters. Taken all together, the estimator believes, the

STOP DANDRUFF!

HAIR GETS THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL

Girls! Draw a cloth through your hair and double its beauty.

Spend 25 cents! Dandruff vanishes and hairs stop coming out.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, softness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

Location of Bolls

The main difficulty about a boll is to find a satisfactory location for one. We have never been so fortunate as to possess a boll with whose site we were thoroughly pleased.

It was always in the very worst place it could have been.

We have had them on our face, on the back of our neck, on our pulps, on our forearms, and elsewhere.

Even elsewhere is not satisfactory. We can always believe that if it had been placed just three inches further east when we were headed toward the rising sun, we should have been happy.

For then it would not have been on our person at all.

We have often seen bolls located so as not to disturb us in the least. But they were on someone else.

We do not know why but nearly everybody who has a plain boll is anxious to find somebody by which to prove that "it isn't a boll—it's a carbuncle."

Why is a carbuncle any more aristocratic than a boll?

We pause for a reply.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene, The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear;

Full many a boll is born to bluest unseen, And waste its sweetness on most idle air."

The worse possible place a boll can be is wherever your latest one is located.

Things That Never Die

Things that never die: The pure, the bright, the beautiful. That stirred our hearts in youth, The impulses to wordless prayer, The dreams of love and truth, The longings after something lost, The spirit's yearning cry, The striving after better hopes— These things can never die.

The timid hand stretched forth to aid A brother in his need, A kindly word in grief's dark hour, That lighted a friend's troubled brow, The plea of mercy softly breathed, When justice threatens high, The sorrow of a contrite heart—

These things shall never die. The cruel and the bitter word That wounded as it fell; The chilling want of sympathy We feel but never lose; The hard repulse that chills the heart Whose hopes are bounding high, In an unfeeling word kept— These things shall never die.

Let nothing pass, for every hand Must find some work to do; Let none decline to wake a love— Be firm, and just and true; So shall a light that cannot fade Beam on thee from on high, And angels' voices say to thee, These things shall never die.

—Charles Dickens.

TO MARRY SON OF KAISER

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—Princess Marie Auguste of Anhalt, whose engagement to Prince Joachim of Prussia, youngest son of Emperor William, is announced, is a daughter of the one-time king of Saxony, Joachim Murat, who lived from 1767 to 1815. The latter's oldest brother, Peter Murat, was the father of Marie Antoinette, who was married in 1805 to Prince Karl Anton of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen. Their daughter, Amalie Antoinette, was married in 1835 to the duke of Saxe-Altenburg; their daughter, Antoinette, in 1871, married Duke Leopold Friedrich of Anhalt, and the latter's son, Prince Edward of Anhalt, and his wife, Princess Luise of Sachsen-Altenburg, are the parents of Princess Marie.

CATARH GERMS EASILY KILLED

Only Way to Cure This Disease is to Destroy Its Cause

If you have catarrh and want to get rid of it you must kill the germ which causes it. Stomach dosing, ointments, sprays, creams, douches, etc., fail because they overlook this fact. They all help by giving temporary relief but they do not reach the germ which has taken its lodgment in your head, nose, throat and could not be destroyed if they did.

The best known way of destroying the dangerous germs of catarrh is by inhaling the germicidal gas of Hyomeo. Hyomeo is made from purest oil of Eucalyptus combined with other powerful, healing, antiseptic and germicidal ingredients. You breathe it through a little pocket inhaler which all leading druggists in Lowell and vicinity are furnishing with every complete treatment sold. Every time you inhale the sweet, fragrant air of Hyomeo through this little device you are drawing into your swollen, inflamed, catarrhal membranes a medicated air which will not only reduce all the swelling and inflammation and open your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages, but will absolutely and permanently destroy every trace of Catarrh germ life it reaches. Druggists are so sure of the blessed, lasting relief Hyomeo brings to catarrh sufferers that they sell it invariably on the post-paid basis, so that money paid will be returned if successful results are not secured from its use. Get Hyomeo from your druggist today and begin at once to drive this dangerous and disgusting disease from your system forever.

SHEEP IN AUSTRALASIA

SOME DISTINCTIVE FEATURES WHICH HAVE MADE WOOL GROWING AN IMPORTANT INDUSTRY

More and larger flocks of sheep are necessary to the full development of profitable agriculture in the middle and eastern states, according to specialists in the department. Under present conditions, however, sheep raising in this country has not proved so attractive as in Australia and New Zealand. The agricultural department has recently conducted an investigation, the results of which have just been published as Bulletin 313, into the basic principles of the industry in those countries.

New Zealand, says this bulletin, sheep raising is conducted on lines midway between those followed in our farming states and those in the range states. In Australia the sheep industry is, in the main, what would be called in America a range proposition. With a total land area a little more than the state of Wyoming, New Zealand has about 2,500,000 sheep, as against 4,500,000 in Wyoming. The average size of the New Zealand flock is now 112, and seven-eighths of the sheep are in flocks of more than 500 head each. In Wyoming the average size of the flock is usually 3000 head. From 1 to 8 sheep per acre are maintained in New Zealand on land which has been plowed and sown to artificial grasses. If the land has been surface sown without plowing, this number is reduced to from 1 to 2 sheep per acre. Land valued as high as $150 an acre has been profitably kept in grass for grazing alone, and nearly one-half of the occupied area is used mainly for sheep. The important place thus occupied by sheep in New Zealand is declared to be evidence of the possibilities of profit from valuable land devoted to well-managed flocks. The size of these flocks insures for them an interest and care which is not so common in the farming states in America.

In Australia conditions more nearly resemble those in the American range states. Much of the Australian land now used for sheep growing is destined to be devoted to farming, and the government is taking an active part in assisting the development of the land. The land is plentiful and the flocks have much space in which to run. There is, however, one fundamental and important difference between the management of the range in Australia and in the United States. No Australian sheep owner is permitted to use a poisonous chemical without charge. On the other hand he is in no danger of having his land grazed by other persons' flocks. Under the leasing system employed in Australia, the sheep owner secures for long periods of time, at prices varying with its value, absolute control of the land he uses. When the government is ready to resume the land in order to divide it into smaller allotments, the sheep owner is recompensed for whatever improvements he may have made and is, in addition, permitted to retain his own central homestead. In the opinion of the Australian, the additional security and the permanence of the business more than compensate for the loss of the state in America, stockmen themselves are inclining toward this point of view, as some means of controlling and improving the public grazing lands is believed to be urgently needed.

In another important respect sheep raising in Australia differs from that in the American range. In Australia the flocks are not kept collected and under the care of herders, but are fenced into "paddocks" which vary from 5000 to 10,000 acres in size. Here they are left to run at will under practically natural conditions. In many cases they are only rounded up once a year for shearing. Even at lambing time there is little necessity for attention. This plan not only lessens labor—a difficult problem in all parts of Australia—but puts the sheep into better condition than when they are in charge of even the best herders. On the other hand, the fencing of the sheep runs is, of course, an added expense, but this is considered less important than the advantages already named. The greatest difference of all, however, between the American and Australian sheep industries is probably to be found in the handling of the wool after it has been shorn. This subject has already attracted considerable attention, and although it is not altogether settled, the time is not far off when the complete adoption in America of Australian methods, familiarity with these would unquestionably aid American wool growers to perfect important improvements in their present practice.

In the United States the wool is not infrequently sold before it is shorn, and in any event the sheep are not sorted for shearing. The entire fleece is sacked just as they run, and the price fixed for the entire clip, not for the various grades. The clips are usually sold to traveling buyers and are only graded after they have ceased to be the property of the grower.

In Australia and New Zealand on the other hand, the wool almost invariably remains the property of the grower until it is sold to the manufacturer. Under this system the cost of actually shearing the sheep is only about one-half of the amount which the grower expends in preparing his wool for market. He himself divides the clip into various lots, and the grading is done with uniformity and exactness. Overclassing, however, is avoided. In one Queensland shed 10,000 two-year-old wethers were shorn and the clip divided into 11 classes. In a New South Wales flock of 2000 head composed of ewes, yearling ewes and rams, 28 classes were made, but this is probably an instance of overclassing.

Despite the expense that this practice involves, the Australian is firmly convinced that he realizes more for his wool by selling it in such a number of distinct lots that the manufacturer can exactly the kind of wool he needs for a particular fabric and can buy that wool alone. An additional advantage is the opportunity that this system allows of enabling the grower to determine the profit that he makes from each particular type of sheep and wool. It often happens that a heavier fleece with a slightly lower value per pound yields more profit to the grower than a lighter fleece with a higher value per pound. The separate sale of different classes of wool permits the sheep breeder to determine definitely what class of sheep he wishes to develop.

The Australian method of preparing wool is accompanied and made possible by an apt system of selling. Even a lot as small as one bale can be readily disposed of in this way, whereas in the American wool trade few buyers care to purchase lots of less than 10,000 pounds. This condition arises from the fact that the dealers who purchase entire clips at a lump price per pound have to sell to manufacturers who wish large lines of some single grade. It is true that money paid will be returned if successful results are not secured from its use. Get Hyomeo from your druggist today and begin at once to drive this dangerous and disgusting disease from your system forever.

system in America would require, it is estimated, a co-operative movement of growers representing 20 per cent of the country's clip. If 50,000,000 pounds of wool were suitably put up and offered for auction for a number of years, it might result in establishing the new method of doing business. This, of course, is not likely to happen for several years to come. Another possibility is to consign graded or graded clips to commission dealers and permit them to combine different parts of various clips to suit the demands of the trade. This method also calls either for co-operation or for close and confidential relations between the grower and the selling agent.

PLAN TO DESTROY MUNITIONS PLANTS IN ITALY FRUSTRATED BY TURIN POLICE

PARIS, Nov. 30.—A plot of Germans to destroy munitions plants in Italy is said by the Journal in a despatch from San Remo, Italy, to have been discovered by the Turin police. It was learned that the plan apparently was being directed from Lugano, Switzerland, and the case was referred to the Swiss police who arrested a boatman. In the possession of the boatman were found two boxes, labelled chocolate, but filled with dynamite which he was about to ship to Turin.

The Journal's despatch adds that the arrest of other persons, some of them connected with the German consulate, is imminent.

SNEEZE OR THE SLIGHTEST MOVE OF A MUSCLE MAY CAUSE DEATH OF MISS MARY J. CORT

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—A sneeze or the slightest move of a muscle may cause the death of Miss Mary J. Cort. She lies strapped to a "Bradford frame" in the City hospital to which she was taken yesterday. There surgeons and nurses constantly watch to prevent the least strain upon the spinal cord.

Miss Cort was washing windows yesterday in her home on the third floor of the house at 6 Appleton street. She fell 35 feet, sustaining a fractured arm and spine. Neighbors rushed her to the hospital, where examination proved how precarious her condition is.

Several attempts have been made previously to save the lives of patients under similar conditions, but few have succeeded.

NAVAL SURGEON

Dr. Allan Stuart, U. S. Navy, at Local Recruiting Station

Surgeon Allan Stuart, U. S. Navy, is living in this city, acting as examining surgeon at the local recruiting station.

Dr. Stuart is a native of South Carolina and has served in the navy for about 22 years. He went out with the world with the battle fleet, and was regimental surgeon of the 3rd marine regiment at the seizure and occupation of Vera Cruz by the naval forces under Admiral Fletcher April 21-30, 1914. Later on he served in San Domingo and Haiti during the revolutionary outbreaks.

In reply to The Sun reporter's question as to the chances for advancement for a young enlisted man in the naval service today, Dr. Stuart said:

"A warrant or commission is in the 'litter box' of every enlisted man—provided his character is of the highest and his education thorough—he will have a chance for advancement if he takes advantage of his opportunity."

"The pay of a commissioned officer is $1700 per annum upon entrance and increases with every promotion. The pay of a warrant officer is from $1500 to $2250 per annum."

There are sixty-six commissioned officers and about one thousand warrant officers of active service who have been advanced from the ranks, which goes to show that under our republican form of government all are born free and equal after all. There are also many commissioned officers in the marine corps who have been enlisted men.

Lately two enlisted men were successful in winning commissions in the pay corps. One, S. J. Brune, attained an appointment without the assistance of a coach and without any preparation ashore. Mr. Brune is a machinist by trade and is under 24 years of age. After he had mastered his trade he enlisted in the navy. He made a cruise in the Pacific on the U.S.S. Jupiter and served on board that vessel until he was appointed an assistant paymaster. He was well liked by all hands on board the Jupiter and his former shipmates feel proud of his success.

"After serving thirty years in the naval service a man can retire on three-quarters pay when he is eligible for retirement. A man entering at seventeen retires if he wants to at forty-seven."

HUGH COPPER ORDERS

CONTRACTS AGGREGATING 200,000-000 POUNDS PLACED BY GERMANS IN THIS COUNTRY

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Orders for copper aggregating about 200,000,000 pounds, nearly one-fifth the annual production in the United States have been placed by German representatives with copper concerns in this country, it was reported today. As copper is quoted at 20 cents a pound, the cost of the German purchases amounts to $40,000,000. In instances where the contracts have been filled the metal has been placed in storage under an agreement to ship it to Germany immediately after the war.

The orders placed in America amount to nearly four times the annual production of copper in Germany. America produced 1,110,067,000 pounds of copper in 1914.

Within a few months the German government has been commandeering copper wherever it could be found in the German empire.

SHERMAN TO QUIT JOB

LAWRENCE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SECRETARY RESIGNS—HAS MANY FRIENDS HERE

Stephen F. Sherman, secretary of the Lawrence chamber of commerce, who has many friends in Lowell, has tendered his resignation to the executive committee of the organization. While it is said that the resignation will in all probability be accepted, Mr. Sherman will retain his membership in the chamber of commerce and continue to reside in Lawrence.

It is also rumored in Lawrence that the present executive committee of the chamber of commerce will resign as soon as some of the work before it is completed, but before doing so it will make certain recommendations to the board of directors. This will be followed by a special meeting of the chamber of commerce for the purpose of taking action upon its future plans.

SEPT. LEO E. VASSON

Lowell Boy With Hospital Corps Now Stationed at Fort Logan Has Been in the Army Five Years

The Sun today received a letter from Sergeant Leo E. Vasson of the hospital corps of the United States army, who is now stationed at Fort Logan, H. Route, Argento, Ark. Mr. Vasson is a Lowell boy and has been in the army five years, two years of which were spent in the Philippine Islands. Before joining the army, the young man served in the United States navy.

Sergeant Vasson states in his letter that he had a chance to participate in the war across the ocean recently but decided that the United States was good enough for him. He said an officer of the French army tried to persuade him to go to New Orleans and then ship to France. The French officer, he avers, offered to purchase his release from the U. S. army. Mr. Vasson expects to return to this city next spring.

GURLEY FLYNN ON TRIAL

LABOR LEADER ACCUSED OF INCITING TO VIOLENCE DURING STRIKE OF SILK WORKERS

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 30.—Testimony concerning her refusal to leave Paterson when told to do so by the police was given by the second trial of Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, a labor leader, on charges of having "incited to personal violence" in speeches she made during the strike of silk mill workers here in 1913.

Chief of Police John Binson testified that he went to the hall where she was speaking and ordered her to leave town or go to jail and that she refused to comply. Then he ordered her arrest.

Chief Binson, cross-examined by counsel for the defense, was asked what authority he had to order people to leave town. He replied he assumed the authority in this instance.

DYNAMITE AND BOOZE

JAMES SPICER FALLS ON STREET WITH TWO STICKS OF EXPLOSIVE IN HIS POCKETS

HAVERHILL, Nov. 30.—James Spicer, 45 years old, a horse-shoer, was brought to police headquarters Saturday night under arrest on charges of drunkenness by Motorcycle Officer William H. Kelley after Spicer had stumbled and slipped all the way up Main street, finally falling in a heap at Main street and Hamilton avenue.

There was nothing remarkable about Spicer's fall or condition, his chief distinction coming when in searching his pockets at police headquarters Captain Hill found two sticks of dynamite and a large iron bar, Spicer explaining gravely to the police that he was intending to drill a well. Spicer had terrorized the neighborhood where he was found by the police prior to his arrest, and had his dangerous cargo been known in advance he would have been given an even wider berth.

The dynamite was taken gingerly from the victim's pockets and placed in the padded cell by Captain Hill and remained there quietly over Sunday, none of the officers taking the trouble or chance of disturbing it. Spicer pleaded guilty to drunkenness in the district court yesterday morning before Judge Winn and was fined $10, sentence being suspended to Dec. 13. Spicer admitted that dynamite and booze constituted an even more dangerous mixture than booze and gasoline, and when asked what he thought would have happened had the dynamite exploded, James said: "I presume I would have changed my residence."

MOVIES FOR CHILDREN

SATURDAY MORNING PICTURE SHOWS UNDER AUSPICES OF MIDDLESEX WOMEN'S CLUB

The Saturday morning moving picture shows for children, so successfully started at the Playhouse this fall, but given up a short time ago, will be resumed at the Merrimack Square theatre within two weeks. It is proposed to offer to the children's entertainments made up of films showing educational topics, fairy stories, etc., for the purpose of interesting the public in a higher class of pictures. The weekly shows at the Playhouse were discontinued on account of the heavy expense. The management of the Merrimack Square theatre, however, has come to the aid of the committee on education of the Middlesex Women's club and offered the use of the theatre for Saturday morning shows. A conference was held yesterday between Alfred S. Black, president and treasurer of the theatre company, Manager W. J. Nelson and the general committee of the Women's club. It was hoped that the performances will be started Saturday, Dec. 11.

The Middlesex Women's club committee in charge of the performances is as follows: Mrs. Carl D. Burdett, chair; Mrs. Charles H. Hobson, Miss Catherine Faulkner, Dr. John H. Lamson, chairman; Mrs. J. W. Murphy, president and secretary of the board of trade; Miss Helen W. Barnes, president of the Y.W.C.A.; and Thos. Williams, boys' secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

BARS WIDOWS' TAG DAY

CHICAGO CITY COUNCIL REVOKES PERMIT—ONCE NOVELTY, NOW NUISANCE

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—A permit for a widows' tag day was revoked by the city council last night.

Alderman Nance in supporting the revocation declared that since the original tag came into a novelty a few years ago, the practice has grown so that the days are few when men coming down town to work are not requested to buy tags for some charity.

"It has become a nuisance, and is particularly undesirable in the present instance," said Mr. Nance.

An order directing Mayor Thompson and the city council committee of the city council to define a policy for future tag days was adopted.

MILL WORKERS TO MEET

SESSION OF NEW ENGLAND COTTON MILL EMPLOYEES WILL BE HELD JAN. 13

A meeting of the cotton mill workers of New England will be held in Boston, Jan. 13, when an attempt will be made to form New England textile workers into one independent organization. The plan was fostered in Fall River by delegates representing unions which recently withdrew from the American Federation of Labor. Ultimately they plan to extend the scope of the work along the line of the United Textile Workers of America and form a new international union of cotton mill workers.

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—Baron Eliot, Shibusawa, Japan's foremost financier, commonly known as the "J. P. Morgan of Japan," and Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, both strongly advocated the formation, at the close of the present war, of a defensive fighting alliance between the United States and Japan and the four allies in the present war, Great Britain, France, Russia and Italy, in after-dinner speeches at the Algonquin club last night.

THOSE OF QUINCY MAN WHO DIED IN SCOTLAND—WISH FOR BURIAL AT HOME COST 79 CENTS

AT HOME COST 79 CENTS

QUINCY, Nov. 30.—A short time ago the ashes of a former resident of this city reached here by parcel post from Scotland at a cost of 79 cents and were delivered safely to the superintendent of Mt. Wollaston cemetery, where they were buried.

When the man died in Scotland his relatives there wanted to comply with the last wishes of the deceased by sending the body to Quincy for burial. The difference in the expense of sending the body by freight and by parcel post was so great that it was decided to have the body cremated and the ashes sent by parcel post.

THE BIGGEST SURPRISE

TERRY McGOVERN'S DEFEAT BY CORBETT WAS THE WORST UPHEAVAL OF FORM

Many big surprises have been pulled off in the ring. Corbett's defeat of Sullivan came as quite a shock to many fans. Jess Williams' triumph over Jack Johnson was not predicted by many prophets. Every follower of the game can recall several instances in which the dope was upset and the dark horse won.

After a mental review of all such cases, however, the present scribbles are unable to recall a more sensational surprise party than was pulled off in Hartford, Conn., fourteen years ago on November 23, 1901. It is scarcely necessary to give the seasoned fight fan the names of the principals—the date and the place instantly suggests the names of Terry McGovern and Young Corbett.

There isn't much interest in the featherweight division in these days, but back when the century was an infant the little fellows were the cynosure of the optics of the fight world. And what a fine bunch of them there was, tubby sure! Terry McGovern—there was never another such scrapper as the little Brooklynite. George Dixon, eleven years personified; Dave Sullivan, Solly Smith, Ben Jordan, Eddie Santry, Kid Broad, Tommy Sullivan, Joe Bernstein, Hugh McPadden, Jack McClelland, George Gardner, Oscar Garner, Eddie Gardner, Billy Gardner—the whole damned Gardner family; Abe Attell, Tommy White, and so on, and so on. Some crowd!

The featherweight championship battle between Brooklyn's terror and Denver's pride was a Thanksgiving day feature at Hartford, and fans from New York, Boston, and all over New England were there to see McGovern wine up the ring with Young Corbett to make a Hartford holiday. The Denver boy had a sprinkling of followers, who were willing to back their judgment with the coin of the realm, but the big mob couldn't see Corbett with a telescope. They thought, "Terrible Terry was invincible, and the betting was largely on the question of how long the bout would lapse before the cherub little westerner took a snow.

As the time for the contest drew near, and Terry didn't appear, the Denverite went to the Brooklyn boy's dressing room and pounded on the door. "Come on, McGovern, and take your medicine," shouted Young Corbett. Terry was ugliest at the temerity of the rude fellow from the west in daring thus to address him. Terrible Terry, the unbeaten and unbeatable, Pretty soon Terry was boiling inwardly—raging like a leopard under a full head of steam.

Disregarding his usual caution, Terry rushed in anxious to end the matter with the figure. Young Corbett stopped him with a stiff right. And then they went to it, cramming more action into a first round than one now customarily sees in a ten-round engagement. "Biff-bang!" Padded fists thumped on pink bodies like hail beating on a tin roof. Toward the end Young Corbett got in a good one that stretched Terry out, but he bounced up again fuller of fight than ever.

The second round, as long as it lasted, was like the first, even more so. The Denverite got in another wallop that sent Terry toppling to the floor. McGovern then tore in and for a little while he had the Denverite backed against the ropes, giving an imitation of a mud turtle in his attempt to cover up. McGovern's friends cheered wildly, thinking the end was near. It was, but not the way their figure. Young Corbett slipped out of his precarious position, with Terry after him. The latter started another blow, but Corbett beat him to it. McGovern went down like a felled he-cow before the butcher, and the referee counted ten. Terry was an "ex."

SPORTING NEWS

The colonial league may be abandoned next year. Teams do not look very bright for a start.

Eddie Cawley, the Colby football star, who came home for the holidays returned to the Maine Institution Sunday night.

Itchy Lyons has been selected to manage the Palmer club basketball team. Games are wanted with the Y.M.C.A. and C.Y.M.C. quintets.

Beverly high which won the football championship of Essex county will go to Chicago on Dec. 4, for a game with De Paul academy eleven.

Everett high eleven, conquerors of the Waltham high warriors will now play Detroit Central high for the schoolboy championship of the country.

A report is current that George Stavel will manage the Newark Feds in 1916 and will not be connected with the New York team as reported in Gotham.

New York scribes think Fritz Maitel will be seen in the Yankees' outfield next season and that Paddy Bauman, formerly of the New England league will be seen in the vacancy made by the shift at third base.

Referee McDonald, a new official recently elected by the managers of the Central basketball league will be the decision maker at the game to be played here tonight against Milford.

Chet Martel is still leading the individual celebrities in the City Bowling league, although several others have better averages than he. Martel has rolled in nearly every game and his average of a little over 108 is on a par with his bowling of last year.

With the football season over, the students of the high school will now interest themselves in the track. The local institution has plenty of good material for a track team. Track and football are the best paying proposition in high school athletics.

Liston, Lynch and several of this year's team will be back at school next year. If the school authorities are fortunate in securing the services of Coach Conway again Lowell high should be in line for the state championship next fall.

Tom Leonard, coach of the Nashua high school football team was the object of a near riot Thanksgiving day when he attempted to protest against a decision of the officials during the third period of the Manchester-Nashua football game. Leonard was struck in the face by a Manchester supporter and a detail of police was necessary to rescue him from the crowd.

Eddie McCormack has startled local bowling circles by hurling a challenge at Kempton, the husky fireman for a go at the white sticks. The match is for ten strings, the first five to be rolled at the Crescent alleys and the remainder at the White Way surface. Both McCormack and Kempton have a large following and the match is bound to prove immensely interesting.

An example of real school spirit and loyalty was shown at the Lowell-Lawrence football game Thanksgiving morning when over 4,000 people turned out to witness the annual struggle between the two great schoolboy rivals. Hundreds came from this city to cheer the local team on to victory. Hands were engaged by both teams and enthusiastic cheering squads vied with each other on opposite sides of the field. The local squad of gridiron warriors gave a wonderful exhibition of gameness and the students displayed a spirit of loyalty and support never before witnessed on a Lawrence field.

Arthur McCann, son of Police Officer Matt McCann, gave a very good account of himself on the gridiron this season and he should not be overlooked in selecting the All-Merrimack valley team. McCann played in every game and while his work wasn't of the shining order he went along consistently and his determination frequently held up the spirit of the front line. McCann played the game for all it was worth and in the game against Lawrence he covered himself with glory. He will make a very valuable man for next year's team.

Although the object of attack in every game in which he was entered this year, Eddie Cawley, the Colby college athlete stood his ground without flinching and as a result of his excellent all around work he has been selected by every sporting writer in Maine for a position on the All-Maine eleven. Eddie spent a few days over Thanksgiving at the home of his father, Edward Cawley in Rogers street. The Belvidere athlete scored more than three-quarters of the points credited to the Colby eleven.

The Bay State league which was to be formed with the White Bears of Winthrop the Crescent Five of this city, the Cambridge Five of Cambridge, and the L.M.A.A. of Lawrence, looks as though it would not start, because of the management of the White Bears being unable to make a go of the game at Winthrop. The Winthrop aggregation which was supposed to open the league season here last night cannot seem to locate a hall anywhere that looks like a good paying proposition.

Frank Barracough, who was seen here last year in the series of basketball games between the Centerville Five and the Belvidere aggregation, and who has been a regular member of the L.M.A.A. quintet for the past two years has been elected captain of the Lawrence team for the coming season, succeeding Jack Lacasse. He will have complete charge of the playing end of the game. The business end is in charge of Leon Waite, who is well known here as one of the most gentlemanly players engaged in the winter sport. Leo Lacasse is not playing with the Lawrence team this season either and his place is taken by Garry Wilson, who captained the down-river Y.M.C.A. team last season. The Lawrence team will journey to Lewiston tonight for a game with Vance's Lewiston outfit.

Here's one to T. Nelson Metcalfe, the Oberlin gent, who coached the Columbia football team this season, and thereby brought $100,000 toward a stadium to Morningstar Heights. The conditions under which the stadium was promised by an anonymous individual were that the blue and white eleven go through its first year without a defeat. He made the promise at the beginning of the year, and T. Nelson and his team went through for a touchdown.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL NOTES

Well, the season is over for good, and Lowell finished in grand shape.

Jimmy Liston, the Belvidere speed marvel, will in all probability be seen at the head of the local squad next year. His playing during the past season makes him worthy of the position and we think he is competent enough to bring out a winning team.

"Lowell certainly lived up to her reputation," says a Lawrence writer, "for playing her best game against Lawrence, and the way Lynch ploughed through the Lawrence line proved it."

A Lawrence scribe suggests another meeting between Lowell and Lawrence eleven, and he thinks that a very opportune date would be next Saturday. It is doubtful if the school authorities of Lawrence would stand for the meeting, and even if they did, it would be no go, as Principal Irish would oppose the proposition.

Mike Quinn, who played football for the first time this season, is to be commended for his work on the team. Quinn knew practically nothing about the game when he started, but after careful study and strict application to the advice handed out by Coach Conway, he soon became a very valuable man. Quinn is also going up in his studies which is another item to his credit.

Although it is impossible to ascertain the exact amount of money taken in at the annual Haverhill-St. John's game at this time, the management of the Hills City aggregation has roughly estimated the receipts at $200. This estimate includes the revenue from the sale of general admission tickets, reserved seats and auto parking. St. John's share is 10 per cent. of the general gate receipts, the prep school receiving nothing from the reserved seats or from the auto parking.

Making good on every chance during the first half, James "Roundy" Pionce, who was honored by being chosen quarterback on the All-Merrimack valley eleven by many sporting writers, made a remarkable showing in arranging the movements of his team against the heavy opposing high school eleven. Pionce was hurt in the game with Nashua, but he was back in harness in two weeks' time and he performed very creditably against Haverhill, Lowell, and Lawrence.

Ralph Pearson, who has played a brilliant game of football for the Haverhill high school eleven at fullback during the past season will undoubtedly be the choice of the letter men for the 1916 season. Although there are several eligible for the position, Pearson will be unopposed for the position. Pearson has been first string fullback for two seasons. He was laid up with a broken leg at the time Haverhill played here and Lowell and Lawrence forced to forego the pleasure of seeing him perform. Pearson can be compared with Lynch as one of the best schoolboy fullbacks in this section.

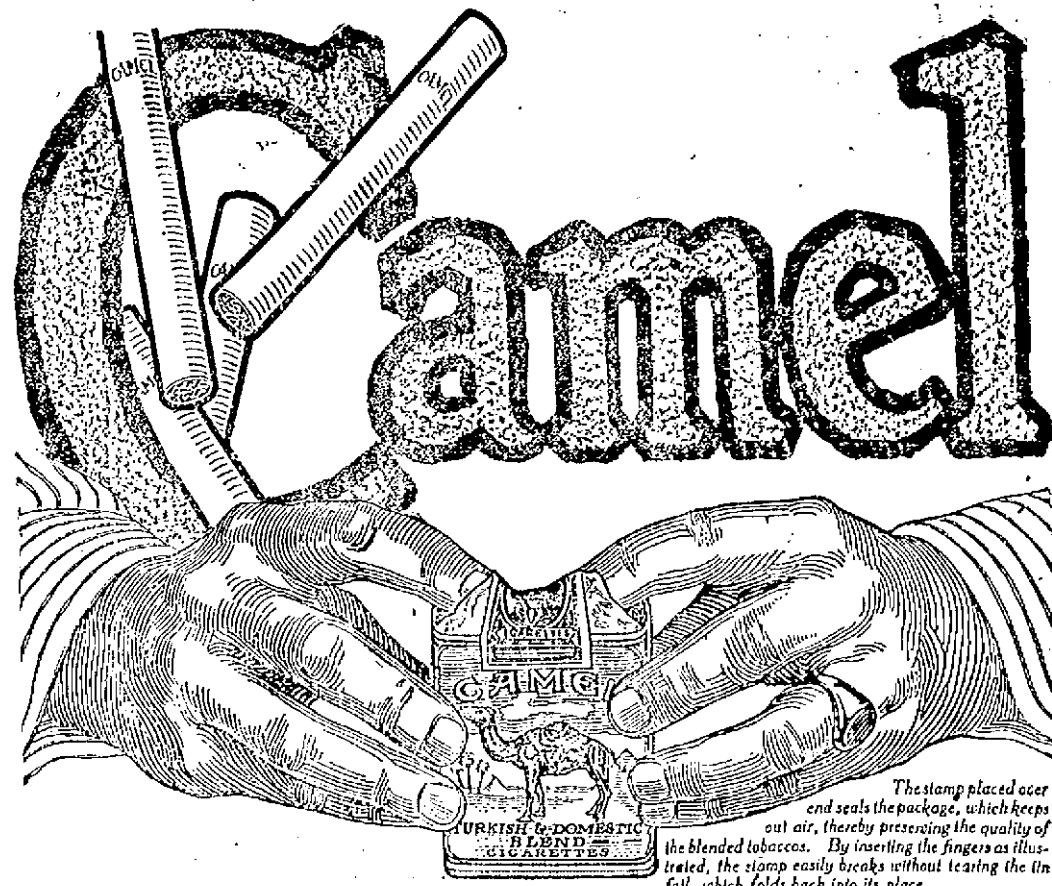

Desmond, of the Lowell High school eleven, was the star of the stars of the season, and his ejection from the Lawrence game, through no fault of his own, was a severe blow to the team. During the entire playing schedule, Desmond was a great power to the local eleven. His long runs, line plunges and spectacular tackles aided greatly in making the 1915 season one of the most successful in recent years.

WITH THE PADDED MITTS

Ted Lewis and Mike Glover top the Atlas A.A. bill tonight in a 12-round scrap. Lewis made Glover look like a novice a few months ago when they met before at Boston and the wise ones are expecting a repetition of the last contest. The only time Glover touched Lewis in the lower rounds when they shook hands at the start and at the end of the fight, so it can be seen how easily Lewis outclassed the South Bay fighter. The latter's friends, however, claim he can do better tonight. This takes the place of the Charley White-Lewis bout which was broken off as it would be too hard to take the risk, when he has the first bout in which Freddie Welsh will defend his title and a setback from Lewis would mean that White's title would be won by Lewis. We think in a limited number of rounds.

Joe Egan and Johnny "Kid" Alberts are the principals at Lawrence next Thursday in the feature bout of 12 rounds. Egan is well known throughout this section, having appeared in many fights at New Bedford, New England. Egan showed twice in this city and won both fights, defeating Kid Gooden in seven rounds and Steve Keane in 12. Egan is also well known all over the east. He recently beat Ray Wood at New Bedford in easy fashion, and by this battle, which can be seen whether or not it is a good performer, for Wood is a hard man to beat and any boxer turning the trick must have the goods. Young Keefe of Lawrence and Benny Lewis are the boys to furnish fireworks prior to the main show.

Philly people will get the Christmas date at Lawrence and his opponent will be Harry Carlson of Brockton, providing Carlson will make 12 rounds possible. If Carlson cannot make the weight, Howard McKee will get the assignment. The fans want to see Boyle and Carlson again in action and if Jim Crilly can secure this team,

LESS DRUNKENNESS

Official Police Approval Given No-Treating Ordinance in England—Conditions Greatly Improved

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Official police approval is given to the no-treating ordinance in report from the headquarters of the Metropolitan Police on its workings from October 11 (when it went into effect) to November 1. The police report generally that less drinking is being sold, fewer people visit the saloons, and those who do stay for a shorter time than before, and there is less drunkenness, especially among women. The ordinance is being practically observed, the police say, in all the 12,000 licensed places in the London area.

The report says, in part: "There is a consensus of opinion among the superintendents of all allvisions that drunkenness generally, and among women in particular, has decreased.

A marked diminution in the number of women and children standing outside public houses drinking has been noticed, and in many districts the practice has ceased altogether. "Police have invariably found fewer people on licensed premises and a tendency to make shorter stays has been observed."

"Practically no breaches of order have occurred, and licensees and their servants have shown at all times their willingness to assist the police."

SIR HORACE PLUNKETT

Declares America Should Launch Citizenship Movement for Organization Among Farmers

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Declaring that America should launch a citizenship movement for the organization among farmers of self-help, the Right Honorable Sir Horace Plunkett, K.C.V.O., of Dublin, Ireland, last night addressed the opening session of the third national conference on marketing and farm credits, speaking to delegates from 40 states.

The speaker came across the ocean to address it as the first of a series of talks and conferences that he will hold throughout the United States, with the end in view of organizing American agriculture. He was the first minister of agriculture of Ireland and called the "father of the Irish co-operative movement" which has under its wings 105,000 Irish farmers organized into 1000 co-operative societies.

He described the weak spot in American rural economics as being a lack of business organization among farmers. He dwelt upon the chaotic conditions that accompany the marketing of farmers' products and the purchasing of farmers' supplies. He showed how the cities of America and other nations have been developed at the expense of the countryside. He declared the time is ripe for all public spirited persons to interest themselves in the fundamental development of agriculture.

"They must get together," he said, "they must eliminate waste, or America will fall behind more competent nations. He showed how the co-operative movement of Europe has stood the test of the greatest crises in the world's history and dwelt at length upon the sharpening of the business ability of the co-operative managers as a result of present stringent conditions. Not only must America learn to organize her food supply, he said, to meet critical periods such as war, but America must prepare for the great international competition which is bound to strike the American farmer keenly since he is farthest behind in organization for his own interest. This danger to the farmer will be reflected in every other industry; for America is still dominantly a farming country, said Sir Horace.

"Allow me to utter the warning which will have to be faced in the United States and Canada, as well as in the United Kingdom in Europe, in Germany and in other countries," he continued. "This relates to the very vital problem of co-operative finance, both what is called 'long term' or 'real credit' and 'short term' or 'personal credit.' Finance is, indeed, a vital part of the co-operative organization. There is nothing more vital for the co-operative movement than that it should clearly sound also a note of self-help. Looking not only to the future of America, but at the movement in the old world today, this idea stirs the depths of my feelings, that while the state must give its aid to the co-operative movement it must seek to obtain for it the greatest possible freedom."

Secretary Holman's Address
How the highest real estate deal in the history of the world was consummated by the British government buying out the Irish landlords and reselling the property to the tenants was told by Secretary Charles W. Holman of the National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits to that body.

How the principle was successful in Ireland could be administered in America was explained by the speaker, who recently returned from Great Britain where he made a study of Irish land legislation and administration. Holman urged the adoption by congress of that section of the report of the United States commission on industrial relations which dealt with the land problem. He was in charge of the field studies made by the commission.

"In state aid of land purchase," he said, "lies the immediate hope of the American farm tenant, for by that means only can we hope for a quick action to stem the growing tide of landlordism."

Secretary Holman credited state-aided land purchase in Ireland with these benefits:
The industry of occupiers has increased; farm houses and farm out-buildings have improved; the tendency to sell interests in land has decreased; the tendency to sublet and divide holdings has become almost dormant; the solvency of the occupiers has improved; there is a feeling of contentment; a prevalence of law and order that did not exist under landlord and tenant relations.

"What a contrast this affords against the American movement towards tenancy," the speaker said. "In Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, New York, Ohio, and

THE SPELLBINDER

The recount of the vote cast for mayor in the recent primaries, held at city hall, yesterday, demonstrated three things, to wit: that the Lowell vote intelligently, that the Lowell electorate as a whole knows how to vote intelligently, that the Lowell precinct officers, as a whole, are good vote-counters; that the Lowell registrars know how to conduct a recount in an eminently satisfactory manner.

When one considers that there were only 163 blanks out of over 13,000 ballots cast, and that some of these were cast intentionally by men who didn't care for any of the candidates, for such men are to be found at every election, he must conclude that the Lowell voters did a very accurate job at the polls.

As yesterday's recount proceeded the impression was given out and held until the finish that Mayor Murphy was making slight gains and when the last precinct was being counted he was supposed to have a lead of four on the day's count, which together with his two vote lead on the original count would make his corrected total vote six ahead of the former Mayor.

But when the corrected vote was counted up it was found that each had gained four votes and that the mayor still led the former mayor by the narrow margin of two votes. The wrong impression was probably due to the unintentionally erroneous announcement of gains and losses on the blocks of 50, which could easily happen without detection.

As there was no request for a recount of the aldermanic vote the registrars did not concern themselves with it, except to take an occasional passing glance at the ballots. Hence the numerous ballots said to have been cast were not disclosed, though the fact that they were not shown is no evidence that they did not exist. As a matter of fact they were in existence. The fact that there were only 163 blanks on the aldermanic ticket and over 900 on the mayor's is the best evidence that hundreds of votes for one candidate and passed up the second.

The precinct officers of precinct one of ward nine proved to be the star counters of the occasion. They had sorted out their ballots when counting them, a procedure that assures an accurate count but which takes more time than some precinct officers care to give to the job. Each block of 50 contained 50 votes for one candidate or another.

The reputation of precinct one of ward eight for accurate voting received a jolt in the recount when it was discovered that two blank ballots had been counted as valid by the precinct officers. At the state election when it was announced that the Highland precinct had cast over 500 votes without a blank, the good people of that section were given credit for their fine ability as voters. Then came the primaries with the announcement that over 500 votes had been cast for mayor without a blank. But the recount showed two blanks on the mayor's ticket.

One of them was an improperly marked ballot, the mark in this case being against the name of Dr. Mignault. Two similar mistakes had been ruled on previously. Registrar McKenney having a newspaper clipping containing the law on the case. But on this particular ballot Mayor Murphy raised objections to the registrars' ruling although Lawyer Goldman who represented Dr. Mignault was satisfied with their decision. The vote was recorded as a blank, whereas the precinct officers had given the doctor the vote.

Evidently there are some men who will never know how to vote properly, for each year finds a number of ballots on which the voter has marked too many, or marked his ballot in the wrong place, or made the wrong kind of a mark. In one of the precincts a voter did not mark any names for alderman or aldermaness but on the school board ticket he made a cross against the name of every candidate, not in the box provided for the crosses, but within the rule, immediately after the names. Another voter marked three candidates for mayor and neglected to vote on the other contests. In one case a voter went to the polls, received his ballot and then deposited it without making a mark of any kind on it. But the great bulk of the recorded blanks were those made with all due intelligence, and with intent, the blanks that follow the bullets.

Cheaper Gas

Great is gas and Momand is its prophet.

The present talk about cheaper gas brings us back to the halcyon days of Squire McVey and his Chelmsford Gas Light company, when the squire proposed to light the city of Lowell at a cost that would be as a song compared with the price being paid at that time. And there is no doubt that the squire's proposition made the Lowell Gas Light company sit up and take notice. Squire McVey proposed to lay pipes from one of the neighboring gas light companies into Chelmsford and then connect with Lowell, metering his gas at Chelmsford and paying a cent-of-a-ton company according to the amount used. One of these gas companies had pipes running as close to Lowell as Billerica, and the squire conceived the idea of extending the mains and competing with the Lowell Gas Light company.

But it didn't materialize, and now we have another proposition while we are also regaled with the running spectacle of the municipal council under the "equal rights" solemnly calling for bids on the contract to light the city of Lowell with gas, when there is only one gas light company, and competition is out of the question.

While devoutly hoping that the citizens of Lowell may yet and soon get cheaper gas, from all indications this talk about cheaper gas at the present time is nothing more or less than election talk, not exactly a promise, but of somewhat similar nature. A year ago or more, before the board the trade, Mayor Murphy promised to reduce the cost of lighting $25,000, but the reduction has not been made as yet.

The Ward Four Club

The candidates were out in force at the meeting of the Ward Four Improvement club last evening, a report of which appears elsewhere in this edition. George H. Brown made a hit by declaring that municipal affairs are being administered from the second story of D. L. Page's rooming house, and that he will put a stop to it and have the city's business done at city hall, in open session—if elected.

Relative to the pet improvement desired by the Ward Four club, the establishment of a playground in Chamberlain street, all promised to give the club what it desires—if elected.

Did I say all? There was one exception, former Mayor O'Donnell, who believed in doing it now instead of waiting until next year, when it might be forgotten. The former mayor showed how the improvement can be brought about at this time without the necessity of borrowing a dollar. There is enough money left over from the street improvement appropriations to buy the land and yet keep everybody in the street department working as long as the outdoor work lasts, and the former mayor suggested that the land be seized forthwith, while two of the members of the council who have promised it next year, are still in the government.

Herbie Body Recovered

Almost one week after the Bernbe boy was drowned, an undertaker by grappling recovered the body, the sewer department having previously dynamited the river in a fruitless effort to bring it to the surface. If the city of Lowell had some system for recovering bodies as is in vogue in Boston, Lawrence and other cities, in all probability that body might have been recovered within 24 hours of the fatality and before it had been distressingly mutilated or discolored.

Promises Are Rampant

One hears on the street that promises are rampant, all, however, having the reservation—if elected. Judging from the promises made to applicants for positions on the police force, we'll believe in doing it now instead of waiting until next year, when it might be forgotten. The former mayor showed how the improvement can be brought about at this time without the necessity of borrowing a dollar. There is enough money left over from the street improvement appropriations to buy the land and yet keep everybody in the street department working as long as the outdoor work lasts, and the former mayor suggested that the land be seized forthwith, while two of the members of the council who have promised it next year, are still in the government.

Still No 7000

The recount showed a gain of four votes in Mayor Murphy's total vote, but the final result fell far behind 7000.

One Man Happy

The recount made at least one man happy. He bet one dollar with a friend that Dr. Mignault would get over 3400 votes. His friend bet the doctor would not. The stakeholder was in a quandary but held the money until after the recount. The corrected figures gave Dr. Mignault a gain of 2, or 3402 votes, and the bet was decided.

Co. Expires Today—New York
Company a Bidder

In the absence of Mayor Murphy at the regular meeting of the municipal council this morning, Commissioner Carmichael presided and routine matter was transacted. Daniel J. Donahue, Esq., counsel for the Public Service Lighting Corp. of New York, was present and said his company could save the city thousands of dollars on its lighting contract and at his request a hearing was set for Wednesday, Dec. 15. Several garage and gas-olene petitions were read and referred. A petition from Thomas E. Adams for a garage at 333 Westford street, another from Charles Shatt for a garage in School street and one from R. H. Caldwell for a garage at 103 West street were read and referred. The Lowell Powder Co. petition for a license to erect a garage and keep gasoline was read and Col. Butler Ames appeared for the petitioner saying the garage would replace that for-

Reason for Kaiser's Visit to Vienna, Says Report to London

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The Pall Mall Gazette, associating Emperor William's visit to Vienna with reports that Germany is willing to enter upon peace negotiations, ventures the opinion that as already suggested, the emperor's trip to the Austrian capital may be a fresh attempt to bring about a conclusion of a separate peace between Austria and Italy. It says: "Some features of Italy's attitude may lend encouragement to such an enterprise. The government at Rome, for reasons never disclosed, has refrained from declaring war on Germany and has shown no particular eagerness to co-operate with the allies in restoring the situation in the Balkans."

"It is believed in Berlin that Italy can definitely be squared by a liberal surrender of territory in which she claims a national interest, great pressure may be employed at Vienna to bring about such a sacrifice and thus liberate Austrian troops for other regions."

PAYETTEVILLE, W. Va., Nov. 30.—An explosion occurred at noon today in mine No. 2 of the Boomer Coal & Coke Co. at Boomer, W. Va. Three hundred men were said to be in the mine when the accident happened and it was not known here whether any escaped.

Telephone advices report that all but 25 of the miners have come out of the mine and the company officials say that indications are that these 25 are alive and will be brought out as soon as the smoke clears away.

ATTEMPT TO ROB BANK

ARREST OF THREE MEN IN NEW YORK MAY CLEAN UP THEFTS
OF $125,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The arrest today of three well dressed men on charges of attempting to rob the cashier of the New Netherlands bank by looking packages of bills on a canal led police to believe that a number of similar thefts in which banks have lost a total of $125,000 during the past few months will soon be cleared up.

The men arrested today described themselves as William Elliott, 27; Charles Hoffman, 22, and William Clark, 21.

One of the men had engaged the cashier in conversation while, police charged, a companion pushed a cane through the bars of the cage and was withdrawing a package of money when the three were arrested. Police added that they had followed the men for several hours as they drove in a large automobile to several up-town banks.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Concerted efforts by all the eastern railroads to relieve the freight congestion along the Atlantic seaboard were planned today at a meeting of the presidents of the trunk lines held in the office of President Rea of the Pennsylvania railroad.

At the close of the conference it was announced that a committee had been appointed to consider ways and means to meet the present situation, which it is admitted is extremely serious.

SLASHED WITH RAZOR

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 30.—Enraged it is alleged, because his love was unrequited, Joseph Ferrero, aged 12, of 263 Water street, stepped up to Miss Mary Molinaro on Howard street last night and slashed her in the face with a razor. The assailant then fled to the tracks of the New Haven railroad and escaped his pursuers, shooting at them with a revolver as he ran. The girl, who is 22 years old, is not seriously injured, but will be disfigured for life, it is said.

EXPLOSION IN POWDER
MILL KILLS TWENTYMysterious Explosion in Du Pont Plant Near Wilmington, Del., Worst in 30 Years—Buildings Rocked—Great Excitement

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 30.—Twenty men are reported dead and many others injured by an explosion this afternoon in the Black powder mill of the Du Pont Powder Co. at its Hagley yard on Brandywine creek, about three miles north of this city.

The explosion is said to have been the worst that has occurred in a Du Pont plant in 30 years. It shook the city heavily and caused much alarm. It is said the man reported killed are all young. The name of only one is known as yet, David Bain. Du Pont ambulances brought the injured to the hospitals here as rapidly as possible.

Although the police information is that 20 are dead, the company denies that anybody was killed.

Later reports indicate that the effects of the explosion were terrible.

Officials of the Du Pont Powder company started shortly after 2 o'clock for the scene of the disaster to make investigation.

At the powder yard the greatest excitement and confusion prevailed. The cause of the explosion is a mystery as the conditions at the time were normal.

Bodies Mangled

Around the powder yards, tremendous excitement prevailed, families of the workmen frantically endeavoring to get on the premises. The bodies of victims in many instances were mangled beyond recognition.

Blown to Atoms

Elmer Meal, a driver, was blown to atoms as also were the two horses he was driving.

The explosion wrecked the pellet pack house and the press room in the upper yard. The department where it occurred is devoted to the making of black powder.

MOTION TO DISMISS
INDICTMENTS DENIEDCounsel for Hamburg-American Line Officials Attack Govern-
ment's Case—Defense Opens

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Counsel for the four Hamburg-American line officials on trial for conspiring to deceive and defraud the United States assailed by legal argument today the case which the government has presented by witnesses against them, and lost every point of their contention.

Federal Judge Howe, presiding at the trial, heard the argument in the absence of the jury. Judge Howe denied the defendant's motion to strike from the record all testimony concerning the chartering and movements of the steamer Marha Quesada and later over-ruled a motion to dismiss all the indictments.

Far from being the usual perfunctory motion which is sandwiched into nearly every trial between testimony for the prosecution and the defense, argument on today's motions was protracted, included a brief review of virtually all the testimony, and was buttressed by citations from many legal authorities. In the vigorous assault against the government's case, the defense occupied the floor more than four-fifths of the time, the government contenting itself with a brief sketch of the testimony as the district attorney and his staff reviewed it. The motion to dismiss denied, the defense opened its case at the beginning of the afternoon session.

IS NOT GUILTY WILD RUNAWAY

Charge of Manslaughter
is Dismissed

The manslaughter complaint against Charles U. Guthrie, the chauffeur in charge of the automobile of Mrs. Rose J. Gilbride, which ran over and instantly killed four-year-old Stepan Jackowicz of Middlesex street directly in front of his home on Sunday, November 11, was dismissed by Judge Enright in police court this forenoon.

Since the accident occurred, Guthrie has been held in $1000 bonds as for about a week ago an inquest into the sad fatality was held before Associate Justice John J. Pickman and several witnesses were closely examined. Judge Pickman's finding on the inquest was submitted to Judge Enright today and after reviewing it his Honor ordered Guthrie's discharge.

The defendant was represented by James J. Kerwin.

Judge Pickman's Finding

Judge Pickman's finding reviews at considerable length the circumstances of the fatality and concludes as follows: "I find that on Sunday, the fourteenth day of November last past about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, that an automobile owned by Rose J. Gilbride of Lowell, in said county, was being operated by her chauffeur, Chas. U. Guthrie, on the northerly side of Middlesex street; in said Lowell, that when said automobile was being run a short distance west of South street from its entrance into said Middlesex street, a child about four years of age, named Stepan Jackowicz, who was running on said street, was struck by said automobile and sustained injuries thereby that caused his death; that the accident was caused by the skidding of the rear part of said automobile when it was being run over and upon the sidewalk from said Middlesex street to prevent injury to said child."

It and that the death of said Stepan Jackowicz was not caused by the criminal negligence of said Charles U. Guthrie, nor of Rose J. Gilbride, the owner of said automobile."

Two Boys Thrown From Wagon Near Pawtucket Bridge

Mortimer Flavon of 3 City Hall avenue was seriously injured and a companion had a narrow escape when both were thrown from a wagon during a lively runaway from School and Pawtucket streets early this afternoon. The two young men were driving along School street, toward Pawtucket, in a light delivery wagon when the horse became frightened and suddenly dashed ahead at break-neck speed. The driver was unable to gain control of the animal and it galloped down the School street hill as far as the Pawtucket bridge, where the wagon struck a pole, checking the horse's speed and throwing both occupants into the street. The post held the wagon securely and the horse was unable to proceed. Flavon was picked up suffering from bruises about the body and possibly internal injuries. He was laid in the ambulance to the Lowell hospital. His companion was apparently uninjured.

LITERARY STYLE

Spoke Before the Middlesex Women's Club

Mr. Meredith Nicholson, writer of many successful popular novels and essays of distinction, was the lecturer before the Middlesex Women's club yesterday afternoon, and whether due to the heat of his Atlantic essay or the heat of his Atlantic personality, one of the largest audiences of the season turned out to hear him. All who did so were well repaid for their interest in an hour of the purest literary enjoyment. Mr. Nicholson traveled from Plato to William Dean Howells and covered about a score of splendid lectures into a vivid condensation which he calls "Style and the Man."

Mr. Nicholson is more the reader than the lecturer. Yesterday afternoon he confined himself religiously to his manuscript, and it may be confessed without detracting from his distinction that he read a little too quickly for the peace of mind of the average reporter or even of the average audience. He would touch on a famous name, and say a very brilliant thing, but while we were admiring, or smiling, as the case might be, presto! over the fence and into another literary field to gather another crop of analytic thrusts and keen descriptive passages. To follow Mr. Nicholson closely is to ride in a roller coaster of glorified criticism. A shorter paper read a little more slowly would make a more enjoyable, if less exhilarating, lecture.

Style, according to the lecturer, is not a matter of abstract literary excellence; it is the author's revelation of self. Shakespeare, Milton, Keats, Byron and the other great poets stamped their works with their distinctive individuality so that the poem of the one could not be taken for the poem of the other. Hazlitt and Lamb showed their different temperaments in their writings, and Aldrich, whom he described as "the first of our poets to find a lodging in the first of his personality on the lines of 'Memory' which Mr. Nicholson thinks the best lines ever written on the subject. Children have an individual way of saying things, declared the lecturer, and in every locality there are persons whose sayings have a tang and a turn of thought all their own. There is nothing more painful than the young high brow, and nothing more charming than unsophisticated children. He also said that it is a pity we cannot find some way of speaking the bible into the schools; it is so full of poetry, grandeur and richness of thought. Speaking of the decay of reading he said: "Mr. Ford's coal oil-buggies and the motion picture shows make reading a lost art, but somewhere somebody is always reading a good book." He spoke more specifically of the atmosphere of Indiana, saying: "In the corn belt, the telephone is largely used for literary conversations; literature is not going out, and God knows that we are working at culture hard enough."

dwell for some time with the ancients, particularly Plato and Horace. Coming down to leaders of American literature, he said: "It has become the fashion for young professors to deride American literature. Emerson, Hawthorne, Lowell, Holmes and the others have come in for criticism. As an advocate of the open shop in criticism, I may declare that I like Swift better than Addison and Steele whose prose lacks variety. We hear a great deal about style and inspiration, but from the works of Spencer, De Quincy, Stevenson, Pater, Frederick Harrison, etc. we learn that style is the result of taking infinite pains. Corrections are often more the result of inspiration than the original form. There is a happy luck in the first thought, but there is also the subconscious preparation which Shakespeare and Tennyson believed in. Taste changes and the lecturer can imagine an editor sending back 'Sir Roger de Coverly' with the injunction: 'Inject some pep into the old guy.'

Mr. Nicholson spoke of eloquence as the rarest quality in literature. He contrasted Everett's speech at Gettysburg with that of Lincoln and said that while the former may have sounded more eloquent, the latter will live forever as a sonorous and beautiful poem. He does not believe in the stiltedness of the extemporaneous speech, having found that orators are something of a liar.

Here he contrasted the style of the romanticist and the realist, saying: "Words must make us love, see and feel. The 'Rise of Silas Lapham' is within our common experience, but when Bourne comes down the stairs in 'Henry Esmond' we must hear the rustle of her gown and hear the click of her pretty slipper." He paid a warm tribute to the style of Thackeray, Arnold and Newman. Arnold had great power of statement, was a master of irony and had few equals in the power of repetition. Of Newman he said: "It was unfortunate that he confined himself so much to theology and to subjects that have no permanent interest. He has been rarely equaled in the range of English prose."

"Europe studiously ignores American literature," said Mr. Nicholson, "with the possible exception of Poe, Walt Whitman and Stephen Crane. Yet he returns to be savaged by such judgment. There was a classic in his own day. His language never lost its felicity and color and the cumulative power of 'The Scarlet Letter' is great. Lowell had knowledge, skill and effectiveness. He was the most cultivated man we ever produced—the last of our great readers. Emerson's books were like his personality. Though a little patronizing, he arrests the attention and his power over the imagination is wonderful. He refrained from prettiness as such, being filled with his deep and misty message, and being concerned mainly with the preaching of it. He was beneficent, sanguine and wise."

Back to Europe again, and to Ruskin, Macaulay, Johnson, Carlyle, Pausanias. If Mr. Nicholson could call the spirits back, he would have Dr. Johnson and Carlyle at dinner, with Peppys peeping in. Macaulay is a "gentleman while driving a coach and four—a smooth driver. His pen never scratched or squeaked. Stevenson liked good phrases; he had a zest for life and had the grace of a light touch." Then to Mr. Henry James. He has few lean strokes, but he is provocative. He is not a little clement but a flowing well, he is often incomprehensible. Mr. Nicholson sometimes thinks of him as rising to hand a lady a cup of tea. Mr. James falls, spilling the tea, knocking over the gold fish and crashing on the piano keys. Then he looks up with surprise at the harmony he has evolved.

There was a final word about Jane Austen whose "Pride and Prejudice" Scott read three times; George Meredith and William Dean Howells. Finally, the lecturer said—or read—that style is as much of a mystery as ever, and nobody disputed the point. All had been to a feast.

"And still the wonder grew
That one small head could carry all he knew."

AUTOMOBILE IN POND

FARMER DIDN'T HEAR AUTO HORN
AND JOHN LOCKE TOOK A COLD
PLUNGE

Some time during the early hours of yesterday morning a big National automobile belonging to John Locke of this city skidded on the wet Nashua boulevard and landed wheels up in a pond at the right hand side of the road at Washburn's brush factory, Tyngsboro. Mr. Locke, according to witnesses, was driving his car down the hill at a high rate of speed when the farmer's team appeared in front. He sounded his horn, but the driver of the team apparently did not hear it and when Locke applied his brakes the car turned two complete circles on the highway, crashed through the heavy wooden fence and dove into the pond. When the machine whirled around Mr. Locke was thrown out but not seriously injured.

"CALLED THEIR HAND"

FORMER MAYOR O'DONNELL WANTS
PROMISES FOR NEXT YEAR CARRIED OUT AT PRESENT TIME

Former Mayor O'Donnell "put it up" formerly to the members of the present administration at the Lyon street school last evening when he called their hand on the proposition to seize land for playground purposes in Chambers street.

It was the first public appearance of the candidates for municipal office since the primaries, and they all assembled at the ward four polling place in response to an invitation from the Ward Four Improvement club to attend its meeting.

A large gathering of voters was present and all of the candidates were there. Mr. Philip Harley presided, and Mr. Richard Lyons served as secretary. The Ward Four Improvement club is an organization formed for the purpose of having that section of the city properly looked after, and to have it receive its share of public improvements. It was given out that the people of that section want the city to seize certain unoccupied land in Chambers street for playground purposes for the children of that section and the club is out to have the improvement put into effect. Mayor Murphy spoke in favor of the proposition and promised that if elected he would bring about the matter next year. He also promised the club other improvements for the district.

Commissioner Moore also promised to favor the project next year. If elected. Former Mayor O'Donnell commended the club upon the laudable purpose of its existence and said that he was pleased to learn that the organization was an improvement club rather than essentially a political organization.

Continuing, former Mayor O'Donnell said substantially: "Men seeking election have promised you that they will vote to seize this land that you desire for a playground. If elected, they would probably promise you most anything. But why not put their sincerity to the test? Why not sit down tonight and prepare a petition asking the city council to seize the land in Chambers street for playground purposes? I will sign it with you. Go to city hall tomorrow morning to the meeting of the municipal council and present your petition. I will go with you and will advocate the passage of an order to seize the land. Two members of the government have already promised that they will favor the proposition—if elected. Why not do it now? Not a dollar will have to be borrowed for the seizure of the land at this time, and the city will not be taxed a dollar additional, because the city treasury has $40,000 left over from the street improvement appropriation which cannot be spent for its original purpose this year, and which could be used to pay for the land in Chambers street."

Former Mayor O'Donnell then pointed out the improvements that had taken place in the ward four section during his incumbency as mayor, including the widening and straightening of Union street, the paving of Gorham street from Union street to Davis square, the appropriation for the South common bandstand, etc. He stated that when ever the residents of ward four had requested a needed public improvement while he was mayor it was given to them without delay, and without the proviso—if elected.

Other speakers were Abel R. Campbell, Hon. George H. Brown, James E. Donnelly, Daniel Cogrove, John E. Crowley, Peter P. McEntinon, William H. Stafford, John J. Gilbride and Capt. James W. Jantzen. Rep-elect John J. O'Donnell is treasurer of the club.

RAILROAD LEGISLATION

SUBJECT PROBABLY WILL NOT BE EXPRESSED AT THIS SESSION OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Legislation affecting the railroads and the interstate commerce commission in the opinion of administration leaders in close touch with the subject probably will not be pressed at this session of congress.

There is pending in the senate committee on interstate commerce the bill considered at length last session to give the commission jurisdiction over the issuance of railroad securities.

There also is a movement which has attained considerable impetus to enlarge the membership of the commission. Both subjects undoubtedly will be given attention early in the coming session, but it is doubtful if either will be pressed for action for another year.

Regarding the railroad securities bill a difference of opinion has arisen in the minds of democratic members as to the extent of authority that should be given the commission over railroad stocks and bonds. Some think that compulsory publicity of railroad issues would be sufficient while others believe the commission should have direct regulation of the issuance of securities.

As a result of this difference of opinion brought about by the unusual conditions together with in regard to transportation requirements during the war there is a movement among leading democrats in congress to turn the whole question of railroad securities and the enlargement of the interstate commerce commission over to a joint congressional committee for thorough investigation and report.

With regard to reorganization of the commission suggestions have been made that the membership be increased from seven to nine and that the commission be divided into departments. Senator Newlands, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, said today that this subject, together with the railroad securities bill, probably would be taken up for consideration but in his opinion such matters would be submitted to a thorough study by a joint committee.

DECLINES $50,000 OFFER

FORD REFUSES TO TURN CRUISE OF THE OSCAR II INTO A MOVING PICTURE EXPEDITION

DETROIT, Nov. 30.—Henry Ford yesterday, as a side line of his peace propaganda, declined a proffer which meant a cash payment of more than $50,000 to him, conditioned on turning the cruise of the Oscar II into a moving picture expedition.

The proffer was made by representatives of Commodore J. Stuart Blackton of New York, who trailed Mr. Ford to Detroit, only to be met with his refusal. Exclusive privileges of filming the Hague legation was what the commodore wants. Mr. Ford registered extreme disapproval when he heard of the proposition.

"The men in the trenches know for what we are working. The news has been spread among them by the greatest of agencies, the press," he said.

"I have received many assurances of this and know that they are with us heart and soul; I have all faith that on Christmas day the world will see a general strike—that on that day of days war-worn men will climb from the trenches, throw down their arms and start home."

"And then militarism will be dead, dead forevermore."

Careless of criticism, fired with one purpose, regarding expense as no obstacle whatever and holding that the time, because of the birthday of the Prince of Peace, is most opportune, he is so arranging his affairs that he may be absent for months without disturbing the activity of his industry.

Mr. Ford will leave for New York on Wednesday night. Mrs. Ford and his son Edsel will remain at home, but Mr. Ford places his plan even beyond the attractions of home at Christmas.

"I am going on the ocean," he declared firmly. "The hazards of storm, submarines, torpedoes and all other dangers are nothing compared to the principle involved."

"This principle is merely that militarism must die. Ever since the world began I have been considering means of ending it. The thought has been with me constantly. I have been waiting only for an opportunity. That opportunity has come."

"There was an official truce last year, men ceasing to kill men for a short time on Christmas day. This year there will be another truce. The men will come out of their trenches and if they go back in then they are fools."

"If the war is stopped now, England will have done it. If England had not come in when it had, militarism would have overridden France and everything else."

"I'm pro-English if the war is stopped now. I motored through that country for more than 7000 miles, and all the time that three months or more I never heard a cross word, the English being the kindest and quietest people I have ever met."

"I have never been in Germany."

Mr. Ford stated that the Oscar II would go to Copenhagen, then to Stockholm and from there to The Hague.

At The Hague the foundation of an international court would be established by the 20 or more peace delegates, and then invitations would be sent to all the contesting nations to send representatives with a view of arbitration.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

KENTH'S THEATRE

There's a fine opportunity for even the savage breast to be soothed at Kenth's this week for the program presents some of the most charming musicals here in a long time. This feature being provided by the Seven Colonial Belles, six instrumentalists and a singer. As their name would imply, the Belles are a charm in themselves, in looks and costume, but their act is replete with that one great essential of vaudeville, popularly known as "the goods." They have the goods, musically as well as in appearance. Their instrumental music is purveyed through the medium of the string, wood and reed instruments, a most pleasing departure from the general run of "musical acts" in which harmony battles with volume for supremacy, volume generally winning out. The music of the Belles is sweet to the ear and satisfying to the more exacting musical critic for it is of a high order and is relieved entirely of the clap-trap stuff sometimes dignified with the name of music. Miss Dorothy Sherman is the pianist; Miss Blanche Morrill, first violin; Miss Margaret Fallentin, second violin; Miss Betty Garvin, viola; Miss Aubrey Munroe, cello; Miss Genevieve Davis is the soprano. The act is exquisitely staged, the scene being an old-fashioned colonial room at twilight, with the players and singers gathered around a cheerful fireplace. The good old melody, "Just a Song at Twilight," is sung by Miss Davis, softly played by the musicians. The Strauss waltz "Beautiful Blue Danube" was next played. Miss Davis giving it a vocal accompaniment. Miss Morrill gave a violin solo followed by the stringed quartet. The Paderewski Minuet was well played and then Miss Davis sang "Comin' Thro' the Rye," the other members executing a graceful minuet. In conclusion the ladies gave several popular selections that were well received. It is surely a beautiful offering.

Elise Williams, assisted by Del. W. Severard demonstrates in most amusing manner what dire results follow the spilling of a salt cellar. It has always meant a fight since the days of Adam and Eve or whenever happened to be the earliest of civilized nations. It is the comedy sketch, "Who Was It Blamed?" presented in admirable manner by Miss Williams and Mr. Severard. It is described as a "domestic comedy" and it is surely such with a couple of genuine domestic comedians to bring out its good points. Jim Hadley and Jessie Noble who made a big hit here very recently are on the bill again having been engaged to fill the place of Tower and Barrell, who were compelled to cancel their act at the 11th hour. Hadley and Noble were welcomed back by all who have seen them for their act. "Calling for Her" is all to the merry and well bears repetition. Their act went better than ever at yesterday's performance.

Odono has a musical novelty consisting of piano-accompaniment which he afterward connects with an electric current with bells, producing a quality of music that demanded several encores. "The Porter and the Bellboy" is the title of a lively act by George W. Cooper and Charlie Smith, a couple of blackface singers with good comedy in addition thereto.

Watson and Little in "A Matrimonial Bargain" give first class character singing and modeling for the role and play a novel skating act that is decidedly attractive. The Hearst-Selig News Pictorial offers some up-to-the-minute views. Seats may be ordered in advance by telephone 25.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Under Cover," Roi Cooper Marjorie's active, interesting and entertaining four-act drama, is the attraction at the Lowell Opera House this week, and it would be hard to conceive of a happier selection for the week's offering. It is a splendid combination of vim, humor, drama and other necessary essentials, and what makes it particularly interesting is the fact that it might occur in everyday life.

The story depicts the fine weave of Marjorie's imagination. It concerns the smuggling of precious stones from Europe and the modus operandi of the secret service force in digging up the responsible parties. To tell the story here would be subtracting from the pleasure of those who have not seen it, but who intend to see it. If you successfully pick the guilty party before you hear the end of the performance, then you may put yourself down as a bit of a Sherlock Holmes.

This very excellent offering is in the hands of an excellent company, well balanced and the parts are generally well cast.

Homer Barton and Miss O'Day appear in the principal roles. Their work is excellent and they are well supported. Mr. Barton's interpretation of "Steven Denby" is all to the good. Denby is not the man to tell all he knows. But on the other hand, he is disposed to do a sort of mysterious attitude that, to the unsophisticated, would spell "guilt" right off the bat, yet, while Denby seems to flirt with trouble, he pulls out all right and the mystery clears. Miss O'Day as "Ethel Cartwright" but adds another laurel to her list of genuine successes. She has all the troubles that are necessary and she handles herself very skillfully. As the victim of one of the members of the secret service, who forces her to use her influence to ferret out the supposed henchmen, she is exceptionally good. Daniel Taylor, the head of the secret service, is well suited for the role. Taylor is a new member of the cast, and it would be difficult to select a better man for the role. Joseph Crehan is there with the laugh stuff, and Miss Eunice Elliott and Miss Louise Harcourt, also recent additions to the company, are especially good in their respective parts. As "Michael Harrington" a man of wealth and influence among his business associates, but who hasn't a burglar's chance with his wife, Carson Davenport is good. The other members of a large cast are adequate.

The staging of the piece is well done. Performances afternoon and night for the remainder of the week.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Interested audiences watched the adventures of Chimmie Fadden in the first of the thrilling Chimmie Fadden plays, entitled "Chimmie Fadden Out West." The action of the play is rapid and gripping, whether in the scenes of the east or on the plains of the distant west. Chimmie is quite a fellow, possessing keen Irish wit and characteristic aggressiveness. He accepts the position of being a for a fake gold mine, and goes to the west where he "salts" a mine, and as a result many people are persuaded into investing their money into worthless stock. When the mine is discovered, what he has done has brought home to him by his girl, Chimmie repents and exposes the whole scheme, and incidentally loses the ten thousand dollars which was his share in the movement. This well acted play will also be shown today and tomorrow at all the performances at the Merrimack Square theatre. The 12th episode of the "Naught of the Navy" serial was also shown and will be shown again, so don't miss it either today or tomorrow. The comedy for the first three days of the week is a scream and the Pathé News reveals the latest important events. The comic mysteries will put in their appearance at the Merrimack Square this evening and a real funny time is promised all.

JEWEL THEATRE

Warren Kerrigan, one of the most prominent motion picture actors of the day, will be seen in a series of three "Terence O'Rourke" romances, one each to be shown every Wednesday and Thursday at the Jewel theatre, beginning tomorrow. As the adventurous "Terence," Kerrigan plays a role that fits him like a glove, and he has made a name for himself in past plays under that name. He is assisted by a strong cast of Universal favorites, which adds great strength to the productions. Be sure to see these three episodes as they are a brilliant, heart interest and hazardous adventures. Many other things will complete the delightful performance for Wednesday and Thursday of the week. Amateurs will occupy the balcony tonight at this popular house.

OWL THEATRE

"Bachman Friction," the great war story without a battle, will again be the attraction at the Owl theatre to-day. Featured in this five-part Metro play are Mary Williams and her young co-star in the world, and Miss Thomas as Whiffen, the stage's oldest actress. Several excellent photographs of the Mutual program will also be presented.

MAYOR CURLEY CALLS BOSTON COUNCILMAN A "TAX DODGER"

LATTER REPLIES

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—Mayor Curley made another bitter attack upon Councilman James J. Storrow last night, charging that he requested this year that his personal tax be reduced to $150.00, although in 1913 and 1914 he paid a personal tax on $650,000, and characterizing him as a "tax dodger."

The mayor admitted, however, that the assessors had taxed Mr. Storrow on $400,000, and that up to date he had paid one-half of the tax without protest.

In his statement the mayor denied that Francis L. Daly was his business partner and said that the latter's plumbing business at city hall since Jan. 1, 1915, totaled $1475, also that from January to November of this year, Marks Amell, also reputed to be his partner, had only received orders amounting to $296.

So far as the contracts received by Chairman James J. Timilty of the democratic city committee are concerned, the mayor stated that these were awarded only after competitive bidding.

MINNESOTA HUNTERS REPORT MORE MOOSE AND DEER SHOT THIS FALL THAN IN MANY YEARS

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 30.—Hunters returning from the woods declare the present big game season in northern Minnesota, is an extraordinarily good one and that more moose and deer have been shot this fall than in many years previous.

Few Fatalities

Approximately 3000 hunters from various parts of the country took to the woods this month in St. Louis county, Minnesota, alone. Hunting fatalities have been few compared with previous seasons. Several boys met death through carelessness. A farmer was shot by a hunter who mistook him for a deer. Two hunters fell off logs and were killed by the consequent discharge of their own guns. Another hunter was kicked out of a canoe by his shotgun and drowned.

FL-EL OF THE TOY SHOP

OPERA WILL BE PRODUCED BY SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE NEXT MONDAY EVENING

"Fl-El of the Toy Shop," which will be given at Merrimack Square theatre next Monday and Tuesday evenings, under the auspices of the Social Service league, will probably more nearly approach the professional than any amateur event ever given locally.

The spectacular play in which animals and dolls think and talk is one of the best ever written and has all the combinations that please. It is replete with clever situations; surprises are furnished in every act, and the costuming and stage settings are equal to that of many of the best comic operas.

The interest, as a matter of fact, grows each day at the rehearsals among the participants and enthusiasm is unbounded. The music, dances and "stage business" of the play have made a stirring appeal to all who have witnessed the preparations, and the

GARRISON SCORES TAFT

Raps Former President for Lending Name to Statements on Conditions in Philippines

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Secretary Garrison of the war department issued a formal statement yesterday sharply repudiating former President William H. Taft for having lent his name to what are termed "statements on conditions in the Philippines" under the present administration. Circulation of these statements, Mr. Garrison charged, cheapens the name of the republic and its policies and attempts to lay the foundation for campaign material with respect to the Philippine Islands.

Particular attention is given by the secretary to articles written by O. Garfield Jones, and published in a California newspaper and later republished in pamphlet form under the title "Unhappy Conditions in the Philippine Islands," with an introduction by Mr. Taft. The introduction attributed the conditions described to the "blind and foolish policy of President Wilson and Governor General Harrison."

In connection with his comment Mr. Garrison said that he had recently written a letter to the department, asking where a newspaper might be found for a "much better article" which he had prepared on "The Philippines and the Democratic Regime," declared to be highly favorable to the administration.

The statement follows: "It is becoming very plain that the republican politicians are attempting to lay the foundation for campaign material with respect to the Philippine Islands. There have recently appeared a series of interviews or articles exhibiting a shameful intention in this matter. These statements are mendacious in character and mischievous in intent. Many of them proceed from sources so inconceivable as to carry little if any weight, even if unproved. Others, however, and prominently those whose names and prominence supposedly lend weight to their utterances. It is inconceivable that even partisan zeal would lead these men to so stultify themselves.

"Realizing that the honor and good faith of this nation were involved in its relations to the Philippine people, I have abstained from any partisan comment or conduct with respect to this subject. The United States took over an enormous responsibility which should be carried out in the highest spirit of good faith and altruism, and all those who respect the good name of this country should at least refrain from misrepresentation and false statements concerning conditions.

"The government instituted in the Islands by the United States was conceived in the best spirit and has in the main been carried out in the most worthy way. Such mistakes as have been made were only such as are inevitable in the conduct of human affairs. That government has been continued in the same spirit by the present administration, and conditions, governmentally considered, were never better than they are in the Philippine Islands today.

"The bill which was pending in the last congress and which will be brought before the next congress is exactly in line with all that has heretofore been done in the islands, and is simply the next proper logical step to be taken toward developing the people thereof for self-government. No honest reading and consideration of the measure can lead to any other conclusion. Because the preamble of that bill repeated in concrete language that which has been substantially stated to be the position of this country from the time of President McKinley down, it has been falsely labeled an 'independence' bill, and the impression has been widely conveyed that it alters in some vital, radical way the orderly progress of self development of the Philippine people. Such an interpretation creates an absolutely false impression.

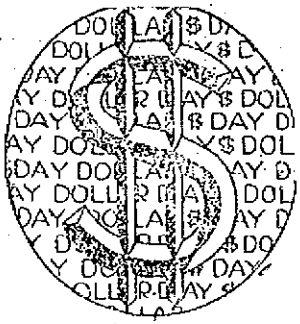

"President Taft, when governor-general of the Philippine Islands, was the first one to announce that the motto of the American administration was 'The Philippines for the Philippines.' He properly and honestly presented criticism against him for taking this position. He constantly stated that this was the only position which any one, acting in good faith and with the honor of his government in his keeping, could take; that from the very beginning this was the announced policy of this country constantly reiterated and reiterated by the presidents of this country, by its representatives and by its congress. No one had so plausibly set forth as has President Taft the malicious misrepresentations, the mendacious statements, and the vicious assaults that proceed from those in the Philippine Islands who are not permitted to exploit the natives and the country for their own benefit.

"President Taft was absolutely justified in his bitter denunciation of these attacks, which makes it all the more amazing to find him indulging in exactly the same conduct toward those who are now occupying positions of trust and responsibility in the Philippine government.

"There lately appeared a series of articles in a newspaper called the Oakland Tribune. Subsequently they were published in a pamphlet entitled 'The Unhappy Conditions in the Philippine Islands,' by O. Garfield Jones, 'Former Member of the Philippine Department of Education, with an introduction by ex-President William Howard Taft, Governor General of the Philippines.' In the introduction ex-President Taft says:

"I have read with much interest Mr. O. Garfield Jones' article on present conditions in the Philippines published recently in the Oakland Tribune. It is not news to me.

"What he says of the demoralization in the present government, due to the blind and foolish policy of President Wilson and Governor General Harrison,

DAY SPECIAL AT MITCHELL'S

Wednesday only, any man ordering a Suit or Overcoat can have an extra pair of trousers made from the same material or any other fabric you may select for.....$1.00

A tailor shop is not adapted to One Dollar Sales. This cost don't pay for the sewing, but there are many reasons why I can accomplish this. First of all, I want to be a booster and a consistent advertiser. The bigger our newspapers, the greater our city and business. Second, I am doing the largest business in Middlesex County. Third, I buy in large quantities and for cash—take advantage of all concessions and discounts. Fourth, I sell for cash only; no charge accounts; let my business show me a five per cent. net profit, I am satisfied. This explains why we can and do undersell all our competitors.

Get the Habit, Trade at Mitchell's, Be One of the Shrewd People.

Come in Wednesday; order a Suit or Overcoat for $12.50, $15.00 or $17.00, and get an EXTRA PAIR OF TROUSERS for less money than you could buy a set of pockets for.

I can afford to take the loss if you will only tell your friends where you got them and the price you paid.

CARE OF THE EYEBROWS

The appearance of the eyebrows is seldom appreciated except by stage people, who make the eyebrows do as much as possible in their makeup to express what is supposed to be set forth. The eyebrows are very easily trained to an attractive manner of growth. It is, therefore, amazing that more women do not take advantage of this fact and cultivate their brows.

Eyebrow brushes may be obtained in the shops, but a small, fine toothbrush answers the purpose very well. With it the brows should be brushed night and morning to promote their growth and train them into the proper shape. High, arched, delicate brows indicate the aristocrat. If they are thin a drop of olive or almond oil or a bit of pomatum or vaseline should be rubbed into them.

The eyes need the protection of dark lashes and brows, so this is care that health, as well as beauty, dictates. Ill-shaped brows may be disfigured into the proper outline by running a muslinage brush over them at night. Dip it in gum tragacanth or quince seeds dissolved in elder flower water, romany or rose water. Let the gum dry on and wash off in the morning with warm water. A month or so of this treatment will reduce quite unruly brows to subjection and coarse hairs will drop out.

An alcoholic water, pure alcohol or perfumed glycerine rubbed into the eyebrows with the finger tips will improve their luster and promote their growth. A French ointment is: Red vaselin, 10 grams; borle acid, 10 centigrams. A stimulating pomade is: Red vaseline, two ounces; tincture of cantharides, one dram; oil of lavender, 15 drops; oil of rosemary, 15 drops.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The Men of the Round Table of the First Baptist church conducted a supper and rally for the boys of the church last evening, the affair being held in the vestry of the church. There were 89 boys and 12 men present and initial steps were taken towards the formation of a castle of the Knights of King Arthur and for this purpose another meeting will be held Monday evening with members of the Eliot church castle.

Those who addressed the gathering last night were Rev. W. F. Wilson of West Somerville, formerly organizer of the organization, and Walter H. Pilcher, chairman of the boys' work committee of the church, who spoke on "Lucking the Line." At the close of the meeting it was announced that the Men of the Round table had appropriated $100 towards the formation of the new organization.

ORDERED TO WAR COLLEGE

Captain Kittelle and Captain Niblack Assigned to Naval War College at Newport, R. I.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Capt. S. E. W. Kittelle of the cruiser, Maryland, which has been placed in reserve at Mare Island navy yard, has been assigned to the navy war college at Newport, R. I. Capt. A. P. Niblack, recently relieved from command of the battleship Michigan, also has been ordered to the war college.

POISONS TURNED LOOSE

Fermentation and putrefaction are constantly taking place in the digestive tract and poisons are constantly being formed. Provision has been made to take care of these poisons but when the liver is torpid and the bowels constipated they find their way into the circulation and much mischief follows. A coated tongue, headache and eruptions result.

The use of the gentle laxative pills, Pinklets, will not only banish these unpleasant symptoms quickly but if used regularly for a reasonable time, will really correct chronic constipation.

Pinklets contain no poisons or harmful drugs. Write the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for free sample or get a full-size 25-cent bottle of Pinklets from your own druggist.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION

The Carranza Forces Again Open Communication Between Guaymas and Hermosillo

TOPOLEAMPA, Mex., Nov. 29, by train to San Diego, Calif.—Carranza forces again have opened communication between Guaymas and Hermosillo, the capital of Sonora state, and Gen. Diezguiz is endeavoring to intercept 2500 Villa troops supposed to be heading through southern Sonora in an attempt to join Gen. Bandera, the Villa commander in northern Sonora, according to advices received here today. Fear of an attack by Indians on the American settlers in the Yaqui valley has increased as all but 50 troops have been withdrawn from that vicinity to participate in the Carranza campaign to the north.

The necessity for maintaining an adequate garrison in the Yaqui valley for the protection of Americans and other foreigners, and this possibly avert a massacre is now being strongly presented to Gen. Diezguiz in messages by Admiral Winslow, who is proceeding with his flagship, the cruiser San Diego, and an expeditionary force for Topoleampa. The San Diego was reported last night on Cape San Lucas, the southern extremity of Lower California. Naval officers who visited Los Mochis, the scene of the recent raids, found foreign property in the outlying districts still held by the Indians. Carranza of both states, however, that these lands would be returned to their rightful owners as soon as they had been recovered.

Owing to the presence of Carranza troops in large numbers at Los Mochis, Americans who had taken refuge on the United States gunboat Annapolis and those who had come for safety to Topoleampa have decided to return to their homes at once.

NEW INDUSTRY UNABLE TO SECURE PLANT IN PITTSBURGH—WORK ON WAR ORDERS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 30.—The Pittsburgh foreign trade commission is announcing that it was unable to find a vacant factory for a manufacturer desiring to locate in the Pittsburgh district, stating today that every manufacturing establishment in and around the city capable of being put in operation without an expenditure equal to the cost of new construction was now in use. The new business which makes this condition possible, the commission stated, was due to the orders placed by agents of the entente allies now located here and to orders from Canada. War material forms a large proportion of the output.

MUST GIVE UP STEAMERS

APPLICATIONS OF RAILROADS TO CONTINUE INTERESTS ON GREAT LAKES DENIED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Applications for a re-hearing of the case involving the right of trunk line railroads to continue their interest in and operation of steamers on the Great Lakes despite the prohibition in the Panama canal act, were denied today by the interstate commerce commission. The applications were made by shippers' attorneys as the railroads declined to ask a re-hearing.

The commission's order requiring the railroads to give up their steamers is effective Dec. 15. Some officials here believe the railroads will apply to the courts for an injunction to restrain the commission from enforcing the order until it can be settled on its merits. This is believed to be the reason for the failure of the railroads to ask for a re-opening of the case. The railroads involved include the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Rutland, Erie, Grand Trunk, Lehigh Valley and Lackawanna.

CONTROL OF DANUBE, INTERNATIONAL RIVER, EAGERLY SOUGHT BY ALLIES AND TEUTONS

WHERE RUSSIA CONCENTRATES TROOPS AND SCENE ON DANUBE.

The map shows the points where Russia is reported to be concentrating troops for an invasion of Bulgaria, either by the Danube—which is by treaty an international waterway—or by the Black sea. The heavy circles mark the points of concentration at Reni and Ismail on the Danube in Bessarabia and at Odessa, Russia's big Black sea port. The lower Danube is wide and deep enough for a flotilla of large steamships. The expedition may strike at Rustchuk, Bulgaria's principal Danube port, or at Varna or Burgas, her Black sea ports. Varna already has been bombarded by the Russians, but German submarines are reported operating there. It was reported from London that the Roumanian government had refused a request of the Austrian and German governments for permission for their warships to proceed along the Danube river in Roumania toward Galatz and the Black sea. It was supposed in London that the request was due to desire on the part of the Teutonic allies to menace from Galatz, the Russian concentration in southern Bessarabia.

THE LADY'S WORKBAG

The possibilities of the common cheese box do not seem great but this same box, with both its parts, makes an attractive and commodious workbasket. The box and cover can be stained, but for this purpose, enamel paint, white or colored, is preferable. Cut two disks of stout cardboard, cover these with cretonne, and fit in the bottom on the inside or it can be left bare. In either case pockets of cretonne should be tacked around the inside of the box with small brass upholstery tacks.

Three wooden supports, painted like the box, one inch and a half square and three feet in length, should be fastened at equal distances apart, to both box and cover. The latter should, of course, be at the top, and the bottom of the box should be about six inches from the floor. The support may be allowed to project a few inches above the tray, thus serving as convenient handles.

Bed slippers are welcomed by all ages and both sexes, but particularly are they welcomed by the old people when the circulation becomes sluggish, the nights become cold and the sheets seem to be in sympathy with the outside temperature. These slippers should be knitted so as to come well up about the ankles. If they are rather tight at the ankles they will be all the more snug.

They are made without soles and are consequently not for use when walking about the floor, as are the usual knitted slippers. Knitted gloves, too, are welcomed by the men and boys of the house, particularly if they are lovers of the outdoors. The men of course do not wish to wear them on the streets of the city but if in the suburbs or country they are much appreciated.

Cross stitch makes most appropriate embroidery for the much used winter living room. It seems to fit in with the atmosphere of such a room, and is never too elaborate for the furniture, there being a simplicity about it that makes it adaptable to all kinds of surroundings except the drawing room.

It seems especially made, when they are seen together, for mission furniture, adding just that note of color which is required to relieve the sameness of such furniture. Cross stitch articles for the living room may include table runners, square runners for any smaller tables that may be about, cushions galore including sofa cushions and those for the feet, the covered that is, be thrown over anyone taking a short nap on the couch during the day or evening, and possibly a mantle throw, if one is desired.

The making of towels for the home has become quite a fad. Most women buy for the purpose French handkerchiefs and French huck for their own personal use and German huck for general family use. Of course, the fancy towels which are lace trimmed and embroidered, are not honestly practical. The hemstitched and towels are apt to become ragged while the middle is still good.

The home made towels are made full size with narrow hand-hemmed hems with a linen tape loop at the corner. Small, simple initials are very popular in the corner. They are also very practical towels, and being fine, are very pleasant to use. Some women embroider the ends above the hems like the Bulgarian towels, in little floral borders in the colors of the rooms in which they are to be used, or with little birds and animals for nursery use.

A small bone ring, about three-fourths of an inch in diameter, attached to a short piece of ribbon and sewed inside of one's muff, will prove useful in many ways. A handkerchief may be drawn through this ring and will not slip out of the muff, yet it may be easily and instantly drawn out. It may also be used to hold the ring when they are left in the muff.

Many expensive skins, used in fur coats, are tender and tear easily, but are hard to mend because they will not hold the stitches. Open the lining, draw the edges of the rent evenly together with a few stitches, then apply surgeon's adhesive plaster about an inch wide over it. Put several strips of the plaster across the back and in other places where the strain comes.

Coats for the children may be best made of corduroy in white, which washes beautifully. A white brilliantina or a heavy white voile would also be practical and attractive. These can be worn in the coldest weather with a warm lining coat, which, at this stage of his manhood, is a separate garment. As he grows older a sweater is advisable, as they are not only becoming and warm, but can be washed.

Next comes the serge coat stage with the trouble of keeping the buttons on and the spots off. A wise method of sewing buttons on is to sew a small button on the under side to the one on the right side.

FUR MUFFS FOR SOLDIERS

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—Fur muffs for soldiers are the latest recommendation of the versatile General von Buelow.

The recommendation is made in reply to an inquiry which the Tagblatt addressed to all the German army commanders asking for suggestions as to the most appropriate Christmas gifts for soldiers at the front. Von Buelow replied that muffs would be very useful on the eastern front, to be used by men on duty in the trenches. Cold and worn-out muffs, he adds, would be just as useful as brand new ones. "There must be a cord attached," he explains, "so that we can hang the muffs round our necks."

Markusen, from Serbia, asks for cocoa, chocolate, fat and butter. (Gail wire replies only: "We don't want any more.") We are richly provided with that. Admiral von Koster urges against the sending of spirits or in fact any alcoholic beverages. In fact, no spirits are asked for by any troops except the guards regiments, which want rum. The crown prince suggests light red wine and smoking materials. Other commanders mention slippers, warm socks, handkerchiefs, candles, red carpets, tooth brushes, writing materials, and soap.

ENORMOUS BURDEN OF WAR. COLOGNE, Germany, Nov. 28.—The enormous burden of the war on Cologne is indicated by a recent report of the first mayor, who announces that between August, 1914, and October, 1915, the sum of 2,500,000 marks ($3,750,000) have been paid by the municipality to the families of soldiers for their support.

THE FRENCH MAID SAYS:

NOVEL BRIDAL SHOWER

"We girls are going to give a bridal shower to one of our members who is to be married soon," Marie told Marie one day, "and we want you to suggest some things to give."

"Linen is one of the most popular and appreciated gifts one can give a coming bride," said Marie. "You might have one-shower basket, to contain such necessities as rag rugs, rag curtains, sofa nap robes, hand worked cushion covers and laundry bags for household and personal linen."

"With the exception of the weaving of the rag things, every article mentioned can be made by hand, and, inexpensive as each article is, altogether they are valuable and sensible gifts for a new household that is to be run entirely on a young man's salary."

"Therein lies the most important point concerning the bride's shower. The quality of the articles given must be in accordance with the means of the home they are to grace. Bright and useful kitchen utensils make acceptable gifts always, and if they are set upon a round table, covered with a pretty white cloth trimmed at the table edge with a border of red paper polka-dots, the effect produced is sure to be pleasing to all that behold it."

"Where the shower is hung between folding doors and so arranged as to tip the contents at the bride's feet when the door is opened, it is made most effective if suspended by wide ribbons and ornamented with a motto in large letters, such as 'May all your life be showered with beautiful things.'"

WOMEN IN OVERALLS

Trouser-Clad Women Window Cleaners, Lay Aside Men's Uniform and Return to Skirts

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The trouser-clad women window cleaners who began their work brave in men's overalls a short time ago, have now reverted to skirts and blouses. "It was more than steam and blood could stand," declared one of the women regarding the reception accorded their dress reform movement by the populace.

The Nottingham factory girls were the chief opponents of the new uniform, which consisted of a jacket and trousers closely resembling a workman's overalls. Crowds of girls followed the trouser-clad women through the streets, asking questions and making loud cat-calls. The women went to their employers and protested. Now they are wearing skirts once more.

NEW HAVEN TRIAL

Defense Won at Least a Temporary Victory Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The defense at the trial of the 11 former directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co. under the Sherman anti-trust law won at least a temporary victory today when they succeeded in raising a doubt in the mind of the court as to the admissibility of evidence pertaining to the acquisition in 1907 of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railroad Co.

Judge Hunt, after listening to an hour and half of argument, announced that he was unable to decide the relevancy of the evidence without further study and excluded it for the time being.

The defense argued that the New York, Westchester & Boston Railroad Co. was a separate entity from the New Haven Railroad Co. and was not acquired by the New Haven for that purpose. If the evidence is definitely excluded it will bar out testimony which the government purposes to introduce in connection with steps taken to amend the charter of the road which might bring out sensational revelations of political activity. Some of the Westchester stock sold to the New Haven at prices alleged to have been excessive is said to have been held by prominent politicians.

LISTON FOR CAPTAIN

STAR HALFBACK UNANIMOUS CHOICE FOR HEAD OF HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL TEAM

James Liston, the Belvidere speed marvel and star halfback on the Lowell high school eleven was unanimously elected captain of the 1916 football team at a meeting held by the squad immediately following the adjournment of the school session today. The meeting was held in Room 3 with Capt. James "Roundy" Roane, the presiding officer.

The election of officers was the first matter taken up and when it was announced that Liston was the unanimous choice for captain of the 1916 team a great cheer went up. Liston, in a neat speech, thanked his fellow athletes and expressed the hope that the team next year will be in the running for the state championship.

After the election, the following warriors were announced as winners of the coveted "L" sweaters: Roane, Liston, Lynch, McLeod, McManmon, McCann, McAdams, Desmond, Quinn, Rutledge, Walker, Heathcock, Brown, Greenburg and Coughlin. The sweaters will be black with a red "L." The sweaters will have the letter "L." on the back.

Shortly before the adjournment of the meeting Coach Conway and Faculty Manager William H. Bennett addressed the boys and congratulated them on the excellent showing made against Lawrence and the other big high school teams.

MILK DEALER FINED

Leo J. Sherlock, a local milk dealer, was found guilty of having in his possession milk to which water had been added by Judge Enright in police court this forenoon and ordered to pay a fine of $50. He appealed. George P. Toye, who appeared for the defendant, produced a witness in the person of State Inspector Daniel McCarthy who testified that he went to the defendant's milk room after the complaint had been made by the local inspector, Melvin Master, and took samples at the request of Mr. Sherlock. Some of the samples, he said, after being analyzed, showed that water had been added. The samples taken were from milk purchased by the defendant from producers. This was offered in an endeavor to convince the court that the producers, and not Sherlock, were to blame for the watered milk, but his Honor adjudged Sherlock guilty and imposed the minimum fine.

The Drunken Offenders

Frank P. Donahue, who was arrested at a political rally on the eve of the primaries, charged with drunkenness, and continued until today for trial, failed to respond to his name when called by Clerk Savage and he was defaulted. Suspended sentences were the rule with the drunken offenders today, for being placed in care of the probation officer. One first offender, against whom a complaint was made yesterday, was fined $5. Another first offender was released by the court and there were a few releases issued by Probation Officer Slattery.

PRES. WILSON'S MESSAGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—President Wilson's address to congress went to the public printer today. The president put in the whole of yesterday at work on the document, completing it last night.

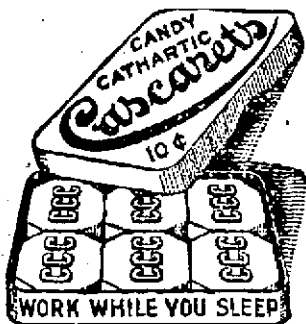

The message, which is comparatively brief, will be read by the president at a joint session of the two houses of congress a week from today. It deals primarily with national preparedness, other questions on which the president hopes to see legislation being left for treatment in other addresses to be made to congress after the Christmas holidays.

The address was read to the cabinet today before it was sent to the printer. Cabinet members were enthusiastic over it, particularly the portion which deals with the appeal for united action for national defense.

YOU'RE BILIOUS! CLEAN LIVER AND BOWELS TONIGHT

Don't stay headachy, sick, or have bad breath and sour stomach.

Wake up feeling fine! Best laxative for men, women and children.

Enjoy life! Remove the liver and bowel poison which is keeping your head dizzy, your tongue coated, breath offensive, and stomach sour. Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy, constipated and full of cold. Why don't you get a box of Cascarets from the drug store and eat one or two tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Cascarets never gripe or sicken like salts, pills and cathartics. They act so gently that you hardly realize you have taken a cathartic. Mothers should give cross, sick, bilious or feverish children a whole Cascarets any time—they act thoroughly and are harmless.

FIELD MARSHAL FRENCH

COMMANDER OF BRITISH FORCES IN LONDON FOR CONFERENCE WITH PREMIER

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the British forces on the western front, was in London yesterday and conferred with Premier Asquith.

So far as the public knows Field Marshal French has not been in London before since he paid a secret visit to the British capital late in January. He conferred with the British and French war ministers at Calais on July 6th.

Earl Kitchener, British secretary of war, was in Paris yesterday. There have been reports that a movement was on foot to place Gen. Joffre, the French leader, in supreme command of the Franco-British forces on the western front, but London has denied there was any foundation for them.

FEELS EFFECTS OF WAR

PORTUGAL, MORE REMOTE THAN ANY OTHER COUNTRY IN EUROPE, SUFFERS FOOD SCARCITY

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 30.—Portugal is more remote from the seat of war than any other country in Europe, but it is suffering a scarcity of food that is as serious as that in some of the belligerent countries.

Provision stores and depots are the scenes of almost daily riots in protest against the conditions. On the night of October 21, for instance, a mob of 2,000 men, some of them armed with pick axes and other implements, stormed the provision store of an important English dealer in the Alameda district and plundered the place. The Republican guard, which crossed the river to restore order, was received by the mob by shots and bombs. The guard fired several volleys and numerous persons on both sides were wounded.

The scarcity of food is due in part to the fact that successive governments of Portugal have bound themselves to supply Great Britain with certain quantities of provisions sent to Gibraltar. Under this agreement large numbers of cattle and miscellaneous provisions are sent out of the country every week with the result that there has been almost no meat in the markets of Lisbon. The egg supply is also less than half of what it is in ordinary times, the shortage being partly due to the fact that a good many eggs are sent surreptitiously over the border into Spain, where they may be sold for double the price and officially by the government in the food markets here.

MEXICAN TEACHERS HERE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—President Wilson today shook hands with a group of Mexican school teachers sent to the United States by General Carranza to study school systems. They were introduced by Counsellor Folk of the state department.

One Smashing Blow

Some folks go on for years wondering why they have headaches, nervousness, heart flutter, biliousness and various other ailments. But they never suspect a most common cause—coffee drinking.

Coffee contains caffeine, a powerful habit-forming drug. The little doses repeated daily irritate the nerves, unsteady the heart, hinder digestion and work havoc generally with many coffee users.

The simple, easy way to smash coffee troubles at one blow, is to quit the coffee and use —the pure food-drink.

POSTUM

There's "nothing missed" with the change; and thousands have found it means a big step toward health and comfort.

Postum is made of wheat and a bit of wholesome molasses—has a rich flavour, much like mild Java coffee, yet contains no drug or other harmful element.

Postum comes in two forms: The original Postum Cereal requires boiling; Instant Postum is soluble—a level teaspoonful in a cup of boiling water makes a delicious drink—Instantly. Both kinds are equally delicious, and the cost per cup is about the same.

Ten days off coffee and on Postum will show

HEADACHE FROM A COLD? LISTEN!

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends severe colds or grippe in few hours.

Your cold will break and all grippe misery end after taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken. It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffing! Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Accept no substitute.

of their two children because she has confessed a "heavenly, divine-sent love" for Chester Chapin ("Chippie") Rumrill, Springfield millionaire, and "recently made many trips with him to distant cities after a promise to put him absolutely out of her life."

Taking the stand before Judge McIntire, in the East Cambridge probate court, as the first witness in her own behalf, at the resumption of the hearing on her husband's custody petition, Mrs. Rantoul, frankly and without a sign of hesitancy, admitted the journey with Rumrill—detailed them, trips to Washington, New York, Hanover, N. H., Peterboro, N. H., Waterford, Me., Wareham—both denied with emphasis that any liberties had been taken when she and "Chippie" were together.

For one hour and a half, she sat facing her husband—only three yards removed—never trying to avoid his steady gaze, and in a voice always clear and audible, despite its low pitched tone, recounted step by step her journey with Rumrill after Rumrill had promised her husband he would never see nor communicate with her again, and after she had similarly pledged her word. Then, too, she admitted writing Rumrill many letters and of receiving many from him, all of which she destroyed.

Mrs. Rantoul's testimony followed immediately an outline of her case by her lawyer, Thomas W. Proctor. In his address to the court Mr. Proctor pictured Mrs. Rantoul as an "ideal mother" seeking to thwart any attempt of a man accused by "whim, caprice and hostility" to take her two daughters from her.

CHARLTON J. WOLLASTON DEAD

Pioneer in Submarine Telegraphy Died at Burnham, Somerset, on Saturday

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Charlton James Wollaston, a pioneer in submarine telegraphy and who laid the first cable from Dover to Cape Gris-Nez, the nearest point on the French shore to that of Britain, died Saturday at Burnham, Somerset.

IN FIGHT TO FINISH

MRS. DUFF REFUSES TO WITHDRAW AS CANDIDATE FOR BOSTON SCHOOL COMMITTEE

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—Mrs. Julia Duff will not withdraw as a candidate for the school committee, notwithstanding the belief yesterday expressed by the officers of the democratic city committee, that she and William C. Prout would be persuaded to withdraw from the contest. Mr. Prout last night declared that he was loth to retire and had not reached any definite conclusion in regard to his future action.

The city committee is making a determined fight to defeat the Good Government association's candidate for the school board, and yesterday Mrs. Duff and Mr. Prout were invited to meet a sub-committee of the democratic city committee. Pres. James P. Timilty met Mrs. Duff and Mr. Prout and urged each to retire in order to enable the committee to centre its entire strength toward the election of Dr. Keenan.

"I told Pres. Timilty that I would never withdraw," said Mrs. Duff, after the conference, "and I also requested to know why my withdrawal as a candidate was so urgently requested. The chairman of the city committee replied that if I stayed in the fight Miss Curtis would surely be elected. I told Mr. Timilty that if anyone should retire it should be Dr. Keenan, and that if he remained in the fight it would merely mean a division of the democratic vote."

"I am in the fight as a positive candidate of the people, according to the charter, and Mr. Timilty was informed that my reappearance after an absence of six years should convince him that I owe it to a large constituency to make the biggest fight of my life."

ANURIC!

The Newest Discovery in Chemistry

This is a recent discovery of Doctor Pierce, who is head of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y. Experiments at Dr. Pierce's Hospital for several years proved that there is no other eliminator of uric acid that can be compared to it. For those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation—as backache, scalding urine and frequent urination, as well as sediment in the urine, or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, it is simply wonderful how surely "Anuric" acts. The best of results are always obtained in cases of acute rheumatism in the joints, in gravel and gout, and invariably the pains and stiffness which so frequently and persistently accompany the disease rapidly disappear.

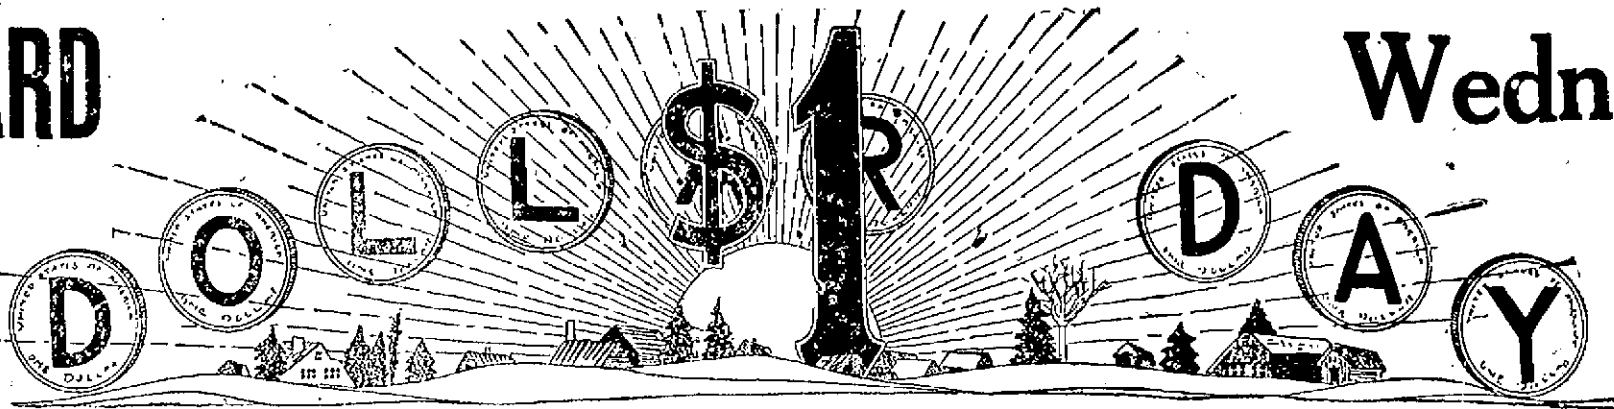

Go to your nearest drug store and simply ask for a 50-cent package of "Anuric" manufactured by Dr. Pierce, or even write Dr. Pierce for a free sample. If you suspect kidney or bladder trouble, send him a sample of your water and describe symptoms. Dr. Pierce's chemist will examine it, then Dr. Pierce will report to you without fee or charge.

NOTE—"Anuric" is thirty-seven times more active than lithia in eliminating uric acid, and is a harmless but reliable chemical compound that may be safely given to children, but should be used only by grown-ups who actually wish to restore their kidneys to perfect health, by conscientiously using one box—or more in extreme cases—as "Anuric" (thanks to Doctor Pierce's achievement) is by far the most perfect kidney and bladder corrector obtainable.—Advertisement.

SEEING AND DOING

Rev. Herbert E. Benton, in a masterly address in Grace church Sunday evening, touched generally on many Lowell needs and specifically on some things which call for immediate attention. Of the immediate problems those emphasized most strongly were the need for the control of tuberculosis and for better moving pictures, in both of which lines there is room for considerable improvement. This improvement will come, according to Mr. Benton, when Lowell recognizes its failings and develops a strong organized co-operative movement among the citizens for the development of higher ideals.

The essential thing as a preliminary step to a betterment of the city's standards, according to this speaker, is "something in the nature of a survey" to reveal to all our people the shortcomings of the city and its vital problems. To a certain extent this is necessary, but until other things are righted, no investigation of dark corners will have practical results. To see what Lowell needs is one thing; to act on the knowledge gained is different.

If a test of this truth is needed, we have it all too plainly in the neglect of certain vital things by the city government of the last few years. To take the matter of tuberculosis, for instance, mentioned by Mr. Benton as one of the pressing questions of the hour: All Lowell knows that this city is grossly negligent in its provision for those afflicted with the disease. The state law for a contagious hospital has been disregarded over and over and the city is known as the blot on the map among social workers of Boston and among the state authorities. Yet, this is not from any lack of knowledge; rather it is due to lack of initiative, efficiency and sincerity at city hall.

At the present time there are contagions raging not far from Lowell, and it may be our turn to attack such a problem before the winter is far advanced. Can it then be said that Lowell, or Lowell officials, did not understand the need for a contagious hospital and scientific social service work? What is the use of a city survey to reveal all our shortcomings when the city is so absolutely indifferent towards the things that everybody may see?

A social survey would be an excellent thing, but in the present spirit of our officials, it would not lead to anything. If a new hospital were proposed as a result of the survey, or greater police protection, or better tenements or anything else, we would be told at city hall that we cannot afford money for such things and that they are not really necessary. Our present municipal council, or some prominent members of it, have declared that a contagious hospital is not essential to the city's welfare, disdaining the demands of the state and ignoring the example of almost every important city in the state. Until we have a more sincere and genuinely constructive attitude among those who administer our affairs, social surveys will be but a waste of energy.

It may be said that a social survey would create a strong popular spirit among the people and in this way induce municipal action. It might and it might not. We have had so called social surveys that nobody believed so flagrant were the errors and exaggerations. Some people are easily led astray by false leaders who have a selfish motive in creating this or that sentiment contrary to the city's best interest. If the people of Lowell would put aside petty political considerations and really agree to boost certain progressive projects, the city officials would be forced to recognize the demand, but up to the present this co-operation has been lacking. There are signs of a growing better spirit, and it is to be hoped that some of the things mentioned by Mr. Benton will be attended to before a social survey is taken.

It may be superfluous to mention some other examples of glaring municipal neglect, but many other things have been left undone, though the need for them has been as apparent at city hall as anywhere else. What about the new high school, the Pawtucket bridge, the public hall, the safeguarding of the canals and rivers, etc.? They are all in the embryonic stage, though the fault is not in the ignorance of conditions by those responsible. How can one who sees the neglect of the past few years hope for anything from a social survey, while Lowell is administered as at present?

ECONOMIC CONTROL

The national chamber of commerce which is more notable for business ideas than for emotional appeals, has made a report as a result of a referendum among its members, with regard to the subject of international arbitration and conciliation. This report urges the agitation of a world court for the settlement of international disputes, and provides for the enforcement of the decrees of this world court. Many interests and movements have agitated an international board of arbitration and conciliation, but the great weakness has been on the point of making its decrees effective, and applying them to nations which may be acting contrary to the principles of international law.

SEEN AND HEARD

No man may be said to be generally unknown unless he has been suggested for the vice presidency.

When women discuss men you hear money mentioned, a good many times and character and sense but seldom, if at all.

Buck Kilby, who has the misfortune to be unhappily married, says the Atlanta man who traded his wife for a keg of beer is a good judge of both.

There is also this to be said for this grand and glorious country of ours. It affords the men more opportunities for kissing the women than any other nation.

Kansas City has succeeded in sending two women, who killed their husbands, to the penitentiary, which probably is the record in that field of endeavor.

Passed the Test
"So you want to marry my daughter, eh?" snorted the old man. "Do you consider yourself financially able to do so?"

"Well," replied the suitor, "after a fellow has bought ready and flowers for a girl for a year, and has taken her to the theatre twice a week and is still not broke, I guess he can afford to get married."—Philadelphia Record.

The Observant Neighbor
"Excuse me, sir," said the panhandler, shuffling up to Dubbleigh's side, "but you couldn't let me have $15, could you?"

"Fifteen dollars?" echoed Dubbleigh. "Great Scott, man—do you for one moment suppose I'd be fool enough to give you $15?"

"No, chief—I didn't," said the panhandler, "but I sort of hoped you'd record it is a kind of personal assessment, and swear off fourteen ninety, leavin' me with a dime to the good."

He got it.

Dug Chinese Wall
Some genius for figures with plenty of time at his disposal has estimated that the German soldiers who have been since the beginning of the war have excavated a quantity of earth which in cubic feet is equivalent to the great wall of China. He arrives at his conclusion in the following way:

The great wall is 2460 kilometers long, 16.5 meters high, eight meters wide at the bottom and five meters wide at the top. The German lines in April extended 150 kilometers in the west and about 1300 kilometers in the east. Behind these foremost lines, however, extend secondary and in most cases third and fourth lines, all connected up by miles of "Hauptgraben," or communication trenches.

Since April the German positions have repeatedly changed, necessitating the construction of new trenches. Each trench is usually from six or seven to a dozen feet in depth and little narrower.

In connection with each one are countless underground shelters. Taken all together, the estimator believes, the

Location of Boils
The main difficulty about a boil is to find a satisfactory location for one. We have never been so fortunate as to possess a boil with whose site we were thoroughly pleased.

It was always in the very worst place it could have been. We had it on our face, on the back of our neck, on our pulse, on our forearm, and elsewhere.

Even elsewhere is not satisfactory. We can always believe that if it had been placed just three inches further east when we were headed toward the rising sun, we should have been happy.

For then it would not have been on our person at all. We have often seen boils located so as not to disturb us in the least. But they were on someone else.

We do not know why, but nearly everybody who has a plain boil is anxious to find somebody to which to prove that "it isn't a boil—it's a carbuncle."

Why is a carbuncle more or less loathsome than a boil? We pause for a reply.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear, Full many a bolt is born to bluish unseen And waste its sweetness on most anywhere."

The worse possible place a boil can be is wherever your latest one is located.

Things That Never Die
Things that never die:
The pure, the bright, the beautiful,
That stir our hearts with youth,
The impulses to wordless prayer,
The streams of love and truth;
The longings after something lost,
The spirit's yearning cry,
The striving after better hopes—
These things can never die.

The timid hand stretched forth to aid A brother in his need,
A kindly word in grief's dark hour,
That proves a friend indeed;
The laborer's softly soothed and tired head,
When justice threatens high,
The sorrow of a contrite heart—
These things shall never die.

The cruel and the bitter word,
That wounded as it fell;
The chilling word of sympathy,
We feel but never tell;
The hard repulse that chills the heart,
Whose hopes are bounding high,
In an unfeeling record kept—
These things shall never die.

Let nothing pass, for every hand Must find some work to do:
Lose not a chance to speak love—
Be firm, and just, and true,
So shall a light that cannot fade Beam on thee from on high,
And angels' voices say to thee,
These things shall never die.

—Charles Dickens.

SHEEP IN AUSTRALASIA

SOME DISTINCTIVE FEATURES WHICH HAVE MADE WOOL GROWING AN IMPORTANT INDUSTRY

More and larger flocks of sheep are necessary to the full development of profitable agriculture in the middle and eastern states, according to specialists in the department. Under present conditions, however, sheep raising in this country has not proved as attractive as in Australia and New Zealand. The agricultural department has recently conducted an investigation, the results of which have just been published as Bulletin 313, into the basic principles of the industry in those countries.

In New Zealand, says this bulletin sheep raising is conducted on lines many between those followed in our farming states and those in the range states. In Australia the sheep industry is, in the main, what would be called in America a "range proposition." With a total land area of a little more than the state of Wyoming, New Zealand has about 21,500,000 sheep, as against 1,500,000 in Wyoming. The average size of the New Zealand flock is now 1124, and seven-eighths of the sheep are in flocks of more than 500 head each. In Wyoming the average size of the flock is nearly 3000 head. From 1 to 8 sheep per acre are maintained in New Zealand on land which has been plowed and sown to artificial grasses. If the land has been surface sown without plowing, this number is reduced to from 1 1/2 to 2 sheep per acre. Land valued as high as $150 an acre has been profitably kept in grass for grazing alone, and nearly one-half of the occupied area is used mainly for sheep.

The important principle the country in New Zealand is declared to be evidence of the possibilities of profit from valuable land devoted to well-managed flocks. The size of these flocks insures for them an interest and care which is not so frequent in the farming states in America.

In Australia conditions more nearly resemble those in the American range states. Much of the Australian land now used for sheep growing is destined to be devoted to farming, and the government is taking an active part in assisting this development. In the meantime land is plentiful and the flocks have much space in which to run. There is, however, one fundamental and important difference between the management of the range in Australia and in the United States. No Australian sheep owner is permitted to use the public domain without charge. On the other hand, he is in no danger of having his land grazed by other persons.

Under the leasing system employed in Australia, the sheep owner secures for long periods of time, at prices varying with its value, absolute control of the land he uses. When the government is ready to resume the land in order to divide it into smaller allotments, the sheep owner is recompensed for whatever improvements he may have made and, in addition, permitted to retain his own central homestead. In the opinion of the Australian, the additional security and the permanence of the business more than compensate for the rent paid to the state. In America, stockmen at this point of view, as some means of controlling and improving the public grazing lands is believed to be urgently needed.

In another important respect sheep raising in Australia differs from that on the American range. In Australia the flocks are not kept collected but are under the care of herders, but are fenced into "paddocks" which vary from 5000 to 10,000 acres in size. Here they are left to run at will under practically natural conditions. In many cases they are only rounded up once a year for shearing. Even at lambing time there is little necessity for attention. This plan not only lessens labor—a difficult problem in all parts of Australia—but puts the sheep into better condition than when they are in charge of even the best herders. On the other hand, the fencing of the sheep runs is, of course, an added expense, but this is considered as less important than the advantages already named.

The greatest difference of all, however, between the American and Australian sheep industries is probably to be found in the handling of the wool after it has been shorn. This subject has already attracted considerable attention, and although it is not believed that the time is yet ripe for advocating the complete adoption in America of Australian methods, familiarity with these would unquestionably aid American wool growers to perfect important improvements in their present practice.

In the United States the wool is not infrequently sold before it is shorn, and in any event the sheep are not sorted for shearing. The entire fleeces are packed just as they run and the price fixed for the entire clip, not in various grades. The sorting is usually sold to traveling buyers and are usually graded after they have ceased to be the property of the grower.

In Australia and New Zealand on the other hand, the wool almost invariably remains the property of the grower until it is sold to the manufacturer. Under this system the cost of actually shearing the sheep is only about one-third of the amount which the grower expends in preparing his wool for market. He himself divides the clip into various lots, and the grading is done with uniformity and exactness. Overclassing, however, is avoided. In one Queensland shed 10,000 two-year-old wethers were shorn and the clip divided into 11 classes. In a New South Wales flock of 700 head composed of 17 ewes, yearlings, wethers, and 23 classes were made, but this is probably an instance of overclassing.

Despite the expense that this practice involves, the Australian is firmly convinced that he realizes more for his wool by selling it in such a number of distinct lots that the manufacturer can find exactly the kind of wool he needs for a particular fabric and that the wool also. An additional advantage is the opportunity that this system allows of enabling the grower to determine the profit that he makes from each particular type of sheep and wool. It often happens that a heavier fleece with a slightly lower value per pound yields more profit to the grower than a lighter fleece with a higher value per pound. The separation of the different classes of wool permits the sheep breeder to determine definitely what class of sheep he wishes to develop.

The Australian method of preparing wool is accompanied and made possible by an auction system of selling. Even a lot as small as one bale can be readily disposed of in this way, whereas in the American wool trade few buyers care to purchase lots of less than 100 pounds. This condition arises from the fact that the dealers who purchase the clips at a lump price per pound have to sell to manufacturers who wish large lines of some single grade. It is not worth while, therefore, for the dealer to buy a small clip containing many different classes, none of which are in sufficient quantity to meet the manufacturer's requirements.

In Australia the auctioneer is usually a member of the Australian wool growers' association, and he is usually a member of the Australian wool growers' association, and he is usually a member of the Australian wool growers' association.

PUTNAM & SON CO.

system in America would require, it is estimated, a co-operative movement by the growers representing 20 per cent of this country's clip. If 50,000,000 pounds of wool were suitably put up and offered for auction for a number of years, it might result in establishing the new method of doing business. This, of course, is not likely to happen for several years to come. Another possibility is to consign classes or graded clips to commission dealers and permit them to combine different parts of various clips to suit the demands of the trade. This method also calls either for co-operation or for close and confidential relations between the grower and the selling agent.

DISCOVER GERMAN PLOT

PLAN TO DESTROY MUNITIONS PLANTS IN ITALY FRUSTRATED BY TURIN POLICE
PARIS, Nov. 30.—A plot of Germans to destroy munitions plants in Italy is said by the Journal in a despatch from San Remo, Italy, to have been discovered by the Turin police. It was learned that the plan apparently was being directed from Lugano, Switzerland, and the case was referred to the Swiss police who arrested a boatman. In the possession of the boatman were found two boxes, labelled chocolate, but filled with dynamite which he was about to ship to Turin.

The Journal's despatch adds that the arrest of other persons, some of them connected with the German consulate, is imminent.

HER SPINE FRACTURED

SNEEZE OR THE SLIGHTEST MOVE OF A MUSCLE MAY CAUSE DEATH OF MISS MARY J. CORT
BOSTON, Nov. 30.—A sneeze or the slightest move of a muscle may cause the death of Miss Mary J. Cort. She lies strapped to a "Bradford frame" in the City hospital to which she was taken yesterday. There surgeons and nurses constantly watch to prevent the least strain upon the spinal cord.

Miss Cort was washing windows yesterday in her home on the third floor of the house at 6 Appleton street. She fell 36 feet, sustaining a fractured arm and spine. Neighbors rushed her to the hospital, where examination proved how precarious her condition is.

Several attempts have been made previously to save the lives of patients under similar conditions, but few have succeeded.

NAVAL SURGEON

Dr. Allan Stuart, U. S. Navy, at Local Recruiting Station

Surgeon Allan Stuart, U. S. Navy, is living in this city, acting as examining surgeon at the local recruiting station.

Dr. Stuart is a native of South Carolina and has served in the navy for about 22 years. He went around the world with the battle fleet, and was regimental surgeon of the 3rd marine regiment at the seizure and occupation of Vera Cruz by the naval forces under Admiral Fletcher April 21-30, 1914. Later on he served in San Domingo and Haiti during the revolutionary outbreaks.

In reply to the Sun reporter's question as to the chances for advancement for a young enlisted man in the naval service today, Dr. Stuart said:

"A warrant or commission is in the 'ditty box' of every enlisted man—provided his character is of the highest and his education thorough—he will have a chance for advancement if he takes advantage of his opportunities.

"The pay of a commissioned officer is $1700 per annum upon entrance and increases with every promotion. The pay of a warrant officer is from $1500 to $2250 per annum.

"There are sixty-six commissioned officers and about one thousand warrant officers on active service who have been advanced from the ranks, which goes to show that under our republican form of government all are born free and equal after all. There are also many commissioned officers in the marine corps who have been enlisted men."

"Lately two enlisted men were successful in winning commissions in the navy corps, one, S. J. Brune, attained an appointment without the assistance of a coach and without any preparation ashore. Mr. Brune is a machinist by trade and is under 24 years of age. After he had mastered his trade he enlisted in the navy. He made a cruise in the Pacific on the U.S.S. Jupiter and served on board that vessel until he was appointed an assistant paymaster. He was well liked by all hands on board the Jupiter and his former shipmates feel proud of his success.

"After serving thirty years in the naval service a man can retire on three-quarters pay if he is receiving when eligible for retirement. A man entering at seventeen retires if he wants to at forty-seven."

HUGH COPPER ORDERS

CONTRACTS AGGREGATING 200,000-000 POUNDS PLACED BY GERMANS IN THIS COUNTRY

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Orders for copper aggregating about 200,000,000 pounds, nearly one-fifth the annual production in the United States, have been placed by German representatives with copper concerns in this country, it was reported today. As copper is quoted at 20 cents a pound, the cost of the German purchases amounts to $40,000,000. In instances where the contracts have been filled the metal has been placed in storage under an agreement to ship it to Germany immediately after the war.

"The orders placed in America amount to nearly four times the annual production of copper in Germany. America produced 1,110,000,000 pounds of copper in 1914.

Within a few months the German government has been commandeering copper wherever it could be found in the German empire.

SHERMAN TO QUIT JOB

LAWRENCE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SECRETARY RESIGNS—HAS MANY FRIENDS HERE

Stephen F. Sherman secretary of the Lawrence chamber of commerce, who has many friends in Lowell, has tendered his resignation to the executive committee of the organization. While it is said that the resignation will in all probability be accepted, Mr. Sherman will retain his membership in the chamber of commerce and continue to reside in Lawrence.

It is also rumored in Lawrence that the present executive committee of the chamber of commerce will resign as soon as some of the work before it is completed, but before doing so it will make certain recommendations to the board of directors. This will be followed by a special meeting of the chamber of commerce for the purpose of taking action upon its future plans.

SEPT. LEO E. VASSON

Lowell Boy With Hospital Corps Now Stationed at Fort Logan Has Been in the Army Five Years

The Sun today received a letter from Sergeant Leo E. Vasson of the hospital corps of the United States army, who is now stationed at Fort Logan, H. Roots, Ariz. Mr. Vasson is a Lowell boy and has been in the army five years, two years of which were spent in the Philippine Islands. Before joining the army, the young man served in the United States navy.

Sergeant Vasson states in his letter that he had a chance to participate in the war across the ocean recently but decided that the United States was good enough for him. He said an officer of the French army tried to persuade him to go to New Orleans and then ship to France. The French officer, he avers, offered to purchase his release from the U. S. army. Mr. Vasson expects to return to this city next spring.

GURLEY FLYNN ON TRIAL

LABOR LEADER ACCUSED OF INCITING TO VIOLENCE DURING STRIKE OF SILK WORKERS

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 30.—Testimony concerning her refusal to testify, Gurley Flynn, a labor leader, was given by witnesses at the opening yesterday of the second trial of Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, a labor leader, on charges of having "incited to personal violence" in speeches she made during the strike of silk mill workers here in 1913.

Chief of Police John Blinson testified that he went to the hall where she was speaking and ordered her to leave town or go to jail and that she refused to comply. Then he ordered her arrest.

Chief Blinson, cross-examined by counsel for the defense, was asked what authority he had to order her to leave town. He replied he assumed the authority in this instance.

DYNAMITE AND BOOZE

JAMES SPICER FALLS ON STREET WITH TWO STICKS OF EXPLOSIVE IN HIS POCKETS

HAVERTHILL, Nov. 30.—James Spicer, 45 years old, a horse shoer, was brought to police headquarters Saturday night under arrest on charges of drunkenness by Motorcycle Officer William H. Kelley. After Spicer had stumbled and slipped all the way up Main street, finally falling in a heap at Main street and Hamilton avenue.

There was nothing remarkable about Spicer's fall or condition, his chief distinction coming when in searching his pockets at police headquarters Captain Hill found two sticks of dynamite and a large iron bar, Spicer explaining gravely to the police that he was intending to drill a well. Spicer had terrorized the neighborhood where he was found by the police prior to his arrest, and had his dangerous cargo been known in advance he would have been given an even wider berth.

The dynamite was taken gingerly from the victim's pockets and placed in the padded cell by Captain Hill and remained there quietly over Sunday, none of the officers taking the trouble or chance of disturbing it. Spicer pleaded guilty to drunkenness in the district court yesterday morning before Judge Winn and was fined $10, sentence being suspended to Dec. 13. Spicer admitted that dynamite and booze constituted an even more dangerous mixture than booze and gasoline, and when asked what he thought would have happened had the dynamite exploded, James said: "I presume I would have changed my residence."

SATURDAY MORNING PICTURE SHOWS UNDER AUSPICES OF MIDDLESEX WOMEN'S CLUB

The Saturday morning moving picture shows for children, so successfully started at the Playhouse the fall, but given up a short time ago, will be resumed at the Merrimack Square theatre within two weeks. It is proposed to offer to the children entertainments made up of films showing educational topics, fairy stories, etc., for the purpose of interesting the public in a higher class of pictures. The weekly shows at the Playhouse were discontinued on account of the heavy expense. The management of the Merrimack Square theatre, however, has come to the aid of the committee on education of the Middlesex Women's club and offered the use of the theatre for Saturday morning shows. A conference was held yesterday between Alfred S. Black, president and treasurer of the theatre company, Manager W. J. Nelson and the general committee of the Women's club. It is hoped that the performances will be started Saturday, Dec. 11.

The Middlesex Women's club committee in charge of the performances is as follows: Mrs. Carl D. Burr, chairman; Mrs. Charles H. Hobson, Miss Catherine F. Fuller, Mrs. E. L. Albert, chairman of the school committee; Robert F. Murden and John W. Murphy, president and secretary of the board of trade; Miss Helen W. Barnes, president of the Y.W.C.A.; and Thos. R. Williams, boys' secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

BARS WIDOWS' TAG DAY

CHICAGO CITY COUNCIL REVOKES PERMIT—ONCE NOVEMBER, NOW PERMANENT

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—A permit for a widows' tag day was revoked by the city council last night.

Alderman Nance in supporting the revocation declared that since the original tag day came as a novelty a few years ago, the practice has grown so that the days are few when men coming down town to work are not requested to buy tags for some charity.

"It has become a nuisance, and is particularly undesirable in the present instance," said Mr. Nance.

An order directing Mayor Thompson and the judiciary committee of the city council to define a policy for future tag days was adopted.

MILL WORKERS TO MEET

SESSION OF NEW ENGLAND COTTON MILL EMPLOYEES WILL BE HELD JAN. 13

A meeting of the cotton mill workers of New England will be held in Boston Jan. 13, when an attempt will be made to form New England textile workers into one independent organization. The plan was fostered in Fall River by delegates representing unions which recently withdrew from the American Federation of Labor. Ultimately they plan to extend the scope of the work along the lines of the United Textile Workers of America and form a new international union of cotton mill workers.

FOR SIX TRIPLE ALLIANCE

DR. ELIOT URGES DEFENSIVE PACT AT CLOSE OF WAR BETWEEN THE U. S., JAPAN AND THE ALLIES

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—Baron Eliot Shibusawa, Japan's foremost financier, commonly known as the "J. P. Morgan of Japan," and Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, both strongly advocated the formation, at the close of the present war, of a defensive fighting alliance between the United States and Japan and the four allies in the present war, Great Britain, France, Russia and Italy, in after-dinner speeches at the Algonquin club last night.

They should stand squarely together for the freedom of the seas and each should be bound to defend with arms any member of the alliance which was attacked by an outside nation. Baron Shibusawa and Dr. Eliot asserted that they also duplicated each other's views in the statement that the keen competition for Chinese trade between Japan and American business men which is now beginning will prove the most perplexing and difficult problem that the two nations have yet had to face, a problem which will seriously strain the friendly relations of the two countries unless handled with the greatest of tact and sympathetic consideration each for the other.

They said the California difficulties have been as nothing, compared with what the Chinese situation may become.

Baron Shibusawa was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the Boston chamber of commerce. It was attended by 25 leading Boston bankers, business men, publicists and prominent Japanese residents. Louis K. Liggett, president of the chamber, was toastmaster and introduced Dr. Eliot.

Dr. Eliot spoke with warm admiration of Baron Shibusawa as a "pioneer" of extraordinary character in bringing modern corporate organizations and western banking methods into Japan. He said the United States had had a respectable banking system only two years, while Japan had had such a system for 20 years, due to the baron. He praised the facility with which the Japanese adapt and improve the methods originated by other countries, spoke highly of their military art.

PREVENTIVE CENSORSHIP

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—The Crefelder Zeitung of Crefeld has been placed under the so-called preventive censorship—meaning that it must submit its proof to the censor—for printing a communication from a reader protesting against the action of the Red Cross in buying a wreath for the coffin of an English major, Nicholson by name, who had committed suicide in war captivity. The commanding general of the district embracing Crefeld, in communicating his order to the paper, wrote in part:

"Major Nicholson had a severe wound in the spine. He feared complete paralysis and became melancholy. It is a fit of melancholy, as has been established by physicians, he took his own life. Nicholson was an officer commanding high respect, who bore his captivity with dignity. He had made himself beloved among the officers in captivity by his lovable nature and had won the respect of the German officers placed over him through his always correct conduct."

The general says Nicholson even left a note, stating that his suicide had nothing to do with his treatment. In order that his coffin might not lack every decoration, a wreath was bought for four marks by the Red Cross physician, since no other funds were available.

ASHES BY PARCEL POST

THOSE OF QUINCY MAN WHO DIED IN SCOTLAND—WISH FOR BURIAL AT HOME COST 70 CENTS

QUINCY, Nov. 30.—A short time ago the ashes of a former resident of this city reached here by parcel post from Scotland at a cost of 75 cents and were delivered safely to the superintendent of Mt. Wollaston cemetery, where they were buried.

When the man died in Scotland his relatives there wanted to comply with the last wishes of the deceased by sending the body to Quincy for burial. The difference in the expense of sending the body by freight and by parcel post was so great that it was decided to have the body cremated and the ashes sent by parcel post.

GAVE INTERESTING TALK

LOWELL MERCHANTS ADDRESSED
BY NATIONAL DRY GOODS ASSO-CIATION SECRETARY

About 35 local merchants responded to the invitation of the mercantile committee of the Lowell board of trade and partook of a dinner at the D. L. Page Co. banquet room this noon, the meal being followed by a very interesting and instructive address by John T. Kirby of New York, field secretary of the National Dry Goods Association.

Mr. Kirby, in the course of his remarks, condemned the "account charges," said he did not favor an elaboration of store fixtures, gave a few valuable hints concerning newspaper advertising, expressed himself as being opposed to discounts, and, in short, touched up every item of importance in business. His remarks were well received, and at the close of his address the speaker was given a rising vote of thanks.

John T. Kirby of New York, field secretary of the National Dry Goods Association, was introduced by Harry J. Chaffoux, chairman of the mercantile committee of the board of trade, and he spoke in part as follows:

Business has got to organize. We seek to bring about better relations between employers and employees and this is to be done through education. There are many bad practices in business. Some claim that they can be adjusted through legislation. Something that business has to fear is adverse legislation. Who makes your laws? Not business men. This is wrong and it has to be rectified otherwise you will have a merchants' rebellion.

The speaker then touched upon the Stevens' bill and said his association is in favor of price maintaining laws. We do not believe in selling goods underpriced as a bait. Price making by law will never succeed, if

ON "MORTAL SIN"

Eloquent Sermon by

Rev. Fr. Stanton at

Sacred Heart Church

"Mortal Sin" was the subject of an eloquent sermon preached by Rev. William Stanton, O.M.I., at the women's mission at the Sacred Heart church last evening. Long before the announced time for the beginning of the services the church was crowded, and extra seats were placed in the sanctuary, while others occupied chairs in the choir loft. At 7.30 o'clock every available space was utilized and the preacher expressed his gratification at seeing so many in attendance on the second night of the week's services. He urged all to continue their attendance and thereby attain the blessings of God.

Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O.M.I., gave the instructions, speaking on confession after which there was congregational singing and recitation of the rosary. Fr. Stanton, speaking on the subject, "Mortal Sin," first explained in detail the nature and enormity of this great crime against God's law; the sin that destroys the soul and deserves death. He then explained the commission of mortal sin, the actual commission of the sin itself and being the occasion of sin. The greatest safeguard against mortal sin, he said, is to avoid the occasion of sin. If one's company or the places frequented offer the occasion for sin, avoid them. If one is the occasion, that party should lose no time in appearing at confession and be cleansed and sent forth a true soldier of God prepared to lead a life free from sin in the future. Environment is largely responsible for sin, said the speaker, so all should be careful and should discriminate in their choice of companions and of places, of amusement and recreation.

"Even Christ was tempted," said the speaker, "so none are immune from the temptations of the devil, the vanities of the world and the temptations of the flesh and senses. But all are given an opportunity to fight against these evils by keeping the commandments of the church, and by regular attendance at mass and by frequenting the sacraments. Go to mass every Sunday, approach the confessional often, and shun the occasions of sin. By carrying out these instructions you will ever be prepared to meet the inevitable and when you are called from this earth you will have the assurance of facing your God on judgment day."

TO ASSIGN MEMBERS

DEMOCRATS OF HOUSE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE MEET AGAIN TODAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Democrats of the house ways and means committee met again today to assign members to committees in continuation of the work of organization for the coming session of congress. It probably will take several days before the assignments can be worked out. The committee, as a result of Minority Leader Mann's request for larger representation on all committees in view of the increased minority membership, has tentatively agreed to add one additional republican to the ways and means, judiciary, military, naval and judiciary committees.

The special rules committee of the senate, of which Senator Owen of Oklahoma is chairman, also met today to decide on the form of closure rule to be laid before the caucus of senate democrats. It was to await, among other things, the committee's recommendations that the caucus adjourned over until tomorrow.

The house special budget committee failed to reach an agreement on its meeting last night on any specific plan. A recommendation probably will be made to the house that further consideration be given to the various budget plans.

CASES AGAINST OCEANIC STEAM
NAVIGATION CO. RESUMED—DI-
VORCE COURT CASES

The case of Elie Laporte and Dr. Samuel Patenaude against the Oceanic Steam Navigation Co., on double action of contract, was resumed in the civil court this morning before Judge Keating. The ad damnum in each case is $2,000.

William D. Regan of this city appears for the plaintiffs and Messrs. Jones, Budgett, Hubert and Bingham for the company.

In his declaration Mr. Laporte states that on or about March 4, 1914, he purchased from the steamship company a passage ticket for a cruise on the steamship "Laurentic" paying the sum of $115 for the round trip to the various ports and places to be included in the cruise. Mr. Laporte states that he went to Havana on March 7, 1914, and presented himself at the wharf of the "Laurentic," but the steamship officials refused to accept him for passage on the steamship.

The plaintiff claims at the time he was recovering from a long and serious illness and that he had decided to undertake the trip for the benefit of his health. As a result of the disappointment, the declaration states that the plaintiff suffered much mental pain, was put to much expense, annoyance and loss of time and that the passage money was not returned to him. Dr. Patenaude's declaration was similar to that made by Mr. Laporte.

Harvey Mead, director of the cruise which Mr. Laporte and Dr. Patenaude were to have taken, was on the stand nearly all morning. On direct examination by Lawyer Jones, Mr. Mead said that because of the bubonic plague existing in Havana at that time and because of the severe quarantine laws in effect at the various ports, no passengers could be taken aboard. This was true, he said, in Havana, and he was not permitted to deck his steamship, Capt. John Mathias, who was in charge of the steamship chartered for the cruise, is now somewhere in the war zone, and could not be located for the trial. His home is in New Brighton, England.

TERRY McGOVERN'S DEFEAT BY CORBETT WAS THE WORST UPHEAVAL OF FORM

Many big surprises have been pulled off in the ring. Corbett's defeat of Sullivan came as quite a shock to many fans. Jess Willard's triumph over Jack Johnson was not predicted by many prophets. Every follower of the game can recall several instances in which the dope was upset and the dark horse won.

After a mental review of all such cases, however, the present scribble is unable to recall a more sensational surprise than that which was pulled off in Hartford, Conn., fourteen years ago on November 28, 1901. It is scarcely necessary to give the seasoned fight fan the names of the principals—the date and the place instantly suggests the names of Terry McGovern and Young Corbett.

There isn't much interest in the featherweight division in these days, but back when the century was an infant the little fellows were the cynosure of the optics of the fight world. And what a fine bunch of them there was, tubby sure! Terry McGovern—there was never another such scrapper as the little Brooklynite; George Dixon, cleverness personified; Dave Sullivan, Billy Smith, Ben Jordan, Eddie Santry, Kid Broad, Tommy Sullivan, Joe Bernstein, Hugh McWhorter, Jack McCloud, George Gardner, Joe Gardner—the whole darned Gardner family; Abe Attell, Tommy White, and so on, and so on. Some crowd!

The featherweight championship battle between Brooklyn's terror and Denver's pride was a Thanksgiving day feature at Hartford, and fans from New York, Boston, and all over New England were there to see McGovern wipe up the ring with Young Corbett to make a Hartford holiday. The Denver boy had a sprinkling of followers, who were willing to back their judgment with the big mob couldn't see Corbett with a telescope. They thought Terry was invincible, and the betting was largely on the question of how long the bout would last before the cherub-like westerner took a snooze. As the time for the contest drew near, and Terry didn't appear, the Denverite went to the Brooklyn boy's dressing room and pounded on the door. "Come on, McGovern, and take your medicine," shouted Young Corbett. Terry was aghast at the temerity of the rude fellow from the west in daring thus to address him. Terrible Terry, the unbeaten and unbeat-able, pretty soon Terry was hollering inwardly—raging like a teapot under a full head of steam.

Disregarding his usual caution, Terry rushed in anxious to end the matter with a blow. Young Corbett stopped him with a stiff right. And then they went to it, cramming more action into a first round than one now customarily sees in a ten-round encounter. Big-brother, padded fists thumped on pink bodies like hail beating on a tin roof. Toward the end Young Corbett got in a good one that stretched Terry out, but he bounced up again fuller of fight than ever.

The second round, as long as it lasted, was like the first, even more so. The Denverite got in another wallop that sent Terry tottering to the floor. McGovern then tore in and for a little while he had the Denverite backed against the ropes, giving an imitation of a mild turtle in his attempt to get back up.

McGovern's friends cheered wildly, thinking the end was near. It was, but not the way they figured it. Young Corbett slipped out of his precarious position, with Terry after him. The latter started another blow, but Corbett beat him to it. McGovern went down like a felled tree before the butcher, and the referee counted ten. Terry was an "ex."

SPORTING NEWS

The colonial lingua may be abandoned next year. Things do not look very bright for a start.

Eddie Cawley, the Colby football star, who came home for the holidays returned to the Maine institution Sunday night.

Hickey Lyons has been selected to manage the Palmer club basketball team. Games are wanted with the Y.M.C.A. and C.Y.M.C. squads.

Severely high which won the football championship of Essex county will go to Chicago on Dec. 4, for a game with De Paul academy eleven.

Everett high eleven, conquerors of the Walham high warriors will now play Detroit Central high for the schoolboy championship of the country.

A report is current that George Stoval will manage the Newark Reds in 1916 and will not be connected with the New York team as reported in Gotham.

New York scribs think Fritz Malsel will be seen in the "Yankees" outfield next season and that Babe Bauman, formerly of the New England league will be seen in the vacancy made by the shift at third base.

Referee McDonald, a new official recently elected by the managers of the various teams in the Massachusetts Central Basketball league will be the decision maker at the game to be played here tonight against Milford.

Chet Martel is still leading the individual celebrities in the City Bowling league, although several others have better averages than he. Martel has rolled in nearly every game and his average of a little over 105 is on a par with his bowling of last year.

With the football season over, the students of the high school will now interest themselves in the track. The local institution has plenty of good material for a track team. Track and football are the two best paying propositions in high school athletics.

Liston, Lynch and several of this year's team will be back at school next year. If the school authorities are fortunate in securing the services of Coach Conway again, Lowell high should be in line for the state championship next fall.

Tom Leonard, coach of the Nashua high school football team was the object of a near riot Thanksgiving night when he attempted to protest against a decision of the officials during the third period of the Manchester-Nashua football game. Leonard was struck in the face by a Manchester supporter and a detail of police was necessary to rescue him from the crowd.

Eddie McCormack has startled local bowling circles by hurling a challenge at Kempton, the lucky fireman for a game at the white sticks. The match is for ten strings, the first five to be rolled at the Crescent alleys and the remainder at the White Way surface. Both McCormack and Kempton have a large following and the match is bound to prove immensely interesting.

An example of real school spirit and loyalty was shown at the Lowell-Lawrence football game Thanksgiving morning when over 4,000 people turned out to witness the annual struggle between the two great schoolboy rivals. Hundreds went from this city to cheer the local team on to victory. Bands were engaged by both teams and enthusiastic cheering squads vied with each other on opposite sides of the field. The local squad of gridiron warriors gave a wonderful exhibition of gamesmanship and the students displayed a spirit of loyalty and support never before witnessed on a Lawrence field.

Arthur McCann, son of Police Officer Matt McCann, gave a very good account of himself on the gridiron this season and he should not be overlooked in selecting the All-Merrimack valley team. McCann played in every game and while his work wasn't of the shining order he went along consistently and his determination frequently held up the spirit of the front line. McCann played the game for all it was worth and in the game against Lawrence he covered himself with glory. He will make a very valuable man for next year's team.

Although the object of attack in every game in which he was entered this year, Eddie Cawley, the Colby college athlete stood his ground without flinching and as a result of his excellent all-around work he has been selected by every sporting writer in Maine for a position on the All-Maine eleven. Eddie spent a few days over Thanksgiving at the home of his father, Edward Cawley in Rogersville, Me. The Belvidere athlete scored more than three-quarters of the points credited to the Colby eleven.

The Bay State League which was to be formed with the White Bears of Winthrop, the Crescent Five of this city, the Cambridge Five of Cambridge, and the L.M.A.A. of Lawrence, looks as though it would not start, because of the management of the White Bears being unable to make a go of the game at Winthrop. The Winthrop aggregation which was supposed to open the league season here last night cannot seem to locate a hall anywhere that looks like a good paying proposition.

Frank Barraclough, who was seen here last year in the series of basketball games between the Centralville Five and the Belvidere aggregation, and who has been a regular member of the L.M.A.A. team for the past two years has been elected captain of the Lawrence team for the coming season, succeeding Jack Lacasse. He will have complete charge of the playing end of the game. The bushers end is in charge of Leon Walte, who is well known here as one of the most gentlemanly players engaged in the sport. Leon Lacasse is not playing with the Lawrence quintet this season either and his place is taken by Harry Wilson, who captained the down-river Y.M.C.A. team last season. The Lawrence team will journey to Lewiston tonight for a game with Vance's Lewiston outfit.

Here's one to T. Nelson Metcalfe, the Oberlin gent, who coached the Columbia football team this season, and thereby brought 100,000 toward a stadium to Morningtide Heights. The conditions under which the stadium was appraised by an anonymous individual were that the blue and white eleven go through its first year without a defeat. He made the promise at the beginning of the year, and T. Nelson and his team went through for a touchdown.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL NOTES

Well, the season is over for good, and Lowell finished in grand shape.

Jimmy Liston, the Belvidere speed maver, will in all probability be seen at the head of the parade next year. His playing during the past season makes him worthy of the position and we think he is competent enough to bring out a winning team.

"Lowell certainly lived up to her reputation," says a Lawrence writer, "for playing her best game against Lawrence, and the way Lynch ploughed through the Lawrence line proved it."

A Lawrence scrib suggests another meeting between Lowell and Lawrence eleven, and he thinks that a very opportune date would be next Saturday. It is doubtful if the school authorities of Lawrence would stand for the meeting, and even if they did, it would be no go, as Principal Irish would oppose the proposition.

Mike Quinn, who played football for the first time this season, it to be commended for his work on the team. Quinn knew practically nothing about the game when he started, but after careful study and strict application to the advice handed out by Coach Conway, he soon became a very valuable man. Quinn is also away up in his studies which is another item to his credit.

Although it is impossible to ascertain the exact amount of money taken in at the annual Haverhill-St. John's game at this time, the management of the St. John's aggregation has roughly estimated the receipts at $2100. The amount includes the revenue from the sale of general admission tickets, reserved seats and auto parking. St. John's share is 40 per cent. of the general gate receipts, the prep school receiving nothing from the reserved seats and the auto parking.

Making good on every chance during a regular contest, "Hoosier" Roane, who was honored by being chosen quarterback on the All-Merrimack valley eleven by many sporting writers, made a remarkable showing in the line of his movement of his team against the heavy opposition of high school eleven. Roane was hurt in the game with Nashua, but he was back in harness in two weeks' time and he performed very creditably against Haverhill, Lowell, and Lawrence.

Ralph Pearson, who has played a brilliant game of football for the Haverhill high school eleven at undoubtably during the past season will undoubtedly be the choice of the letter men for this campaign. Although there are several eligible for the position, Pearson will be unopposed for the position. Pearson has been first string fullback for two seasons. He was hurt up with a broken leg at the time Haverhill played here and was forced to forego the pleasure of seeing him perform. Pearson can be compared with Lynch, as one of the best schoolboy fullbacks in this section.

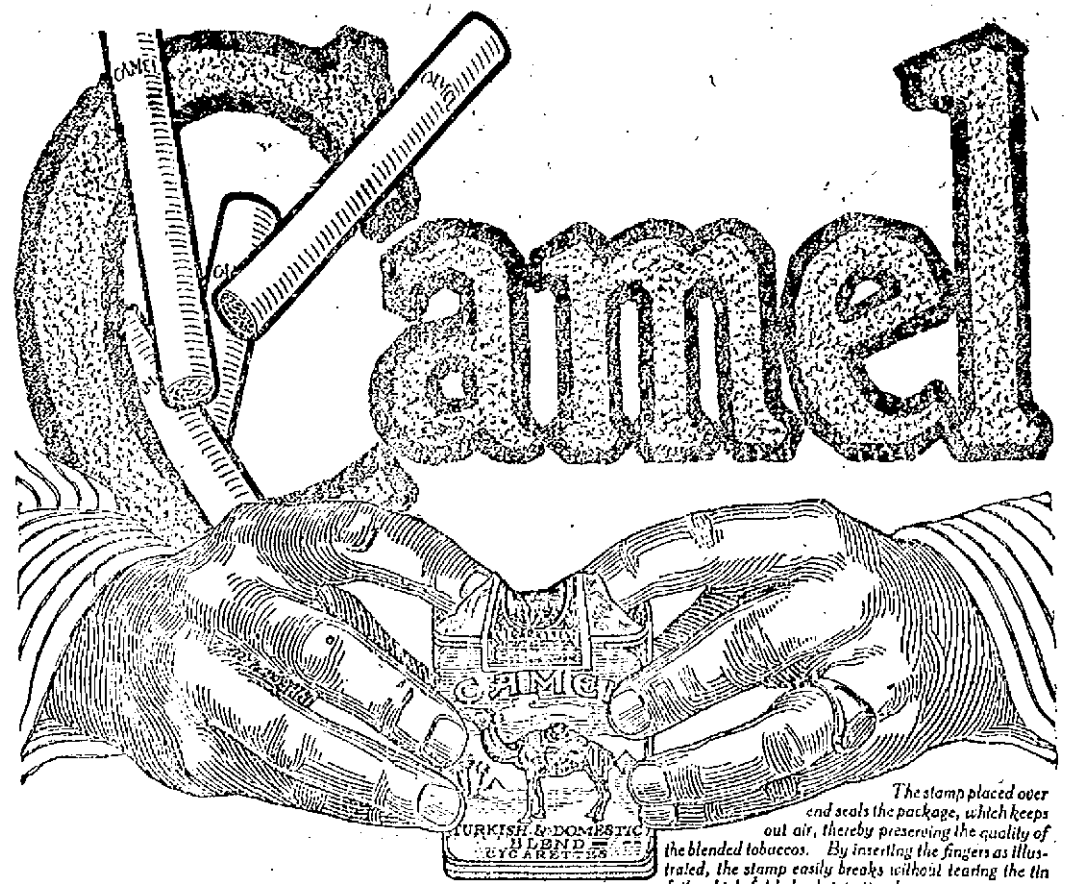

Desmond, of the Lowell high school eleven, was one of the stars of the season, and his election from the Lawrence game, through no fault of his own, was a severe blow to the team. During the entire playing schedule, Desmond was a great power to the local eleven. His long runs, fine plunges and spectacular tackles aided greatly in making the 1915 season one of the most successful in recent years.

WITH THE PADDED MITTS

Ted Lewis and Mike Glover top the Atlas A.A. Bill tonight in a 12-round all-Maine event. Glover, look like a real boxer, and he has been in the ring before at Boston and the two men are expecting a repetition of the last contest. The only time Glover fought Lewis in the lower division was when they shook hands at the start and at the end of the fight, so it can be seen how easily Lewis outclassed him. Lewis, however, claims he can do better tonight. This takes the place of the Charlie White-Lewis bout which White pulled off as it would be foolhardy to take the risk when he has the first bout in which Freddie Welsh will defend his title and a setback from Lewis would mean no chance at the title. Lewis would beat White, we think in a limited number of rounds.

Joe Burns and Johnny "Kid" Alberts are principals at Lawrence next Thursday night in a 12-round event. Burns is well known throughout the state, having appeared in many prize fights in New England and won two titles, the Atlantic and the World. He recently beat Ray Wood at New Bedford in easy fashion, and he has the same fans here. Alberts is also a well known contender, for he has won a number of fights and has a record of 10 wins and 10 losses. He is expected to be a tough fight for Burns.

Pathey Bock will get the Christmas fight at Lawrence and his opponent will be Harry Carlson of Brookline, providing Carlson will make 125 pounds. This is the first time Carlson will make the weight. Howard Melton will get the assignment. The fans want to see Bock and Carlson again in action and if Jim Griley can secure this team, he will make a ten-strike, for this bout is positively the best drawing attraction and Criley knows it.

Larry Burns, not discouraged on account of his recent reverse at the hands of Dick Stosh, will get a chance to show his wares at Portland, Me., on Dec. 7 and his vis-a-vis will be Johnny Lustig of New York. Burns has built up a reputation as a ten-round bout, this will be a 12-round bout (Maine style).

Here is Ted Lewis' record since leaving Australia:

LESS DRUNKENNESS

Official Police Approval Given No-Treating Ordinance in England—Conditions Greatly Improved

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Official police approval is given to the no-treating ordinance in a report from the headquarters of the Metropolitan police on its workings from October 11 (when it went into effect) to November 1. The police report generally that less drink is being sold, fewer people visit the saloons, and those who do stay for a shorter time than before, and there is less drunkenness, especially among women. The ordinance is being punctually observed, the police say, by all the 12,665 licensed places in the London area.

The report says, in part: "There is a consensus of opinion among the superintendents of all 21-visions that drunkenness generally, and among women in particular, has decreased.

"A marked diminution in the number of women and children standing outside public houses drinking has been noticed, and in many districts the practice has ceased altogether.

"Police have invariably found fewer people on licensed premises and a tendency to make shorter stays has been observed.

"Practically no breaches of order have occurred, and licensees and their servants have shown at all times their willingness to assist the police."

LEAGUE GAMES ROLLED MILFORD. HERE TONIGHT ALL STARS VS. INDIANS

BOWLERS BUSY ON THE LOCAL ALLEYS LAST NIGHT—SEVERAL GOOD CONTESTS

The bowlers turned out in large numbers last night and several hotly contested games were played.

There were two games played in the Kitchin league, both of which were close. The Pickers and Feeders battled for three strings and although the former team won the total pinfall by three pins the teams were "even Steven," each winning two points. Gordon of the Feeders was high man with a triple of 325.

In the game between the Openers and Conveyors, the former team took three of the four points. Harroll of the losing team being the only man to travel over the three century mark.

The game between the Dooley Milkmen and the Baldwin club in the Kitchin league Minor proved to be a walkover for the former team, who won all four points. Paul of the winning team was the all-star.

The Washingtons and Brownies had it in the Y.M.C.A. league and while the former team won, the Brownies captured the second string.

While the game between the Woodhills and the Woodies was close, the latter team did not have a look-in when it came to points.

There were two battles in the Woodhills league, that between the One and Two teams resulting in a victory for the No. 2 team the contest between the Three and Four teams proved to be a walkover for the latter team.

The scores:

LEAGUE LEADERS MEET LOWELL QUINTELL IN ASSOCIATE HALL CAGE

The crack Milford team, leaders in the Central Massachusetts league race, will be the opposing force to be tackled by Harry "Bucky" Lewis' Lowell quintet in the Associate Hall cage tonight, and indications point to a very thrilling battle.

The Milford team will be accompanied to this city by a large delegation of rooters, and if they don't make Associate hall ring with enthusiasm we miss our guess. Milford defeated Lowell on Thanksgiving night in the Milford armory, when three of Lowell's best players were missing. Consequently, the Draper town team was easy going and won the game by a very substantial margin.

At that time, it was the opinion of several Lowell people who witnessed the game that with the regular men in Lowell's lineup, the local quintet would have won, but in view of the fact that Milford defeated Worcester on Saturday night on the latter's home floor by an even greater score than Lowell won here, the certainty of an easy win is reasonably assured.

The Milford quintet is a speedy aggregation, and every one of its members can romp around the floor at amazing speed. Allston, Kenney and Vance, who will come here with the team, are rated as three of the best men in the state, and their work against Lowell last week certainly justifies their rating. Kenney, who plays at guard, is one of the best basket shooters in the country, and the Lowell forward who plays him will have his hands full following him around. Allston is a wonderful little player, who always wears a smile that just won't come off. No matter how hard the going is, he always retains that smile, and that grin certainly did get the "roasts" of a few of the local subscribers in the game on Thanksgiving night.

Besides speed, the Draper town team can rough it, if it needs be, as is evidenced by the game played against Worcester Saturday night, and about which the Worcester Telegram had the following to say:

"Over 100 Milford fans, armed with megaphones, rivaled the Worcester fanatics in cheers and shouts. It was almost impossible at times to hear the referee's whistle. Some of the Milford patrons hissed the Kilgilt players, while they applauded the rough tactics of their own men."

"The game started cleanly, but it was only a few minutes before players on both teams were committing fouls. It was impossible for Referee Haley to see all the fouls made. While he was watching the action of the floor where players were in action, behind him some players were tossing another into the crowd, following his shove, with a straight arm. The other player would have been hurt with a thrust and it was a toss-up which team was the more to blame."

"The Milford players played a defensive game most of the time, except when it had the ball near its opponents' basket. The visitors followed the Knights like leeches, and piled themselves lengthwise on the backs of the home players. Only three baskets from the floor were scored by the Knights, one coming in each period."

GREAT FOOTBALL COACH

REV. WM. STANTON, O.M.I., NOW IN LOWELL, TURNED OUT CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM

One of the greatest college football coaches the Canadian game has ever known, says a Canadian despatch, is the Rev. W. J. Stanton, O.M.I., who is at present on a mission tour in this city. Rev. Fr. Stanton, with Rev. Fr. Sullivan, opened a two weeks' mission at the Sacred Heart church Sunday evening.

During the mission given by Fr. Stanton last week at the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, Beachmont, Rev. J. W. Hickey, pastor of the church and his assistant, Rev. James Leo McGuinness, happened to see a paper sent to Fr. Stanton from Ottawa. It contained a tribute to Fr. Stanton from a Canadian athlete. Fr. Stanton before coming to this city was for several years professor of English at Ottawa university.

Coached Unbeaten Team

During that time he gathered together the material for a football team that beat every college team that came here in the Regina League. It says in part: "Conspicuous by his absence from Canadian rugby this fall is the Rev. Fr. Stanton, formerly coach of the Ottawa university and Ottawa football clubs. Since the fall of 1907, he has almost continuously acted in the capacity of coach to the college football, baseball and track teams. His reputation was probably greatest in 1907, when for the first time Ottawa college won the intercollegiate championship. He had the highest team in the league that year. In 1911, Fr. Stanton's team finished in second place."

"Fr. Stanton was really the coach who was responsible for the abolition of some of the superstitious beliefs and the creation of flying wings. In 1911 he used only two men behind the line, with another man about two feet behind the scrimmage to break up any plays too close for the ballbacks." Mentioning the names of several men who were at one time or another on teams coached by Fr. Stanton, the article says: "These men are all stars and owe a good deal of their success to Fr. Stanton's coaching. He has probably produced more punters than any coach in the Canadian game. His motto was: 'You are never licked till you quit,' and it was drilled into the Ottawa players' heads, for any Ottawa player who quit, he was just as hard when they were behind as when they were winning. Fr. Stanton also coached many good hockey teams."

PLANS FOR BIG FOOTBALL GAME AT SPALDING PARK NEXT SATURDAY

The announcement of another game on the gridiron between Cecil P. Dodge's team of All Stars and the Indians will surely be received with acclaim by the football fans of the city, especially by the several hundred followers of the sport who witnessed the memorable battle of last year when both teams wallowed in the mud at Spalding park for four highly exciting periods, the All Stars finally winning by a close score.

Arrangements for Saturday's game were completed last night when the managers of both teams met at the town office and came to an amicable understanding as to terms and agreed to play the game. The battle which will be staged at Spalding park will be called to order promptly at 2 P.M. and the officials will be Dr. Matt Mahoney, referee, and Joseph L. Cronin, umpire. Other officials will be appointed at another meeting to be held tonight when the managers will post their lineups.

The Indian team will be composed of practically the same stars who played in the big game last year, while several radical shifts will be made in the All Stars' lineup.

Jackson Palmer, the husky lawyer, who gave such a wonderful exhibition at Spalding park last year, will be out of the game this year and his place will be taken by either McDams, the crack high school center, or Hoxley, the Lowell Textile athlete.

Goal Dodge will play at quarterback. The former high school and Dartmouth college star is in excellent condition save for the shoulder that was injured in a collision about a year ago and he is having a steel brace made to strengthen the member for the big game. Morrill and Capt. Powers, both Textile players, will be used as the pivot point of the team when the occasion demands.

For ends, the All Stars will have Hadley, who played a stellar game for Textile this year and Desmond and Linton of the high school squad. Desmond is a good man at the wing position, while Linton is one of the best schoolboy ends in the state.

McDonald and Shepard of Textile and Arthur McCann of the high school team have been selected for tackle positions and McCann, of the high school squad and Lawrence, of the Textile team, will play guards. Capt. James "Roundy" Bond will very likely be given a chance at quarterback along with Dodge, Morrill and Capt. Powers.

The All-Stars' backfield will be composed of Barry, Ralph Canney, Arthur Lynch, Baker and O'Connell. Barry is considered one of the best men that ever played on the gridiron. Lynch is a moody street institution, while those who followed the game but a few years back can readily testify as to Canney's worth.

Lynch was chosen fullback on the All-Merrimack valley team for his great work the past year and he will give the Indians no end of trouble when he starts line plunging. Baker and O'Connell showed to advantage on the Textile eleven during the season just passed. The Indian lineup will be given out tomorrow.

KIMBALL SYSTEM BOWLERS

As a result of a difference of opinion between the bowling teams of the Kimball System of 1914 and 1915 teams as to superiority, the first of a series of three games was played on the alleys last night, and the 1915 had little difficulty in asserting its rights as to the title. At no stage of the game was the losing team on the running despite the fact that "Eddie" Dooly, the star player of last year's team, was in the lineup. The score:

FED PARK IN GOTHAM

Ball Grounds Site Covers Area of 184 City Lots—Cost $1,250,000—Located at 145th Street and Lenox Avenue

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Announcement was made yesterday that the Federal league headquarters that the grounds secured for the New York Federal club cost $1,250,000. The location is at 143rd street and Lenox avenue, extending to the Harlem river.

The names of the financial backers of the club, it was stated, will be withheld until the annual meeting is held.

The plot covers an area equivalent to 133 city lots. The playing field, it is said, will be the largest major league park in the country.

Plans have been perfected for the erection of a postpaid double-tier grandstand, capable of seating 35,000 persons, and eventually seating accommodations will be arranged for 20,000 more. The site is easily accessible from all points in the Bronx and Manhattan boroughs.

In England women are barred from practicing either as lawyers or barristers.

SIR HORACE PLUNKETT

Declares America Should Launch Citizenship Movement for Organization Among Farmers

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Declaring that America should launch a citizenship movement for the organization among farmers of self-help, the Right Honorable Sir Horace Plunkett, K.C.V.O., of Dublin, Ireland, last night addressed the opening session of the third national conference on marketing and farm credits, speaking to delegates from 40 states.

The speaker came across the ocean to address it as the first of a series of talks and conferences that he will hold throughout the United States, with the end in view of organizing American agriculture. He was the first inditer of agriculture of Ireland and called the "father of the Irish co-operative movement" which has under its wings 105,000 Irish farmers organized into 1000 co-operative societies.

He described the weak spot in American rural economics as being a lack of business organization among farmers. He dwelt upon the chaotic conditions that accompany the marketing of farmers' products and the purchasing of farmers' supplies. He showed how the cities of America and other nations have been developed at the expense of the countryside. He declared the time is ripe for all public spirited persons to interest themselves in the fundamental development of agriculture.

"They must get together," he said, "they must eliminate waste, or America will fall behind more competent nations."

He showed how the co-operative movement of Europe has stood the test of the greatest crises in the world's history and dwelt at length upon the sharpening of the business ability of the co-operative managers as a result of present stringent conditions. Not only must America learn to organize her food supply he said, to meet critical periods such as war, but America must prepare for the great international competition which is bound to strike the American farmer keenest since he is farthest behind in organization for his own interest. This damage to the farmer will be reflected in every other industry; for America is still dominantly a farming country, said Sir Horace.

"Allow me to utter the warning which will have to be faced in the United States and Canada, as well as in the United Kingdom in France, in Germany and in other countries," he continued. "This relates to the very vital problem of co-operative finance, both what is called 'long term' or 'real credit' and 'short term' or 'personal credit.' Finance is, indeed, a vital part of the co-operative organism."

"There is nothing more vital for the co-operative movement than that it should clearly sound also a note of self-help. Looking not only to the future of America, but at the movement in the old world today, this idea stirs the depths of my feelings, that while the state must give its aid to the co-operative movement, it must seek to obtain for it the greatest possible freedom."

Secretary Holman's Address

How the huge rear estate deal in the history of the world was consummated by the British government buying out the Irish landlords and reselling the property to the tenants was told by Secretary Charles W. Holman of the National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits to that body.

How the principle so successful in Ireland could be administered in America was explained by the speaker, who recently returned from Great Britain where he made a study of Irish land legislation and administration. Holman urged the adoption by congress of that section of the report of the United States commission on industrial relations which dealt with the land problem. He was in charge of the field studies made by the commission.

"The state aid of land purchase," he said, "lies the immediate hope of the American farm tenant, for by that means only can we hope for a quick action to stem the growing tide of landlordism."

Secretary Holman credited state-aided land purchase in Ireland with these benefits:

The industry of occupiers has increased; farm houses and farm out-buildings have improved; the tendency to sell interests in land has decreased; the tendency to sublet and divide holdings has become almost dormant; the tendency of the occupiers has improved; there is a feeling of contentment; a prevalence of law and order that did not exist under landlord and tenant relations.

"What a contrast this affords against the American movement towards tenancy," the speaker said. "In Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, New York, Ohio, and Pennsylvania tenant farmers have increased by 121,657, while the number of home owning farmers has actually decreased by 62,915. But in Texas and Oklahoma we find about the saddest disillusionment of American hopes for home ownership. Forty years ago Texas had 65,445 tenant families. That number comprised 37.8 per cent of all the farms in the state. In 1910 the tenant farmers had increased to 219,571, which made 33 per cent of all the farms in the state.

"In Oklahoma 54.8 per cent of the state is in the hands of tenant farmers and in the 47 counties where tenancy is highest the percentage runs to 65.3."

"If we take the 25 most prosperous states of the union—the states that produce the greater part of the cotton, corn, dairy wheat and the fruit stuffs of the nation, we may easily estimate 2,400,000 homeless families who have not survived the competitive pressure for land ownership. In these same states the concentration of land ownership is progressing at a speed that is no less than tragic."

"In the southwestern states, the rate of tenant increase over the home owning increase is two to one. In the middle western states of Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Ohio and Iowa the tenants are becoming more numerous than home owners."

"America cannot evade this growing land question. The American people must recognize that ours is the last of the first-class countries to recognize the need of fixing upon a sound land policy. How to redistribute the population upon the land, how to care for the inswarming immigrants, how to readjust the relation of city to country must be the great issues of the immediate future."

BRITISH LOSSES

Total Casualties Since Beginning of Hostilities 600,000

LONDON, Nov. 30.—British casualty lists published during November total 1232 officers and 45,184 non-commissioned officers and men in all fields of war, bring the total since the beginning of hostilities up to approximately 600,000.

Heavy as were the losses in killed, wounded and missing for the present month they were much lighter than in October, when the names of 3110 officers and 71,157 non-commissioned officers and men were included in the lists.

A statement issued in London Oct. 29 gave the British casualties from the beginning of the war to October 9, as 425,291. The total among officers in that period was 21,293 and among other ranks 472,001.

DOLLAR DAY AT POLLARD'S

The firm of A. G. Pollard Co. has entered enthusiastically into the Dollar day movement which, promoted by the Lowell board of trade, will be observed tomorrow. Countless numbers of bargains will be offered to the Lowell public. The sale of the goods—seasonable merchandise—at Pollard's does not include merely one individual department or counter, but extends through the entire store. Nothing will be exempt; the Dollar mark-down will be on every article in the store. The sale is the most unique ever held by this firm in the fact that it reduces the price in every department and continues for one day only and the day is tomorrow.

The Dollar day sale at A. G. Pollard's is in no sense a clearance sale, the marking down on prices of old goods, but is rather an exceptional opportunity to buy at greatly reduced prices the very goods which those who do not buy today will purchase in a week or two hence as Christmas gifts at the regular every day prices. Never has this store presented to the public such an opportunity to obtain merchandise which will serve as useful and suitable Christmas gifts at such greatly reduced prices. A wise shopper will purchase now; avoid the Christmas rush; make a choice selection from unbroken lines at prices which are so low that they do not always prevail at sales of greater duration which have made this store celebrated throughout Lowell and vicinity.

It is advisable, therefore, to take a trip through Pollard's early tomorrow and inspect the splendid bargains offered in every department. Buy what you need of this seasonable merchandise and make an unprecedented saving on every purchase.

THE SPELLBINDER

The recount of the vote cast for mayor in the recent primaries, held at city hall, yesterday, demonstrated three things, to wit: that the Lowell electorate as a whole knows how to vote intelligently; that the Lowell precinct officers, as a whole, are good vote-counters; that the Lowell registrar knows how to conduct a recount in an eminently satisfactory manner.

When one considers that there were only 163 blanks out of over 13,000 ballots cast, and that some of these were cast intentionally by men who didn't care for any of the candidates, for such men are to be found at every election, he must conclude that the Lowell voters did a very accurate job at the polls.

As yesterday's recount proceeded the impression was given out and held until the finish that Mayor Murphy was making slight gains and when the last precinct was being counted he was supposed to have a lead of four on the day's count, which together with his two vote lead on the original count would make his corrected total vote six ahead of that of former Mayor O'Donnell. But when the corrected vote was counted up it was found that each had gained four votes and that the mayor still led the former mayor by the narrow margin of two votes.

The wrong impression was probably due to the unintentionally erroneous announcement of gains and losses on the blocks of 50, which could easily happen without detection.

As there was no request for a recount of the aldermanic vote the registrars did not concern themselves with it, except to take an occasional passing glance at the ballots. Hence the numerous bullets said to have been cast were not disclosed, though the fact that they were not shown is no evidence that they did not exist. As a matter of fact they were in existence. The fact that there were only 163 blanks on the mayoralty ticket and over 500 on the aldermanic is the best evidence that hundreds voted for one candidate and passed up the second.

The precinct officers of precinct one of ward nine proved to be the star counters of the occasion. They had sorted out their ballots when counting them, a procedure that assures an accurate count but which takes more time than some precinct officers care to give to the job. Each block of 50 contained 50 votes for one candidate or another.

The reputation of precinct one of ward nine for accurate voting received a jolt in the recount when it was discovered that two blank ballots had been counted as valid by the precinct officers. At the state election when it was announced that the Highland precinct had cast over 500 votes without a blank, the good people of that section were given credit for their fine ability as voters. Then came the primaries with the announcement that over 500 votes had been cast for mayor without a blank. But the recount showed two blanks on the mayoralty. One of them was an improperly marked ballot, the mark in this case being against the name of Dr. Mignault. Two similar mistakes had been ruled on previously, Registrar McCosker having a newspaper clipping containing the law on the case. But on this particular ballot Mayor Murphy raised objections to the registrars' ruling although Lawyer Goldman who represented Dr. Mignault was satisfied with their decision. The vote was recorded as a blank, whereas the precinct officers had given the doctor the vote.

Evidently there are some men who will never know how to vote properly, for each year finds a number of ballots on which the voter has marked too many, or marked his ballot in the wrong place, or made the wrong kind of a mark. In one of the precincts a voter did not mark any names for either mayor or alderman but on the school board ticket he made a cross against the name of every candidate, not in the box provided for the cross, but within the name. Immediately after the names. Another voter marked three candidates for mayor and neglected to vote on the other contests. In one case a voter went to the polls, received his ballot and then deposited it without making a mark of any kind on it. But the great bulk of the record on blanks were those made with all due intelligence, and with intent, the blanks that follow the bullets.

Cheaper Gas

Great is gas and Momand is its prophet. The present talk about cheaper gas brings us back to the halcyon days of Squire McVey and his Chelmsford Gas Light company, when the squire proposed to light the city of Lowell at a cost that would be as a song compared with the price being paid at that time. And there is no doubt that the squire's proposition made the Lowell Gas Light company sick and take notice. Squire McVey proposed to lay pipes from one of the neighboring gas light companies into Chelmsford and then connect with Lowell, metering his gas at Chelmsford and paying the out-of-town company according to the amount used. One of these gas companies had pipes running as close to Lowell as Billerica, and the squire conceived the idea of extending the mains and connecting with the Lowell Gas Light company.

But it didn't materialize, and now we have another proposition while we are also regaled with the amusing spectacle of the municipal council under the "equal rights to all" special privileges for none, solemnly calling for bids on the contract to light the city of Lowell with gas, when there is only one gas light company, and competition is out of the question.

While devoutly hoping that the citizens of Lowell may yet and soon get cheaper gas, from all indications this talk about cheaper gas at the present time is nothing more or less than election talk, not exactly a promise, but of somewhat similar nature. A year ago about at this time without the necessity of borrowing a dollar. There is enough money left over from the street improvement appropriations to buy the land and yet keep everybody in the street department working as long as the outdoor work lasts, and the former mayor suggested that the land be seized forthwith, while two of the members of the council who have promised it next year, are still in the government.

The Ward Four Club

The candidates were out in force at the meeting of the Ward Four Improvement club last evening, a report of which appears elsewhere in this edition. George H. Brown made a hit by declaring that municipal affairs are being administered from the second story of D. L. Page's noontimes, and that he will put a stop to it and have the city's business done at city hall, in open session—if elected.

Relative to the pet improvement desired by the Ward Four club, the establishment of a playground in Chambers street, all promised to give the club what it desires—if elected.

Did I say it? There was one exception, former Mayor O'Donnell, who heaved in doing it now instead of waiting until next year, when it might be forgotten. The former mayor showed how the improvement can be brought

Berube Body Recovered

Almost one week after the Berube boy was drowned, an undertaker by grappling the body, the sewer department having previously dumped the river in a fruitless effort to bring it to the surface. If the city of Lowell had some system for recovering bodies as is in vogue in Boston, Lawrence and other cities, in all probability that body might have been recovered within 24 hours of the fatality and before it had been distressingly mutilated or discolored.

Promises Are Rainpant

One hears on the street that promises are rainpant, all, however, having the reservation—if elected. Judging from the promises made to applicants for positions on the police force, we'll have a wholesale increase in the number of patrolmen next year—if elected.

If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun "Want" column.

SIN No 7600

The recount showed a gain of four votes in Mayor Murphy's total vote, but the final result fell far behind 7600.

One Man Happy

The recount made at least one man happy. He bet one dollar with a friend that Dr. Mignault would get over 3400 votes. His friend bet the doctor would not. The stakeholder was in a quandary but held the money until after the recount. The corrected figures gave Dr. Mignault a gain of 2, or 3402 votes, and the bet was decided.

THE SPELLBINDER.

WAVE OF PROSPERITY

TOKIO, Nov. 30.—Trustees of the stock exchange took unprecedented action today when they suspended operations and cancelled transactions, owing to an exceedingly strong but fluctuating upward movement on wide fluctuations. Tempestuous scenes greeted announcement of the trustees' decision. War purchases by the allies have caused a wave of prosperity all over the country which has been reflected in the market and standard stocks have leaped upward. At today's opening there was a hysterical advance over yesterday's close.
